Priming Bill Signed by Roosevelt.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 21.—[Special.]—After signing the pump priming measure releasing more than 4 billion dollars for immediate spending and lending, today President Roosevelt said that business conditions were not as bad as popularly believed and that he looked for a definite pickup in the future.

The President also announced he will make a radio address on Friday night from the White House that will be broadcast over the three main networks. He will discuss the general state of the nation, the achievements of the recent congress, and probably defend his vast spending program.

Hopes to Regain Favor.

There were definite indications at today's press conference in the small study of his country home that the President has started his 1938 campaign to win back the public favor, so much of which he has lost as a result of the depression. He gave a hint of the tenor of the speeches he will make on a cross-country swing in mid-July.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed a bureau of commerce estimate, not previously made public, that the 1938 national income, based on the first three months of the year, would be slightly more than 60 billions of dollars. This, he said, was a definite improvement over previous estimates of 55 billions. Business, therefore, was not as bad as a lot of people believed it to be, he remarked.

"As somebody remarked the other day," said the President, allowing himself to be quoted directly, "there had been a few raindrops coming from the heavens and possibly they will be followed by a much needed shower."

1937 Income Near 69 Billions.

The national income in 1937 was 69.8 billions, Mr. Roosevelt told the reporters. That was also slightly better than estimates, he said.

Moreover, he declared, the annual wage of full time employés in 1937 was only 9 per cent below the 1929 average, whereas the cost of living last year was 15 per cent below 1929. In other words, he said, it didn't cost as much to live in 1937 for the same income so far as the particular classification of full time employés was concerned.

These statements were made preparatory to the announcement that he had signed the pump priming bill. This measure gives to Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, 1 billion 425 million dollars, to spend in seven or eight months, and 1 billion 365 million dollars to the Public Works administrator for loans and grants.

Farm Fund Raised.

The measure also swells to 362 millions the amount which the secretary of agriculture may spend in his programs and adds 300 millions to the original 500 millions appropriated for housing. The remainder of the spending will be done by the army engineers with 225 millions for river, harbor, flood control, and related projects.

In the last three weeks, the President said, he has been busy approving PWA projects costing several hundred millions which were released by the signing of the bill today.

In almost every case, he said, the first will begin to fly in 60 days, 30 days being required to advertise for bids and another four weeks being needed to get the work under way.

Claims Quite a Record.

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the PWA story as quite a record. In contrast he devoted only a minute to the WPA spending program. The partnership idea holds true for WPA also, he said, and that organization now is in gear and ready to go ahead on July 1.

The WPA projects, he said, will take care of, as far as we possibly can, all the available employable unemployed.

The President signed a number of other bills today of a minor nature. There still are 347 bills, passed by Congress, yet to be acted upon, he disclosed.

LEHMAN IN RACE FOR U. S. SENATE; STIRS FACTIONS

N. Y. Governor Once Roosevelt Friend.

Albany, N. Y., June 21.—(AP)—Herbert H. Lehman, Democratic governor of New York, announced tonight he would accept the nomination to succeed United States Senator Royal S. Copeland if asked to be a candidate and immediately caused a stir in state and national politics.

Gov. H. H. Lehman.

The governor's announcement came unexpectedly within a few hours after funeral services for New York's senior senator who died Friday night in Washington.

"If my party desires me to be a candidate for the office of United States senator to succeed Senator Copeland, I will accept the nomination," he said.

Lehman's third term as governor of New York will expire Dec. 31.

The chief executive, referred to by President Roosevelt as his good right arm when they both were in the state service, has shown a coolness toward the President in recent months. This first became apparent when he opposed Roosevelt's Supreme court packing bill.

[The stir in New York politics began immediately after Lehman's announcement when a group of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia's supporters sent a message to President Roosevelt asking him to back the mayor or some other liberal such as Sidney Hillman, C. I. O. vice chairman, for the senatorship.]

Lehman came to the governorship in 1933 as successor to the newly elected President Roosevelt, and accepted nomination for his third term two years ago on the President's insistence, and as a result of a draft movement by national party leaders.

Counted a Conservative.

Lehman is regarded as one of the conservatives in the state Democratic organization, as was Senator Copeland.

The surprise announcement clears the way for a possible wide open scramble among Democrats for New York's first four year governorship and clarifies the situation for the Republicans.

A few hours after Gov. Lehman's announcement Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor. Others mentioned for the nomination are United States Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, reputedly President Roosevelt's choice, and State Controler Morris S. Tremaine.

Wagner's Plans a Conjecture.

Senator Copeland's term would have expired in 1941. His death makes necessary the election next November of two senators from the state for the first time, inasmuch as the term of Junior Senator Robert F. Wagner expires next Dec. 31.

Whether Wagner will run for reelection is a conjecture. Political observers believe he will be a candidate.

Lehman, since succeeding President Roosevelt in 1933 as governor, has reduced New York state's deficit from 100 million dollars to approximately 10 million.

With Roosevelt in 1928.

Gov. Lehman and President Roosevelt bound their political fortunes together on all major issues from 1928, when they ran on the same state tickets, with Lehman for lieutenant governor, until last year.

In the Democratic state convention a few months later Mr. Roosevelt led a successful fight against Smith and a Tammany upstate coalition which sought to block Lehman's nomination for governor.

Her Plea for Divorce Fades in Son's Tears

It appeared to be another routine divorce hearing. Mrs. Florence Gard had testified to the required acts of cruelty. Her husband, Carl, had not opposed the suit. And Judge William V. Brothers was about to grant the divorce when a young man whom no one had noticed stepped up before the court.

"I want to say something," he began, "can I tell you the truth about this case?"

The judge nodded, then asked the young man who he was.

"I am Carl Gard Jr.," he said, "I was adopted by the Gards at the time of their marriage ten years ago—when I was 11 years old. I know that my father was never cruel, he could not be."

Tears Stop Court Speech.

Then the young man began to weep. He was unable to continue and attorneys explained he was trying to bring about a reconciliation of his foster parents.

Impressed by the youth's earnestness, Judge Brothers called Gard and his wife back to the bench. Then Gard, 40 years old, of 8052 Harvard avenue, told his story. He said his domestic troubles began after he had befriended another man.

"We always got along as well as any married couple," he said, "but last year I took a friend into my home. A week after he left, my wife left. Later my wife returned and we were reconciled.

"And when she says I slapped her, I admit it, but I did it only because she told me of this other man."

Denies There Was Other Man.

"But there wasn't any other man in the case," Mrs. Gard, 35 years old, a nurse, interrupted. "Years ago we didn't get along. My husband wouldn't have what I wanted most—a baby—a family. That was why I stopped loving him."

"I, too, wanted a baby," Gard said, "but not with the prospects of bringing him up in poverty. Later, when I earned more, Florence's health was poor."

Then while his crowded court call waited, Judge Brothers talked to the Gards for more than an hour. He urged them to a reconciliation for the youth's sake.

The judge said he would allow the attorneys to draw up the divorce decree. "But I don't know when I'll sign it," he said, "I want you, Mrs. Gard, to give your husband and son a chance to show how much they love you."

Visibly moved, father and son left the courtroom but Mrs. Gard walked out alone. She went to her home at 417 West 117th street.

KICK OF EMPTY WHISKY KEG ENOUGH TO BREAK MILL WORKER'S LEG

Fennville, Mich., June 21. — (AP) — A whisky keg retained a lot of "kick" today, even though it was empty. Edward Felker, 30 years old, a mill worker, pulled the bung and lighted a match to inspect the keg, which had been lying for hours in the sunlight. The keg exploded, breaking Felker's left ankle and burning him severely about the face, arms, and chest.

Girl Wins Beauty Prize Before 10,000 Murphys

Paxton, Mass., June 21.—[Special.]—Ten thousand Murphys came from all parts of the east to attend an annual conclave of persons by that name held at the farm of Justice Charles S. Murphy near here. Among the various festivities was a beauty contest which was won by Miss Dorothy Murphy of East Providence, R. I. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis J. Murphy of Millis, Mass., and their twelve children carried away honors for the largest family. Their 15 months old baby was the youngest Murphy at the meeting.

Puts Up Sign on Farm: Crop Meddlers Keep Off

Noblesville, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—H. F. O'Neal, a farmer living west of here, is outspoken in opposition to the Roosevelt administration's farm program. A sign erected in front of his farm bears these words: "Government crop meddlers keep off this place. We own this land and expect to run our own business, stay out."

Two Arrested for Keeping Still; It's a Federal Crime

Federal alcohol tax unit raiders explained yesterday afternoon they'd found a still in a garage at the rear of 1439 Adams street and arrested Peter Davolio of 921 South Laflin street and Alfred Martion of 1921 West Taylor street, who, the raiders said, were keeping still. Britain Spends $5,000,000 a Day for Rearmament

LONDON, June 21. — (AP) — Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary for war, declared confidently today that the country is ready to defend itself. We've done wonders in rearmament," he told the council of the progovernment Liberal National party. He estimated the government at present was spending nearly £1,000,000 [about $5,000,000] a day for armaments.

Nature Awes First Visitors at Algonquin

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Three trucks, filled with children and mothers, rattled over the cobblestone drive leading to the main building at Camp Algonquin yesterday, and the institution started its twenty-ninth year. Before the summer is over the trucks will have come and gone twice monthly, until at least 2,500 underprivileged Chicagoans have had a taste of healthful, country living.

Yesterday's opening was not an exuberant one. The air was fresh and sweet with the smell of clover, and the sun beat warmly, casting shadows through the overhanging elms and oaks. It was a perfect day for an outing, yet there was no whooping, and no yelling. That, it seems, is not the way with children who have learned too young the meaning of gratitude. They are shy at first, a little awed and strange.

Receive Identification Tags.

They climbed out of their trucks and lined up obediently on the long camp bench, to have their little identification tags checked. The small ones clung to their mothers, as if in fear of sun and trees, and grass. Some, older, made daring forays into the shady clumps of trees, while only the bravest of the boys peeled off their polo shirts and turned handsprings on the spot.

The mothers, too, were quiet, relaxing. Their tiny babies had been taken from them to the airy turquoise and white nursery where a nurse and her assistants were already preparing bottles. But many of the mothers had four or five children with them, and they could not throw off their burden quickly.

Day to Get Adjusted.

"It'll take till tomorrow," explained Mrs. Astrid Save, superintendent of the camp, "before they get adjusted. Those mothers often tell me they listen here, at first, for the rumble of street cars and the honk of horns just as they do at home. Every time a baby cries they jump to their feet. Soon they will almost forget they have children at all, and that is what we hope. Two safe weeks for the children and two happy weeks for them."

It costs only $25.20 to offer these days to a needy mother and her child, only $9.10 to send one child. The following contributions were received yesterday:

Katharine A. Wells $100.00
Chicago Community Trust—Abbie E. Tyrrell fund 157.93

All donations to the fund should be sent to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and each gift regardless of its size, will be acknowledged.

Flyer Is Killed in North Shore Crash; 1 Hurt

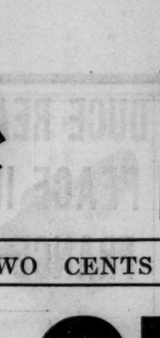
Because a plane's supply of gasoline gave out when it was 250 feet in the air on the takeoff, the pilot was killed yesterday and the owner may die of the injuries he received in the ensuing crash at Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glenview.



Russell Stevenson. [Bowman Photo.]

Russell Stevenson, a commercial pilot 27 years old, who lived at 7301 Sheridan road, was dead when he was pulled from the wreckage. Charles T. Pajeau, president of the Toy Tinkers, Inc., of Evanston, who was stunned, was found to have internal injuries, and to have incurred fractures of both ankles. He was taken to Evanston hospital, where physicians said he had slight chance to recover.

Engine Sputters and Dies.

Ora Young, supervising inspector of the bureau of air commerce, who witnessed the crash from the air, said the plane had just taken off to the northwest when the engine sputtered and stopped at 250 feet altitude.

The machine turned down-wind and began a flat glide back toward the airport, Young said. Flying speed was lost just as it reached the northwest corner of the field and it dropped suddenly, landed on its nose and bounced for 50 feet along the ground. The wings were demolished and the engine hurled into the cabin.

Darr said the men had been flying around the field for two hours during the morning. About 1 o'clock they landed and had luncheon at the airport restaurant. An hour later they went back to the ship and took off.

Both Are Flyers.

Stevenson, a graduate of the Ryan School of Aeronautics at San Diego, Cal., has been flying for several years at Glenview, usually acting as the pilot for Pajeau. The latter, who held a private pilot's license, owned the Fairchild three place high wing monoplane with a 145 horsepower Warner engine.

"I saw the ship taking off just as I was coming in to land," said Young. "Of course I couldn't hear the engine sputter but I saw the abrupt turn back to the field, and noticed that the pilot was stretching his glide.

"The plane finally fell from underneath him, landed on its nose and then bounced. It struck headed down wind but came to a stop headed northward once more. It appears that the engine quit because it ran out of gasoline."

Funeral services for Stevenson will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel at 6960 North Clark street. His body will be cremated at Graceland cemetery.

5 POWERS DRAFT PLAN TO RECALL FOREIGN TROOPS

Aim to Ban Arms for Both Sides.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—Five European nations — Germany, Italy, France, Great Britain, and Russia—which for nearly two years have been supporting one side or the other in the Spanish civil war, openly or covertly, today reached a compromise agreement to put teeth in the nonintervention agreement under which 27 nations agreed to remain neutral.

Representatives of these five nations on the subcommittee of the nonintervention committee at two meetings in London unanimously approved details of a plan which envisages withdrawal of all foreign troops from Spain. The plan also envisages establishment of land and sea observations to prevent gun running and the granting of belligerent rights to both sides.

Expect Long Delay.

It was not expected that the scheme can be put into operation at an early date. Several weeks of delay are expected. However, the fact that Russia agreed to accept the scheme gave hopes that the difficulties encountered in unscrambling the intervention omelet may be overcome.

At today's two meetings, which were presided over by Viscount Plymouth, British chairman of the nonintervention committee, a document outlining the plan was gone over point by point and revised in several places. When these revisions have been embodied in the draft it will be circulated to all members of the nonintervention committee, and then will be submitted to each side in Spain.

The subcommittee will meet again on Friday to determine how the $5,000,000 which is the estimated cost of putting the scheme into operation will be raised and shared. Although Russia withdrew its opposition to the scheme today it made no move to share the costs

Modify Sea Control Plan.

It was understood that revisions made in the scheme concerned a compromise on sea control. The Russians first held out for an observer in every Spanish port to check up on whether any one was cheating on sending men and materials to Spain after the withdrawals had begun. But they consented later to a modification of this under which only a few Spanish ports are to have observers.

The withdrawal scheme, which was submitted nearly a year ago by the British, calls in its revised form for:

FIRST—Sending a commission of three men to each side in Spain to count foreign soldiers.

SECOND — Sending contingents of these foreigners back to their homelands. Ten thousand foreigners are to be evacuated at first from the side having the smaller number and a proportionate number from the side having the larger number.

Control of Land Frontiers.

THIRD—Control of land and sea frontiers to see that no new intervention takes place.

FOURTH — According belligerent rights to each side as soon as substantial withdrawals have taken place.

Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel commander, today apparently killed the plan to call a truce in the war while foreigners were being counted. Franco declared there would be no truce until he wins.

The British government, nevertheless, hopes that the moves now being made will enable Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to say there has been a "satisfactory settlement" in the Spanish affair so far as foreign intervention is concerned and consequently will remove the obstacles to making the recently concluded Italian-British peace deal operative. This involves British recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

France Accepts Border Control.

France already has agreed to reestablish international control of the Pyrenees frontier immediately after the commissions reach Spain. The control will operate for thirty days and if at the end of that time the evacuation of foreigners has not commenced, the period will be extended another ten days should there be a prospect of progress during that time.

It was understood that when the question of placing observers in Spanish ports was discussed it was agreed finally that observers should be stationed in eight or ten of the most important Spanish seaport towns.

A snag at Friday's meeting may be over the question of finance. Russia declined to bear a one-fifth share of the total with Great Britain, France, Germany, and Italy. Moscow will pay only for its return of its own nationals, plus a one-fifth share of the cost of commissions themselves, and perhaps some portion of the other smaller expenditures.

Chamberlain Refuses to Act.

In a debate on foreign affairs in the house of commons tonight, Chamberlain disclosed that a new protest had been sent to Franco over aerial bombings of British ships, but he rejected demands for strong action to stop such bombings. He said the British government is making a study of aerial bombing with a view to formulating a practical scheme to regulate it. The plan will be submitted to other countries.

Chamberlain said an armistice in Spain was the only practical way to end "all these difficulties."

"All we can say," he continued, "is that we shall from time to time try and take some means with a view to seeing whether there are any favorable prospects of success and that when the time comes we shall be only too glad to offer our services, either alone or in conjunction with others, in bringing this lamentable conflict to an end."

Chamberlain's policy was sustained by a huge Conservative majority when the house voted, 278 to 148, against a Labor motion to reduce the foreign office appropriation. This motion, if adopted, would have been, in effect, an act of censure.

LOYALISTS FORTIFY ROCKS

ON THE EASTERN FRONT WITH SPANISH GOVERNMENT TROOPS NEAR NULES, Spain, June 21.—(AP)—Thousands of workers hewed formidable fortifications out of solid rock north of Valencia today while government troops fighting stripped to the waist under a boiling sun held off the rebels in heavy fighting around Villarreal and Burriana, thirty-five miles up the Mediterranean coast from Valencia.

It was the same story in Teruel province, to the west. In the Puebla de Valverde sector southeast of Teruel rebels attempted to continue the attacks which won them scattered hills in the Sierra Camarena yesterday but government troops stopped them in their tracks.

Build Traps for Tanks.

Machine-gun nests and artillery bases protected by thickly strung barbed wire were blasted out behind deep broad trenches that would trap enemy tanks.

The area north of Sagunto has been almost wholly evacuated by civilians. The last of the mule carts streaming down the dusty coastal highway today spent at least half the journey in ditches and hiding under orange trees to escape detection by rebel bombers sweeping the road ceaselessly.

The town of Nules, midway between Sagunto and fallen Castellon de la Plana, as the result of one terrific air raid just a week ago is probably the worst wrecked city of all Spain.

Continue Coastal Bombings.

No one knows how many persons were killed before dawn on Tuesday of last week. Many had evacuated the city and columns of refugees were passing through when enemy aircraft, believed to have numbered forty planes, struck by moonlight, destroying the city block by block. No one is left in Nules to explore the wreckage and recover the bodies.

The victims were particularly helpless since most were refugees from other towns, pausing in Nules on their flight, and were unacquainted with whatever bomb-shelters the town had to offer.

Malta's Guns Thunder Salute to Italian Fleet

VALETTA, Malta, June 21.—(AP)—This key point of Great Britain's Mediterranean naval power today thundered a 164 gun salute to the first Italian warships to visit Malta in twelve years.

DUCE READY FOR PEACE IN SPAIN, FRANCE REPORTS

Paris Believes He Will Accept Compromise.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—Belief that Premier Mussolini of Italy is ready to accept a compromise solution to end the Spanish civil war was expressed in political circles in Paris tonight.

Il Duce, this report indicated, no longer considers a complete triumph for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel commander, essential to his prestige, and with a little bargaining can be brought to accept the idea of a truce in Spain and ultimately mediation between the belligerents.

Believe Barcelona Will Yield.

The French appear to believe that once the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain begins to make serious progress and an armistice is agreed to by Franco under pressure from Italy, the Barcelona government will yield to French suggestions that it withdraw and make way for a less partisan cabinet to negotiate peace with the rebels.

It has been impossible to learn whether this inspired optimism, strongly reflected in serious newspapers such as Le Temps, is based on real information or propaganda put out by the French foreign office. The latter has an excellent reason to put out optimistic propaganda because Premier Edouard Daladier has reversed completely the French policy toward both Spain and Italy. Not only has the Catalan frontier been closed for nearly five days, but it is understood that a French diplomatic agent soon will be sent to Burgos, Spanish rebel capital.

Seen as Gesture to Duce.

Closing the Spanish frontier to arms from Russia and other countries was effected unilaterally and without conditions as a gesture to placate Mussolini.

It can be said that Daladier has burned his bridges behind him as far as the extreme left in France is concerned, and that he has decided to stake everything on Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of friendship with Italy.

The reasons for following Chamberlain, it is said, are that Italy is in the throes of a growing economic crisis, that Il Duce is worried about the unpopularity of the Spanish war and the Rome-Berlin axis, that the Italian position in Ethiopia is precarious, and that the wheat shortage and popular disapproval of adulterated bread is an important political factor in Italy. Thus, Il Duce's newly born desire to see the end of the Spanish conflict as soon as possible, provided it can be done without loss of face.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 21.—For the first time since the world-wide protests were made of the bombing of the civilian populations of Spain and China the German press referred today to the bombing of Karlsruhe by French military planes on June 22, 1916. Mention was made that the French are among the objectors to the Spanish rebels' planes bombing of the "Red Spanish military districts."

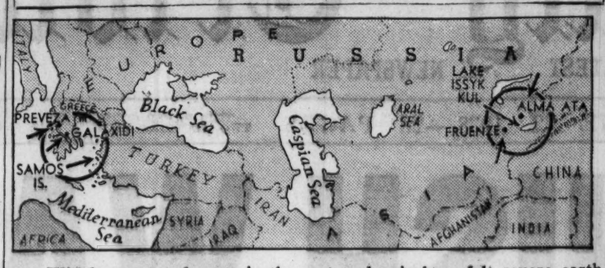
"On the afternoon of June 22, 1916, on the occasion of the celebration of the feast of Corpus Christi in Karlsruhe, French planes appeared over the square filled largely by women and children and dropped without warning shrapnel and gas bombs. Other bombs were dropped in the lower middle class residential district and some in the neighborhood of the castle where the queen of Sweden was lying ill. As a result of the raid 117 persons were killed, of whom 83 were children; 140 were wounded, more than half also children."

Earth Shocks Jar South Europe and Asia



Widely separated spots in the eastern hemisphere felt severe earth tremors yesterday. Circles indicate the general areas of the quakes. Preveza and Galaxidi in Greece and the Greek Island of Samos (shown by arrows) were jarred. The epicenter of shocks felt in soviet Asia was 62 miles southeast of Alma Ata, near Lake Issyk Kul. Buildings were cracked at Fruenze (see arrows).

BUILDINGS FALL AS EARTHQUAKE SHAKES GREECE

Temblors Rock Soviet Asia Also.

ATHENS, Greece, June 21.—(AP)—A severe earthquake shook parts of Greece today. Old buildings collapsed in Galaxidi, on the gulf of Corinth, 100 miles northwest of Athens. No loss of life was reported.

Shocks were felt at such widely separated points as Provena, a port in Epirus, and on the island of Samos, jus off the Turkish coast. Preveza is 180 miles northwest, Samos 150 miles east, of Athens.

Temblors Hit Russian Asia.

A government commission was appointed to aid colleges suffering from the shocks. Extent of the damage was not announced. The epicenter of the quakes, which were registered on the Moscow seismograph, was about 62 miles southeast of Alma Ata, capital of Kazakhstan.

Shock Cracks Buildings.

The first of the shocks lasted for one minute. It cracked buildings and stopped clocks at Fruenze, Kirghizia, where the tremor was recorded as the strongest in ten years. A shock was felt fire minutes later.

A number of buildings were reported destroyed in two villages in the Tien Shan mountain region, along the border between the soviet union and China, where tremors were felt for three minutes.

FRENCH ARREST 3 FOR SPYING ON BORDER DEFENSE

BIARRITZ, France, June 21.—(AP)—Thousands of documents relating to French defenses on the Spanish frontier were seized by secret police today as a prelude to what authorities called one of the biggest espionage investigations of many years.

Two Spaniards and a Frenchman were arrested on charges of collecting frontier defense data. Police gave the names of those arrested as Martin Olivers, Marquis De Relbalso, his secretary; Juan Pereja, and a Frenchman, Pierre Rottier. They were locked up in the military prison in Bordeaux.

The arrests and seizure of the documents were by order of the general commanding the 18th military region, which borders on rebel Spain. The trio were arrested in a police raid on the Marquis De Relbalso's room in one of the biggest Biarritz hotels.

FORMAL DECLARATION OF WAR AGAINST CHINA CONSIDERED BY JAPAN

TOKIO, June 22 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Tokio newspapers today reported Japan's foreign minister, Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, was considering a formal declaration of war against China after almost a year of undeclared hostilities. His purpose was said to be an attempt to block foreign aid to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government.

A formal declaration of the warfare which started last July 7 would place foreign powers in the position of third party neutrals who would be committing an unfriendly act against Japan if they gave assistance to China.

Former Foreign Minister Koki Hirota considered taking a similar course last year, but abandoned it fearing the United States' neutrality act might be invoked, as it was in the Spanish civil war, thus damming Japan's source of war supplies from America. Recent dispatches from Washington, D. C., have indicated Japan was a far larger customer than China in the purchase of American war materials.

FINAL FIGURES GIVE DE VALERA 16 SEAT MAJORITY

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 21.—(AP)—Triumphant Prime Minister Eamon de Valera matched his 1932 record of seventy-seven seats in the Dail Eireann [house of representatives] today on final election figures which gave him an absolute majority of sixteen. Final return of the June 17 balloting gave the following distribution of seats: De Valera's Fianna Fail party, 77; W. T. Cosgrave's Fine Gael party, 45; Labor, 9; Independent, 7. De Valera called the result "most heartening" and said that with a government majority it now is "possible to pursue a steady course."

PERPIGNAN, France, June 21.—(AP)—A new shipment of Spanish government silver valued at $2,160,000 arrived from Barcelona today for shipment to the United States. Cases weighing 180 tons arrived at Cerbere by railroad, were pushed through the French customs and placed on a train for Le Havre to be stowed on shipboard. This is the second time Barcelona has sent bullion to the United States, presumably to pay for supplies. The previous shipment on May 24, was valued at $26,300,000.

ARMIES MASSED IN HANKOW AREA FOR GREAT BATTLE

BULLETIN.

CANTON, China, June 22 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Japanese war planes killed at least thirty persons today in a raid over Wongsha, a suburb of bomb scarred Canton. A dozen incendiary bombs were dropped.

SHANGHAI, June 22 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japan's flood-ruined campaign for quick conquest of Central China is being reshaped at heavy cost to challenge steadily growing Chinese strength.

Blocked by Yellow river inundation along the Lunghai railroad, the Japanese army has been forced to put most of its strength into a cross country drive against Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Jap Troops Move to Anking.

Chinese reports said four Japanese divisions were being concentrated in the vicinity of Anking, in Anhwei province, for a push west against the provisional capital. An additional 20,000 men and 200 tanks were said to be on their way to Anking from the Lunghai area.

Hankow reports said Japanese troops had reached a point 130 miles east of Hankow, around which 60 new Chinese divisions numbering 500,000 men were reported taking up positions for the coming battle for the city. Chinese also said they were receiving new shipments of planes and have 1,200 soviet Russian tanks, 380 Russian guns, and 300 other guns.

Missionaries Make Plea.

Japanese gunboats based on Anking were shelling their way up the Yangtze river toward Hankow. Ninety Japanese vessels were said to be concentrated in the Anking area.

Friction over use of mission properties in Japanese-occupied centers increased. Thirty American doctors and nurses in Shanghai filed with the United States consul general, Frank P. Lockhart, a petition asking that the American government protest to Tokio against "continued unnecessary and purposeful interference with foreign rights and interests in the Japanese-occupied Central China area."

Attack American Oil Plants.

HONGKONG, June 21.—(AP)—Eighteen Japanese air raiders, it was reported today, bombed property of the American-owned Texas Oil company in an attack on Wuchow, in Kwangsi province.

One bomb, it was said, fell in the Texas company's grounds, another on property of the British-owned Asiatic Petroleum company, and three others barely missed Standard Oil company grounds, near a Chinese air field. Damage was said to have been slight. No casualties were reported.

JAPANESE ACCUSED OF SHIPPING OPIUM FROM IRAN TO CHINA

GENEVA, June 21.—(AP)—An early investigation of reports that Japanese are involved in wholesale trafic in opium between Iran [Persia] and China was demanded today by Stuart J. Fuller, United States representative on the league of nations opium advisory committee.

Fuller said he had information that an armed Japanese vessel reached Macao, Portugese colony off the South China coast, from Iran about April 3, carrying over 2,000 chests of raw Iranian opium. He said a large part of this was shipped later to Japanese consignees in Shanghai.

He asked the Iranian and Japanese members of the committee, now in session here, to request their governments to investigate his information immediately on the ground that the reported shipments were in violation of the narcotics limitation convention of 1931.

FORESTS AFLAME IN 2 PROVINCES OF WESTERN CANADA

EDMONTON, Alta, June 21.—(AP)—An outbreak of forest fires called the worst in fourteen years swept across western Canada's bush country today. A wide area of northern Alberta and scattered parts of Manitoba were affected. The flames spread readily in the wake of a warm wave and a prolonged rainless spell. Forestry officials said rain was needed to check the outbreak.

The fires raged in Alberta over a 250 mile front from the British Columbia border to Rochester, fifty miles north of Edmonton. Flames were roaring uncontroled in the Sturgeon lake area, 250 miles northwest of Edmonton, and, fanned by a fifty mile wind, were raging along both banks of the Smokey river, southeast of Grand Prairie. Timber losses were reported large, but damage to buildings small.

Heavy black smoke rolled over Edmonton, Calgary, and Lethbridge. In addition to sawmills and farm homes at least one village, Caroline, was threatened. Fifty miles northwest of Calgary, Caroline has a population of fifty.

British Troops Kill 2 Arabs Destroying Palestine Fence

JERUSALEM, June 21.—(AP)—British troops today killed two members of an Arab band which destroyed more than a mile of "Tegart's wall"—a half million dollar electrified wire fence being erected on the Palestine-Syrian border. Several Arabs were wounded. The fence is named after Sir Charles Tegart, British police adviser. It is intended to keep alien terrorists out of the holy land.

PERSONALTY TAX COLLECTION RATE HIGH DOWNSTATE

Various Means Are Used to Bring In Cash.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Officials in downstate Illinois counties are both more diligent and resourceful and more successful than Cook county officials in the collection of personal property taxes, it was indicated by a résumé of their collection efforts by George W. Mitchell, head of the research department of the state tax commission.

Downstate officials, in different counties, have at least a half dozen methods of going after taxpayers who fail to pay their personal property bills voluntarily. As a result of the application of those methods from 90 to 98 per cent of personal property taxes are collected.

Cook county's best record on personal property taxes in the last decade was on the 1928 levy, of which 69.5 per cent was collected. In recent years no Cook county personalty collections have been greater than 60 per cent of the taxes billed.

90% Record Is General.

A 90 per cent record is general in most downstate counties except a few in the southern part of the state, where a large proportion of the population is on relief, Mr. Mitchell said. The same measures used to achieve those collections are available to Cook county officials, although in smaller communities the collection problem is usually much less complex.

Many Illinois counties outside Chicago add unpaid personal property taxes to subsequent real estate tax bills. The practice is not followed continuously by all the counties which have tried it, because of changes in official personnel, but Mr. Mitchell estimated that forty or more counties have used it at one time or another during the last ten years.

Procedure Is Simple.

The procedure in such cases is simple, particularly in smaller communities where virtually every personal property taxpayer also owns real estate. If he fails to pay his personalty tax, the county treasurer asks a judgment for the amount of the personalty tax the next time he presents his unpaid real estate roll for collection in the County court. The personalty tax becomes a lien on real estate. Assessor John S. Clark has suggested that a large number of Cook county personalty bills could be collected in this manner.

Under the statutes, the county treasurer has power to seize personal property of a taxpayer who has failed to pay his tax, and sell it at auction to meet the tax bill. A number of counties keep their collection percentage up by such methods, which require no court proceedings. Miles Adams, treasurer of Lawrence county, has added an effective device to this general procedure. Along with the distress notice, as the action is called, he sends the taxpayer a description of the automobile or other property which he intends to seize if the tax is not paid.

Fees Pay for Collection.

A number of county treasurers have brought in large amounts of delinquent personal property taxes by following the methods of commercial collection agencies. In Winnebago county, of which Rockford is the county seat, the collector has four or five deputies working on such collections. Fees and mileage defray most of the collection costs.

Rock Island county has found a system of follow-up letters effective. In other counties justices of the peace act as collecting agents, as they do with some success in the country towns of Cook county. La Salle county has increased collections by adding unpaid personalty taxes to the next year's bill.

St. Clair and Perry counties have recently employed attorneys on a commission basis to collect back taxes. That was tried in Cook county some years ago, and proved unsatisfactory.

In addition, of course, most downstate counties have the state's attorney sue on unpaid bills, the only serious attempt made to enforce Cook county collections. In many counties of the state, however, sheriffs levy on the possessions of taxpayers who fail to pay judgments, a procedure which has not been used in Cook county for many years.

Californian Is Selected to Succeed Zimmer.

The Cook county board yesterday offered Dr. Benjamin W. Black of Oakland, Cal., the post of warden of the County hospital at a salary of $18,000 a year. Acting on the recommendation of the hospital advisory council, the fourteen commissioners voted unanimously to tender the position to Dr. Black, who is health director of Alameda county, California.

Dr. B. W. Black.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the board, sent a telegram to Dr. Black informing him of the offer and stating that the formal appointment will be made at the doctor's earliest convenience.

At his home in Oakland last night Dr. Black said he had received President Smith's telegram, but that he had not yet made a decision. Dr. Black indicated he would let the board know his intentions within a few days.

Highest Salary Paid by County.

If Dr. Black accepts he will be the highest paid official in the county service. Michael Zimmer, veteran warden of the hospital, resigned last November, but has continued as acting warden. He receives $12,000 a year, and is furnished maintenance, an automobile, and a chauffeur. A salary of $18,000 to Dr. Black will prove no greater expense to the county, Smith said.

"We regard Dr. Black as the most eminent man in his field and believe he can enhance the reputation of the County hospital, which is the biggest institution of its kind in the country," Smith said.

Familiar with Chicago Problems.

The hospital advisory council's report pointed out that Dr. Black is familiar with Chicago and its hospital problems, since he took part of his medical training in the County hospital and later, while in the United States public health service, was charged with organizing the Hines Veterans hospital at Maywood.

If Dr. Black accepts the board's offer he will also supervise two other county institutions, the Oak Forest infirmary and the juvenile detention home.

GEN. PERSHING REBELS AT LIFE IN HOSPITAL; PLANS TRIP TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Gen. John J. Pershing is rebelling against confinement for observation at Walter Reed hospital here. He finds hospital life irksome to his vigorous spirit, it was learned, and is planning another European tour to inspect American war memorials.

Army physicians, however, are opposed to any extended excursion in the period of their observation. There appears to be little chance the general will travel this summer, although his strong constitution may permit him to go through with his plans later in the year.

Last March, just as the general's physicians despaired of his life during a serious illness at Tucson, Ariz., he rallied suddenly and became well enough to attend the wedding of his son, Warren, at New York, a few weeks ago. After the ceremony he came to Washington for examination by army physicians. He will be 78 years old next Sept. 13.

FIRE AND POLICE RETIREMENT LAW DECLARED VALID

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday upheld the validity of a city ordinance under which 145 Chicago policemen and firemen were retired from active service when they passed the 63 year age limit.

These petitioners were first put on the retired list in December, 1935. The ordinance authorizing this was later declared unconstitutional. A new ordinance, requiring that they be dismissed, was passed and took effect in May, 1937. This was the meaure that was approved by the Supreme court.

The court ordered, however, that the policemen and firemen are entitled to salaries from December, 1935, to May, 1937; except that the portions of these salaries paid to persons appointed to succeed the retired men may be deducted from the total due.

WOMAN PLUNGES 8 FLOORS TO HER DEATH IN LOOP

Mrs. Rose Bernsen, 34 years old, mother of two children, leaped or fell to her death yesterday, apparently from an eleventh floor washroom in the building at 209 South State street. Her body landed on a third floor setback. Fred D. Schaffenberger, a furrier, heard her scream as she fell past his eighth floor offices. She was the wife of Samuel Bernsen, a buyer for a mail order company. Their home was at 8222 Eberhart avenue. Members of the family said they knew of no motive for suicide.

JEWISH BUSINESS MUST BE WIPED OUT—GOEBBELS

100,000 Berliners Shout "Out with Jews."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 21. — Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, tonight predicted that Jewish businesses soon will disappear from Germany. He spoke before 100,000 Berliners at solstice exercises in Olympic stadium. The exercises were organized by Nazi leaders for the lighting of the "holy fire of midsummer night as a sacred symbol of Nazi-ism."

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Calls Presence of Jews "Outrage."

"Isn't it outrageous that in the last few months 3,000 Jews came to Berlin?" the minister cried. "What do they want here?"

Friends of the Jews have said many came to the capital from small towns because they were unable to buy food there.

"The foreign press laments that Jewish stores are marked," Goebbels continued, referring to the smearing of store fronts with the word "Jew" in red paint. "I do not approve of this either, but it is a good thing to know which are Jewish shops. We will take legal measures to curtail their businesses. They will soon disappear. The Jews incite us by their very presence."

He demanded that the work of eliminating Jews from business be done by government and the Nazi party rather than by the "street"—meaning mobs.

Hits Foreign Correspondents.

"If the foreign press feels called upon to help the Jews I can tell the foregin correspondents we suspect them anyhow," Goebbels said.

The propaganda minister at this point issued a warning to the world in a reference to 3,250,000 Germans living in Czechoslovakia.

"The world should be kept aware that it is impossible to keep a nation divided," he thundered. "This was proved in Austria and it will again be proved somewhere else. The world should not think we can stand by forever while Germans are being manhandled on our borders."

Meanwhile official quarters said that orders were issued forbidding the smearing of Jewish stores. Nevertheless, "paint squads" were busy in the Moabit section of Berlin.

The German post office ruled that reduced rates for the wholesale distribution of advertising is available to Jews only if they send the material to other Jews. Jews were forbidden to send advertising matter to Aryans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 21.—Wholesale arrests of Catholic priests suspected of moral offenses has been extended to Austria. It was announced today that sixty Austrian priests were arrested on charges of immorality and that two other priests were taken into custody "for political reasons."

Loses $1,350 Diamond Ring in Restaurant Washroom

Mrs. Michael Kohn, wife of the president of the United Sponging company, told Chicago avenue police last night that she lost a $1,350 diamond ring earlier when she removed it in the washroom of a restaurant at 631 Rush street. Mrs. Kohn lives at 5215 Dorchester avenue.

U. S. DIGS DEEPER INTO INTRICACIES OF NAZI SPY RING

Prepares to Arraign 4 of 18 Indicted.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Federal prosecutors today declared there would be no turning back from the maze of international intrigue which they uncovered with the indictment of eighteen German spy suspects.

While asserting they did not know where their quest would take them, they said their investigation of an alleged Nazi plot to steal American defense secrets would be continued after a breathing spell.

"We are going to continue the investigation, but I don't know what will dexelop as a result," said United States Attorney Lamar Hardy.

Two Witnesses Under Guard.

With two women witnesses held in protective custody in the tower of the federal building, Hardy said he would make every effort to expedite the arraignment of the four defendants who are the only ones under arrest.

The other defendants, including two officers of the German war ministry, were in Germany, outside of American jurisdiction.

Beyond saying they were heavily guarded, Prosecutor Hardy declined to discuss the status of the two women witnesses who spent many hours before the special grand jury.

They were Mrs. Kate Moog Busch, described as a confidante of Dr. Fritz Griebl, the former leader of American Nazis who fled to Germany when the investigation started, and Miss Santa de Wanger, who operated a liquor store in the vicinity of Roosevelt and Mitchel fields, Long Island.

Four to Be Arraigned.

The four defendants in custody will be arraigned tomorrow. They are Johanna Hofmann, former hairdresser on the German liner Europa; Guenther Gustave Rumrich, former United States army sergeant; Private Erich Glaser of the army air corps, Mitchel field, and Otto Herrmann Voss, expert airplane mechanic.

Dr. Griebl was among those indicted. He was described as one of the more important intermediaries between the field agents in this country and the directing heads in Germany. His wife was seized and held in $5,000 bail as a material witness as she was preparing to follow him to Germany.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull stopped here on his way to Washington today but declined to comment on the indictments. He said the troubled foreign situation had led him to cancel all plans for a summer vacation.

Leon G. Turrou, special agent of the federal bureau of investigation, who worked night and day for several months on the spy case, resigned today.

Berlin Comments Briefly.

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—The German official news bureau said in a short communique tonight: "It is self-evident there cannot be any question of espionage in the United States by active officers of Germany's armed forces."

The communique was issued in connection with the indictment of 18 persons, including officers in the German war ministry, by a special federal grand jury in New York which charged them with espionage in behalf of Germany.

The communique was the first official acknowledgement here of the indictments. Earlier a foreign office spokesman said in reply to questions on the case: "We know nothing officially as yet, and in any case we regard the whole matter as an attempt to create a sensation in the United States for obvious reasons."

ENGLAND'S KING BEGINS REVIEW OF HOME FLEET

LONDON, June 21. — (AP) — George VI., Britain's sailor king, today started a significant two day inspection of the home fleet—most vital unit of the nation's swiftly expanding navy—at Portland, strategic south coast naval base.

The maneuvers were the first for royal inspection since the duke of Windsor surveyed the fleet just before he abdicated as Edward VIII. in December, 1936.

The fleet has concentrated at Portland for six weeks, ostensibly preparing for today's royal visit. Naval experts, however, have said the real reason for the massing of sea power there was that Portland would be an ideal jumping off point for the fleet if it were needed in a hurry in the Mediterranean or elsewhere.

SCHUSCHNIGG TO GO TO ITALY AS AN EXILE, NAZI HINTS

VIENNA, June 21.—(AP)—A high Austrian official said today that the GSP [secret police] investigation of Kurt Schuschnigg was almost completed and that the former chancellor of Austria might be permitted soon to go into exile in Italy. The official asked that his name be withheld. It was understood that Premier Mussolini was among a number of foreign statesmen who pleaded with Reichsfuehrer Hitler to spare Schuschnigg. The former chancellor has been detained by Nazi authorities since the annexation of Austria March 13.

"I WAS BEING ROBBED EVERY MONDAY until I started to use American Family Soap!"

Says MRS. RICHARD G. BOYER

"I tried to economize by using cheap soaps to wash clothes. What little saving I made was more than offset by the extra hard work of trying to get clothes clean. While harsh chemicals, ruinous rubbing and boiling shortened the life of our clothes, too. Now that I use American Family Soap I realize I was being robbed every Monday!"

THERE'S no mystery about the amazing way American Family Soap turns out a far whiter, sweeter-smelling wash than ordinary soaps—without boiling, scrubbing, hard rubbing, or the use of strong bleaches.

For laboratory tests have proved that American Family contains as much as ⅓ more suds-making material than other leading brands of bar soap in this territory—including soaps containing naphtha.

It's this extra suds-making material that gives American Family Soap greater washing power. That produces the rich, creamy, active suds which removes even grimiest spots without back-breaking rubbing—and with utmost safety to clothes.

Because these "DOUBLE-SUDS" take the place of boiling, scrubbing, hard rubbing and strong bleaches, colored fabrics retain their gay brilliance. White clothes come out snowy white. All washables last unbelievably longer.

A short trial with American Family Soap will reveal why this famous brand has been the leading seller in this market for over 90 years. And why countless thousands of women know—"It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes."

DEMOCRAT PEACE MOVE PERILED BY VOTE IN SENATE

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Democratic harmony maneuvers, designed to reach a compromise between the Nash-Kelly and Horner-Courtney forces on the driver's license and relief controversies, were imperiled in the legislature tonight.

At the moment when prospects seemed bright that an agreement could be reached on both matters the senate passed the $1,000,000 appropriation for distressed high school districts under conditions exactly opposite to those which Gov. Henry Horner desires.

The governor has told the assembly that it should appropriate the money only if it also approved the state school board bill because he wants the board to distribute the funds. Last week the senate threw the school board measure out the window, so its action tonight was completely contrary to the executive's wishes.

Outcome Remains in Doubt.

Whether this move—which proponents justified by saying that if the governor felt the money to be necessary it doesn't matter who distributed it—would tip over the harmony bandwagon remained for tomorrow to determine.

Conferees representing Horner and his foe in the driver's license controversy, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, feel they have made progress toward a settlement, and the same optimism extends to the relief question.

As matters rested when the conferees quit for the night, the plan closest to approval called for a compromise, with Hughes' office issuing the auto safety licenses, Gov. Horner's highway department examining motorists, and the courts of the state vested with sole power to revoke the permission to drive.

Revival of 1937 Plan.

The same sort of division of responsibility was proposed unsuccessfully during the deadlock at the close of the 1937 session. At that time neither the Nash-Kelly faction, wanting Hughes to administer the law; nor the Horner faction, wanting F. Lynden Smith, director of public works, to be the king-pin, would agree to the proposal.

One complication which arises as the result of senate passage of the school appropriation is the assertion of House Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski [D., Chicago] that he will try to torpedo the measure when it reaches his chamber by raising the point of order that its approval was not under the conditions laid down by Gov. Horner in his special session call.

Last week Adamowski obtained a ruling from Speaker Louie E. Lewis, a Horner adherent, that the proposed $11,200,000 relief appropriation, supported by the Chicago members, was outside the terms of the call. Should a similar ruling prevail on the school appropriation, it also will go by the board.

Expect Another Special Session.

On the relief question the opinion prevailed that a second special session will be called and new revenue sought through a 3 cent cigaret tax. It is possible that efforts will be made to pass the tax at this session, leaving the appropriation of its income to the next special session.

A cigaret tax bill was on the desk of Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, but he did not introduce it immediately, saying he would decide later.

Alderman J. M. Arvey, chairman of the finance committee of the Chicago city council, and William H. Sexton, special attorney for the city, were the principal spokesmen in Chicago's behalf at today's peace conferences. For the governor were Director Smith, Director Sam Nudelman of the finance department, and Charles K. Schwartz, state tax commissioner. Mr. Hughes was represented by John Nash and Don Forsyth of his automobile department.

Observers credit the harmony moves to the reverses each Democratic faction received last week—Gov. Horner being defeated on the school board issue and the Chicagoans given a setback when the $11,200,000 relief bill was tabled.

FREED MICHIGAN CONVICT ADMITS POLICE MURDER

Steve Cygan, 36 years old, confessed last night to Sergt. John Harnahan that he shot and killed Sergt. John Chiska of the Cragin police station on April 5, 1928.

Cygan was brought to Chicago on Monday following his release on parole from the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson, to which he was sentenced in 1929 for robbery. Although sentenced under the name of Smith, finger prints revealed his true identity.

Cygan had been sought since his accomplice, Joseph Papsick, named him as the killer.

Gets Kidnap Guard

Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow.

LONDON, June 21.—(AP)—Wealthy Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow was reported tonight by the Daily Mail to have "taken precautions" against a threat to kidnap her 2 year old son, Lance. The report said Scotland Yard had ordered police to keep a special watch at all ports and airports for the arrival of "a suspected person" and had sent out photographs and a full description of the suspect. Extra guards were placed around the home.

HOPE TO SHIFT 6,000 RELIEFERS TO WPA ROLLS

Find Many Eligible to Take Jobs.

An attempt to remove 6,000 families from the rolls of the Chicago relief administration to the WPA pay roll was begun yesterday by Leo M. Lyons, CRA commissioner, after a survey indicated that the 6,000 families are eligible for WPA.

Lyons said approximately 27,000 of the 90,000 families on the CRA rolls are listed by the CRA as employable cases. An employable case is one in which at least one member is between the ages of 16 and 65 and is considered physically capable of work.

The order for the immediate sifting of the CRA rolls was issued after a survey by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission of 2,129 cases on the CRA rolls which had been selected at random from among those cases listed as employable according to CRA standards.

The mere fact that the CRA lists a case as employable does not mean that the WPA will take over that case. There are several reasons why the WPA won't take them. Of the 2,129 cases studied, it was discovered that 456 of the cases had not been approved for WPA work when they should have been. It is from this category that Lyons expects to draw the 6,000 reliefers to put on the WPA payrolls.

In the remaining 1,673 "employable" cases the IERC found that 1,320 cases listed as employable would not be taken by the WPA for jobs because of physical or mental disability or because the families are aliens. About two score could not be transferred to the WPA pay roll because there is no one in the family with work experience. Three hundred eighteen others were found to have been approved already as eligible for WPA jobs.

The sifting out of the 6,000 families will be done by the IERC, which distributes state money for direct relief each month to eligible local communities.

GERMAN DOCTOR DIES IN NAZI PRISON CAMP WEEK AFTER ARREST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 21.—Men and women clustered in Wartenbergstrasse in Berlin tonight and whispered the news that Dr. Max Leopold would not return from Buchenwald, a concentration camp near Weimar. His body was cremated a few days after he arrived there and relatives received notice they could have his ashes. The notice was sent on a postal card. No details of the death were disclosed.

Dr. Leopold, who was 63 years old, was arrested early last week. His name was on police records because he was involved in an abortion case 15 years ago. His health was found satisfactory in a medical inspection in Berlin police headquarters and he was sent to work in the stone pits in the concentration camp.

LYONS HOLDS UP BILLS TO TAX AND STIFLE OIL BOOM

Assails Horner's Plan to Curb Infant Industry.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Representative Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, today broke the silence he has maintained during the special session of the legislature to make an attack upon Gov. Henry Horner's bills for regulation and taxation of the state's new oil fields.

Fighting for the Republican principles which he says he expects to enunciate in Washington, Lyons demanded that all politicians, regardless of party, keep their hands off the infant industry. His plea was successful to the extent that the bills will be held before the house committee on utilities for further discussion.

The bills provide for a 2½ per cent tax on oil produced in Illinois after July 31; authorize the Illinois commerce commission to set quotas to restrict production; and to regulate the drilling of wells, and the storage, transportation, and purchase of oil. They were introduced as administration measures last week by James P. Boyle [D., Chicago].

"Here's a section of Illinois where farmers virtually are broke, due to repeated drouths; where there was tremendous unemployment until this infant industry gave it the first blush of new jobs we've seen in many years," Lyons said. "At last men are working again. Farmers are receiving small royalty checks on their lands, and the merchants are selling enough merchandise to lift them out of the red.

"Then came Horner's squadrons of tax hawks, pouncing down upon these hopeful people. Why, these tax hawks of the state budgetary commission found the oil to be taxed before the drillers did! So now we have these bills to destroy the infant industry which promised us relief from relief!

"No politician, whether he's a Democrat or a Republican, can run a business. The duty of this legislature is to protect the Illinois oil industry. Not only should these bills be defeated—we should not even be talking about restricting production."

As proof of his last point, Lyons said that plans for a $650,000 refinery at Centralia were abandoned when business men learned of the tax and regulation proposals.

FAMILY TREE ROOTS

By CALEB

"VOTES FOR women!"

That rallying cry, strange to the ears of today's younger generation, was a familiar one some twenty years ago when the matter of equal suffrage was a lively issue. The doings of the "suffragettes" was front-page news. It was a part of political platforms, and a highly explosive topic in home discussions.

When the women in the United States finally gained equal suffrage rights with the men, predictions of many kinds were made. There were those who foresaw the early election of a woman to the president's chair. Others predicted an about-face in government. Some skeptics prophesied dire consequences in the home, and painted pictures of mother neglecting dishes and fireside to carry the torch in political parades.

To all this most of the women made no reply. They undoubtedly knew—and those who understood them knew—that woman's first interest would remain just what it has always been—her family.

Politicians and leaders since have found it difficult to arouse interest or strike political fire in the hearts of most woman voters unless they could point to and prove some element in their cause bound to affect her home and her children. Whenever they have done that—whether the matter at stake was municipal or national—results have been quick and decisive.

Some election techniques designed to interest the women have failed because they were presented in the abstract. Theoretical and abstruse propositions rarely interest the average woman. But let the most involved social concept be interpreted in terms of its effect on her family, and her intense and active interest is enlisted.

Security, food, shelter, safety from violence and invasion—these are things women believe in and will vote for. Back to the dawn of time woman has fought for and preserved the family. In the main her choice of method has been good and her aims sound. Sometimes she has seen farther ahead than her men folks. Fighting now to preserve her family and all its traditions, woman's wisdom is the wisdom of the ages.

U. S. SETTLES TAX CLAIMS AGAINST MELLON ESTATE

Clears Late Ambassador of All Fraud Charges.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—The government's 3 million dollar income tax case against the estate of Andrew W. Mellon simmered down to a $668,000 settlement today. Because Mellon left a large part of his estate to charity today's settlement will come out of these various bequests.

The agreement brought to an end four years of litigation involving such delicate legal points as the value of art treasures which once hung in the palaces of the Russian czars and the worth in 1913 of a share of McClintic-Marshall corporation stock.

The case, too, saw the former secretary of the treasury accused and cleared of charges that he attempted to defraud the government in drawing up his income tax returns for 1931 at a time when, as head of the treasury department, he was the nation's chief tax collector.

"Political Persecution."

Mellon, who died last August, denounced the suit as "political persecution" and "a campaign of vilification." He lived to see a federal grand jury refuse to indict him on the fraud charge.

Although finding the fraud accusations groundless, the board of tax appeals did come to the conclusion that Mellon underpaid the government by $485,809 in making his return for 1931, and to this amount added $182,000 interest. The decision allowed the estate a $100,000 offset for gifts of five famous paintings to his charity trusts.

Today's settlement was in the nature of an agreement that the finding be accepted as final and not be appealed by either side.

Deductions Held "Proper."

The fraud charge was based upon a Mellon admission that in 1931 he sold certain stocks at a loss for the purpose of reducing his taxes. The board of tax appeals held his procedure perfectly proper, asserting:

"Any one may so arrange his affairs that his taxes shall be as low as possible."

A tanglesome factor in the suit was the McClintic-Marshall stock. Mellon had invested in that corporation many years ago. In 1931 his holdings were liquidated. The tax on capital gains was applied to the extent to which the value of his shares increased between 1913 and 1931.

Mellon claimed a deduction for the transfer of the paintings only after the government's suit was begun. He had bought them from the soviet government, which had seized them from the czars. The paintings were included in his later gift of many masterpieces to the government.

100 Evanstonians Protest Ban on Popcorn Vendors

One hundred Evanston residents yesterday sent a petition to Mayor Henry D. Penfield protesting against the new ordinance which prohibits popcorn vendors from maintaining stands along the beaches within a block of Sheridan road. The petitions also objected to the city council's action in granting Miss Nancy Dodds, 2757 Pine Grove avenue, a concession to operate six permanent confection stands on the beaches.

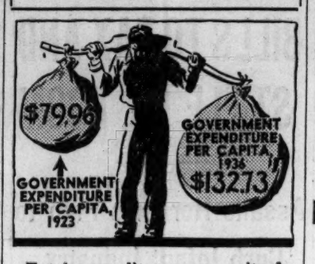
Cutting through the roof with a hacksaw, burglars entered the Gateley-Wheeler Clothing company at 212 South State street and escaped with 350 suits valued at $8,000. They abandoned 125 suits on the roof, presumably when they became frightened.

Government Costs



Total expenditures per capita for government in the United States increased from $79.96 in 1923 to $132.73 in 1936.

Comparison of the gross debt of all government branches in 1913 and in 1937.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Expenditures for all divisions of government in 1937 were tentatively estimated at $16,900,000,000 today by the national industrial conference board in a new and comprehensive report entitled "Cost of Government in the United States, 1935-1937." The figure includes $400,000,000 of social security expenditures.

Against these expenditures the conference board estimates total tax collections, including social security taxes, for 1937 will amount to approximately $12,300,000,000. On a per capita basis total expenditures have increased from $79.96 in 1923 to $132.73 in 1936, while tax collections have risen from $59.64 in 1933 to $81.74 in 1936.

The aggregate debt of all government branches amounted to $55,600,000,000 on June 30, 1937, representing $422.99 per capita as against only $59.28 in 1913, when the gross debt was $5,721,000,000.

FIVE TO COMPETE IN WORLD TYPING CONTEST TONIGHT

The outstanding sports event of the commercial world will be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman tonight when five professional typists compete in the sixth international typing contest sponsored by the International Commercial Schools' association.

Contestants will type steadily for an hour, starting at 7 p. m. At the same time, 21 amateurs will compete for the world amateur title and 50 will participate in a dictating machine contest.

Chicago will be represented among the professionals by Norman Saksvig, 5824 Addison street, who finished third in the 1937 contest. The world record of 141 words a minute is held by Albert Tangora of New York, winner of the 1937 contest. He will not participate this year.

Urges Aliens Here 3 Years and on Relief Be Deported

New York, June 21.—(AP)—A federal grand jury which convened here in March has recommended to President Roosevelt the deportation of all aliens on relief who after three years' residence have not taken out first naturalization papers, the foreman announced tonight.

FOUR BILLIONS OF SPEND-LEND CASH RELEASED

Pump Priming Bill Signed by Roosevelt.

$75,000,000 in Public Works administration projects for Chicago. The PWA is to be revived under the $3,750,000,000 lend-spend bill which President Roosevelt signed yesterday.

The mayor left yesterday for New York City, where he will attend the Louis-Schmeling heavyweight championship fight tonight. With him were James B. McCahey, president of the school board, and Philip Harrington, the city's traction engineer.

"I am not going to predict what the city will or won't get," the mayor said. "But we must have our foot in the door and we will see every available official in an attempt to make sure that Chicago gets its share of the money being provided by the federal government."

The mayor said that he will stress the importance of the $29,000,000 subway project and the $21,500,000 filtration plant proposed for the south side. In all PWA projects the federal government makes an outright grant of 45 per cent of the construction costs and the local governing agency, or sponsor, must provide the balance.

Other PWA Projects Listed.

The city of Chicago, as a sponsor, is asking for nearly $63,000,000 in PWA projects. In addition to the subway and filtration plant they are:

Navy pier, repair and conversion to convention hall	$1,500,000
Airport terminal	1,760,000
Eight new bridges, repairs, painting	8,625,000
Calumet harbor wharf and docks.	600,000

The city's share of the subway cost would be financed from the $67,000,000 traction fund. Water bonds would be issued for the filtration plant and the area to be served may be placed on a meter basis to pay for the bonds. The other projects would be financed by bond issues to be met by taxes or revenues from the completed project.

The school board, as sponsor, is asking for $7,000,000 in projects, entailing an outright federal grant of $3,110,000, for four new schools and additions to a dozen others. The largest project contemplated by the school board would be the new South Side Trade school, to be built at a cost of $3,150,000.

Schools Seeking $7,000,000.

The Chicago park district wants to do $3,686,710 in work with the aid of PWA. The projects for which it has applied are:

Lincoln park water system	$1,172,510
Replace Monroe street viaduct...	439,200
Improvements to Burnham park shore line	1,275,000
North avenue beach improvement.	800,000

Cook county is drawing up a $10,000,000 project to complete its road building program for the rest of this year, all of 1939, and the first six months of 1940. PWA will be asked to give the county $4,500,000 of this sum as an outright grant.

The other major sponsors in the Chicago area—the sanitary district and the forest preserves—said that they have no PWA jobs under consideration at the present time. The state armory board, Chicago PWA headquarters reported, is asking for a $1,270,909 armory on the northwest side, a $370,909 armory near the municipal airport, and a $443,636 addition to the present armory at Seneca street and Chicago avenue.

WPA Awaits New Job Quota.

Charles E. Miner, state Works Progress administration head, said that additional funds for WPA projects also would be provided under the new appropriation.

"We haven't been told how many people we can employ in the state," Miner said. "We will go ahead setting up projects and putting people to work until a limit is set for us."

Roosevelt's Claim

The solid line marks the trend in the national income from 1929 to 1937. The dotted line indicates the bureau of commerce estimate for 1938 national income as cited by President Roosevelt yesterday, when he said business was not as bad as a lot of people believed it to be.

KENNEDY GIVES PRESIDENT DARK VIEW OF EUROPE

Roosevelt Refuses Details of Two Hour Parley.

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 21.—[Special.]—A general picture of European affairs was given to President Roosevelt today by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to Great Britain. Kennedy was closeted with the President for more than two hours.

The President said afterward that he could not reveal details of what the ambassador had told him, but that it was not a particularly happy picture. Kennedy, who had to catch a train, did not have time for an interview with reporters.

Hopes for the Best.

All the United States could do, Mr. Roosevelt said after the talk with the ambassador, was to hope for the best.

The length of the talk gave the ambassador time to cover all the complexities of the European situation. He is presumed to have discussed with Mr. Roosevelt the proposed trade treaty with Great Britain, the possibility of renewing negotiations to settle the war debts, and a number of other problems vexing the state department.

Enjoys One Remark.

The President said he enjoyed one remark made by Kennedy particularly well. The ambassador said he had met the same kind of people in England that he had met on Long Island—people worried about the world coming to the end and about having to sell their Rolls Royces and country estates.

The President threw back his head and laughed as he quoted Kennedy as saying that the only difference was that in England they did not blame it all on the government, with emphasis on the "all."

STUDY BUILDING SUPERHIGHWAY IN ALLEGHENIES

Project Hailed as Vital to Nation's Defense.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—A new $60,000,000 superhighway through the Alleghany mountains from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh was under consideration here today.

If built it will occupy the right of way on which Andrew Carnegie dreamed of building a railroad sixty-five years ago to compete with the Pennsylvania railroad for the rich freight business of the Pittsburgh steel area.

Advocates of the project say it would be of untold importance in national defense as a link in the route by which war materials from Pittsburgh's mills could be hauled to the coast.

Route Almost Level.

Army trucks that wound over the longer roads through the mountains during the world war were often delayed by weather conditions, but the proposed highway, which would be almost level, would eliminate most of the weather hazards.

While plans for the superhighway go forward the interstate commerce commission in Washington has one file a petition from Roy Greene, Pittsburgh electrical engineer, for a charter to build a Diesel electric railroad over the same route. Officials in Pittsburgh and Washington said they did not know Greene.

Earlier Project Abandoned.

Carnegie and William H. Vanderbilt of the New York Central railroad launched the railroad project in the '80s with $10,000,000, as the older generation recalls the story. An army of workmen had been cutting through the mountains for eighteen months when the project was abandoned.

Cuts, fills, and tunnels into which vast sums had been poured were left incompleted. The dream of the new railroad, to have been called the South Penn, was forgotten.

At a cost of $400,000 the long abandoned tunnels recently have been cleared. All is in readiness now to begin construction of the new highway if authorization is received.

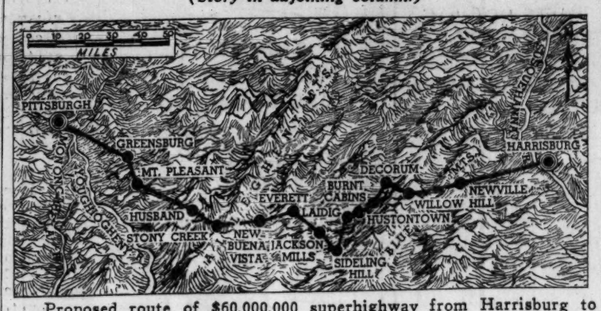
Planned as Toll Road.

The federal government is understood to be favorable to supplying $25,000,000 for the superhighway on condition that the state raise the rest of the money. The state can finance its share by a revenue bond issue, according to Samuel W. Marshall, Pennsylvania chief highway engineer. The route would be a toll road until it had liquidated its cost, which it is estimated would require thirty-eight years.

The proposed highway would go west toward Pittsburgh through the towns of Newville, Mount Tabor, Anderson, Willow Hill, Decorum, Burnt Cabins, Hustontown, Laidig, Sideling Hill, Jackson Mills, Everett, New Buena Vista, Baltimore, Stony Creek, Quemahoning Junction, Husband, Mount Pleasant, and Greensburg.

Pennsylvania Considers Superhighway

(Story in adjoining column.)



Proposed route of $60,000,000 superhighway from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh which is under consideration in Pennsylvania. It would follow the right of way on which Andrew Carnegie planned to build a railroad 65 years ago to compete with the Pennsylvania railroad. The proposed highway would be almost level.

MOVES TO PLACE TRUCKS UNDER HIGHWAY DEPT.

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—A bill to require all trucks to carry liability insurance was introduced in the assembly today by Representative F. W. Lewis [D., Robinson]. Private and contract carriers would be placed under the jurisdiction of the state highway department.

"This act would free trucking from the monopolistic ideas of the Illinois commerce commission," said Lewis in answering a question.

The bill declares truck transportation has increased the dangers and hazards on public highways, necessitating more stringent regulations for protection of the general public.

"The commerce commission," said Charles Mansfield, secretary of an executive committee on motor vehicle laws, "would retain jurisdiction over the 20 or 21 truck companies to which it has issued certificates of convenience and necessity. This bill would protect the 165,000 other truck operators in the state from being ruled off the roads by these certificate holders."

Says Husband Ran Away with Son, 3; Asks Divorce

Irving S. Hopkins, pension secretary at the Pullman company, was sued for divorce in Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Julia May Hopkins of 11731 Normal avenue. Mrs. Hopkins charged her husband took their son, Stuart, 3 years old, and drove off in her car last Sunday. She asks custody of the boy and return of her car.

BRIDGES SHABBY BUT SAFE, SAYS CITY ENGINEER

Although several of Chicago's bridges are dilapidated and in need of minor repairs, they are not unsafe, City Engineer Loran D. Gayton asserted yesterday. The downtown bridges are inspected every day by engineers who make detailed reports of their findings.

Economies extending back through former city administrations are responsible for the present condition of many of the structures, it was explained. Appropriations for paint to protect the steel were reduced and only the strain bearing structural members received proper attention.

City officials have hesitated to spend money unnecessarily to repair the State and Dearborn street structures pending construction of bridges to replace them, Gayton said. A fund of nearly $3,500,000 is available for a new State street bridge when various property and air rights are acquired. The city is seeking federal funds for a new Dearborn street bridge.

Three Captured in Chase Held for Quiz on Holdups

Three confessed robbers who were seized early yesterday after a five mile police chase in which several shots were fired were held last night at the Austin police station for questioning on a series of recent holdups. The three are Louis Stuveling, 6803 South Union avenue; Edward Okulczyk, 1808 Cortland street, and Moses Roberts, 4127 South Maplewood avenue.

MOTORIST, AGE 4, TAKES HIS SISTER FOR WILD JOYRIDE

The young driver was believed to have pressed on the accelerator as the car lurched from the family driveway, backed for a block down the street, crossed a curb, sidewalk, and some railroad tracks, and finally came to a stop after crashing through two walls of the garage. Rescuers were greeted with gleeful chuckles by the driver and his passenger.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN QUARRY.

The body of an unidentified woman about 45 years old was taken from the water in an abandoned quarry yesterday at Stony Island avenue and 94th street.

WEEDS OBSCURE DRIVERS' VISION; ONE DIES, 5 HURT

Stanley Wiercioch, 21 years old, 5319 South Nottingham avenue, was killed last night in a collision between two automobiles at New England avenue and 54th street. Three other men, a young woman, and a boy were slightly injured. Police said the intersection was obscured by high weeds. Wiercioch was a passenger in an automobile driven by Edward Doyle, 25, 5221 South Nottingham avenue. Charles Vojak, 21, 5230 South Nagle avenue, drove the other car.

James Hunter, 34 years old, of 1401 Center avenue, Argo, died in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, early today from injuries received a few hours earlier when he was struck by a truck on Lincoln highway, four miles east of Chicago Heights. He had stopped his car to examine a tire and had not driven entirely off the pavement. The truck driver, R. Lindstrand, a farmer of Knox, Ind., said he did not see Hunter, the car, or any tail light.

An unidentified man, about 65 years old, was struck and killed last night at Fullerton and California avenues by the automobile of Stanley Trykoski, 35, 2139 Homer street. The victim had gray hair, a mustache, no teeth, and wore a blue suit.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 385 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 294 were killed in Chicago, where 8,371 were injured in the same period.

BENSON RETAINS NARROW LEAD IN MINNESOTA RACE

Gov. Elmer Benson.

Benson had 183,775 votes and Petersen 174,573 tonight on returns from 3,058 of the state's 3,739 precincts.

Petersen, a vigorous critic of Gov. Bensen, polled heavily in the rural districts, while the incumbent, known as a radical among radicals, was given strong backing in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

In the Republican contest for the gubernatorial nomination Harold Stassen of South St. Paul, county attorney and anti-Benson man, held a substantial lead over three opponents. The Democratic vote was scant. Thomas Gallagher was leading for the governorship nomination in that party.

Barrows Wins in Maine.

Portland, Me., June 21.—[Special.]—Nearly complete returns from Maine's primary election of yesterday showed Gov. Lewis O. Barrows renominated by the Republicans by a three to one majority over his closest opponent, State Senator Roy L. Fernald of Winterport, youthful insurgent.

FIRE IN PEKIN STORE.

Pekin, Ill., June 21.—(AP)—Fire swept through the Pekin market and grocery today, destroying stock which Berry Allen, the owner, valued at $6,500. Insurance covered part of the loss, he said.

CITIZEN OF COLD RUN, O., CALLS AND CALLS AGAIN

It started at 8 o'clock last night. Thirty-five times the switchboard operators at the Drake hotel answered the telephone, only to hear the same bibulous voice, asking silly, nonsensical questions.

Early today they managed to trace the calls to a tavern at 700 South Wabash avenue. Policemen Martin Tully and Joseph O'Connell went there and found Charles Burkhardt, 38 years old, of Cold Run, O., emerging from a phone booth and his 36th call.

"I don't know what's the matter with me," he told Desk Sergeant Michael O'Connor at the central station. "Every time I get a few beers I get telephonitis and start calling up people. Doesn't make any difference who or where they are. I call and bother them."

Does Your Breath Broadcast— "I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

Most people who wear plates or bridges suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing cannot prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing can stop "denture breath"—and that's Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Prevents "Denture Breath"

COURT REVERSES SELF; WISCONSIN TVA HELD VALID

But High Tribunal Puts Limit on Activities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—In an unusual procedure the state Supreme court today reversed its previous unanimous decision and held that the La Follette administration's development authority act, or "little TVA," is constitutional. The decision, however, virtually shut the door to any possibility of state competition with private utilities.

The "little TVA," or WDA, as the act also is known, was passed by the 1937 legislature after a prolonged fight.

After Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis of Dane county last fall held the act constitutional, the state Supreme court on Jan. 11 reversed him and knocked out the WDA in a unanimous opinion which held that it was unconstitutional for the state to delegate its sovereign authority to a private corporation, such as the WDA. The decision also knocked out an annual appropriation of $60,000 to carry out the WDA's work.

Clamps Down on Other Agencies.

Shortly after this decision Secretary of State Theodore Dammann announced he would refuse to release further funds to sixteen other private and semi-public agencies and corporations, such as the various patriotic organizations, the state historical society, and the state and county fairs, until he was assured by a competent court that such appropriations were legal.

Attorneys for the La Follette administration finally obtained a rehearing and on April 15 the WDA climbed back into the ring for another test.

In those hearings the justices made it clear they were disturbed about the potentialities of granting sovereign state powers to a private corporation. At one point Justice Chester A. Fowler declared that the WDA "was not in harmony with our form of government."

Keeps State Out of Power Field.

In reversing its previous decision the court today found the WDA legal in its strictest phraseology, for its decision closed the door to any liberal b e t w e e n-the-l i n e interpretations which the La Follette forces might read into the law in order to place the state in the business of producing and distributing electric power in competition with private industry.

"We are unable to resist the conclusion that, provided the activity be general and educational in character, the state may encourage coöperative activity in the utility fields," said the majority opinion which was written by Justice John D. Wickham and joined in by Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry and Justices Joseph Martin, George B. Nelson, and Oscar M. Fritz.

May Promote Surveys.

The WDA, said the opinion, may promote surveys and research in the utility field toward obtaining more general and economical use of electrical power, but it shall not be permitted to promote and encourage municipal acquisition.

CHOIR DIRECTORS TO PLAN 2,000 VOICE CHORUS FOR FESTIVAL

Noble Cain.

Plans for the formation of a 2,000 voice chorus which will sing at the Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' Field Aug. 20 will be discussed tonight at a dinner in the Normandy House restaurant, 800 Tower court. Noble Cain, choral director of the festival chorus, will be the principal speaker. Among those attending will be forty-five choir directors whose groups will participate in Sunday vesper services during July and August in the forest preserves. Both the festival and the preserve concerts are sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The latter series will be held in coöperation with the commissioners of the forest preserves of Cook county.

CHICAGO LAWYER FACES WAUKESHA VICE PROBE TRIAL

Waukesha, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—Preliminary steps for the extradition of Sinon A. Murray, Chicago attorney indicted by the grand jury in its investigation of vice in Waukesha county, were completed here tonight. Necessary papers will be taken to Madison tomorrow for the signature of Gov. Philip F. La Follette and then sent to Springfield for action by Gov. Henry Horner.

Roland J. Stinle, special prosecutor, said he, Otis G. Gomillion, and former Sherif Arthur J. Moran will represent Wisconsin in the Illinois extradition hearings next week.

Murray is accused of offering a bribe of $10,000 to Moran for the privilege of operating a slot machine ring here. The attorney counters that he was in active practice in Chicago at the time of the alleged bribe offer.

The jury, which has indicted thirty-five persons to date, is expected to meet this week. Twenty-one persons already have been in court, of whom twenty have received fines totaling $7,250. The twenty-first, Municipal Judge David M. Evans, was found guilty of perjury by a Circuit court jury last week.

J. M. MINNEC GETS FOUR YEARS FOR INSURANCE FRAUD

John M. Minnec, accused by the government of swindling 2,000 persons out of $100,000 with his two mutual benefit insurance societies, was sentenced to four years in the federal prison at Leavenworth yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal court.

Judge Sullivan imposed the four year sentence on each of the sixteen counts of the mail fraud indictment on which a jury found Minnec guilty on June 8. The sentences will run concurrently.

Minnec was accused by government prosecutors of insuring persons from the age of 1 year to 80 against sickness. But a paragraph in tiny type at the bottom of the policies, the prosecutors said, prevented the policy holders or members, as Minnec called them, from collecting until they had held policies for eight years.

Minnec's organizations were the Cosmopolitan Mutual Benefit association of Hammond and the Lincoln Mutual Aid association of Berwyn. The case was prosecuted by Roy D. Keehn Jr. and Thomas B. Hart, assistant United States attorneys.

Minnec lives at 2721 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn. He was gaven a ten day stay of execution and permitted to remain at liberty on a $10,000 bonds. His punishment includes a $500 fine.

CALLS TVA UNFAIR EXPERIMENT IN ELECTRIC SERVICE

MONTREAL, Que., June 21.—[Special.]—Canada has nothing remotely approaching that "monstrously unfair experiment in electrical service socialism known as the TVA" and the dominion's power industry need not fear interference from a governmental purocracy. J. B. Challies, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said today in a speech to the Society of Chemical Industry of Great Britain and the Canadian Chemical association. Challies is former director of water power for the dominion.

"Perhaps it is only fair to assure our friends from the homeland," said Challies, "that the trials suffered by the electric utility industry in certain parts of the United States are not in the slightest degree paralleled anywhere in Canada.

"We have no New Deal hydro-electric hysteria in this country, nor have we in Canada anything which even remotely approaches that monstrously unfair experiment in electric service socialism known as the TVA."

ELECTRICIAN HANGS SELF.

Dead Bridewell Prisoner Identified as Ex-Gambler

The body of a man who died Thursday in the Bridewell where he was serving a sentence for theft under the name of Edward Ryan, was identified in the county morgue yesterday as that of Joseph Rush, 50 years old, a former gambler. Veteran policemen, who made the identification, said Rush had once been operator of the Tropical inn, near Miami, Fla., which burned down about 15 years ago. Physicians said death was due to excessive use of narcotics.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS EKERN IN HIS NEW POST

Madison, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—The state Supreme court today upheld the appointment of Herman L. Ekern as lieutenant governor of Wisconsin. His appointment by Gov. Phil La Follette on May 16 has been interpreted as a move to launch him in state politics and possibly groom him to try for a United States senate seat this fall.

The appointment was challenged in a taxpayers' suit in which it was contended the governor exceeded his constitutional powers in naming a lieutenant governor.

The controversy revolved about one Wisconsin statue which gave the governor blanket authority to fill vacancies in the state's constitutional offices, except that of lieutenant governor.

JOBLESS 2 YEARS; ENDS HIS LIFE.

Walter Burton Wyon, 52 years old, who had been unemployed for two years, shot and killed himself yesterday in his home at 1020 South Crescent avenue, Park Ridge.

JURY CONVICTS HAMMER MORON IN 15 MINUTES

Louis Serraille, twice paroled moron who has confessed raping fifty women, was found guilty of assault with intent to kill by a jury in Criminal court yesterday. He was sentenced to one to fourteen years in prison by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Serraille, who is 42 years old, will go on trial before Judge Sabath this morning on an identical charge brought by a second victim of the hammer attacks he made on women who resisted him on the morning of May 15. Prosecutions in rape cases will follow.

The jury took only 15 minutes to find Serraille guilty. He had been identified in court by the complaining witness. His alibi was shattered when a second woman identified him as the man who struck her with a hammer in the vestibule of her home on Berkeley avenue the same morning. A third woman likewise identified him.

Serraille repudiated his confession and denied the charge. Benjamin Bachrach, public defender, charged that the police obtained the confession by brutality, but Judge Sabath excluded it from evidence.

SPURNS WIFE'S COURT PLEA FOR RECONCILIATION

Mrs. Vera P. Taggart of 5518 Winthrop avenue was granted $25 a week temporary alimony yesterday by Judge Philip Finnegan after her estranged husband, James, an accountant, refused her plea for reconciliation. The couple was married in 1915 and separated five years ago. Mrs. Taggart through her attorney, Norman Becker, filed suit for separate maintenance but explained she would rather have her husband back. Taggart, however, told the court he wanted a divorce. They have a son, James Jr., 14 years old.

WRECK TOLL 42; HUNT FOR MORE BODIES IN RIVER

Bloomington Woman and Niece Are Found.

Miles City, Mont., June 21.—[Special.]—Men in boats searched tonight for the bodies of additional persons believed to have died in the wreck of the Milwaukee road's Olympian near here early Sunday morning. Five bodies have been recovered from the swift Yellowstone river.

Thirty-one bodies have been taken from the wreckage or the water, and it is believed twelve more dead are in a sleeping car which is imbedded in the silt on the bottom of Custer creek and has not been searched fully.

Twenty-five Bodies Identified.

Seventeen persons still are reported missing, but railroad officials expressed the belief some of those are among the unidentified dead. Twenty-five of the thirty-one bodies recovered have been identified.

Nine bodies already have been taken from the silt stuck sleeper. Among them were the bodies of Miss Katherine Clancy, 72 years old, of Bloomington, Ill., retired Chicago school teacher, and her niece, Marjorie Clancy, a student at Rosary college, River Forest, Ill. Miss Nellie Clancy, 60 years old, a Bloomington teacher, still is missing.

Chicagoans Still in Hospital.

Of the sixty-five persons injured in addition to the dead and missing, twenty-six remained today in hospitals. Physicians predicted that all the remaining injured would live. They said only three Chicagoans—Harry Buckley, 3362 Prairie avenue; Albert Dobbins, 3642 State street, and Michael Symkowski, 3041 North Central Park—and three others would require more than another day or two of treatment.

At an inquest opened today by Coroner Stanley Guy of Prairie county Louis Goplen of Calypso, Mont., section foreman, said he patroled Custer creek two hours before the train plunged through a flood weakened trestle and noticed only about four feet of water in the channel. A few hours later water from an upstream cloudburst filled the creek to a depth of twenty feet.

Describes Sleeper Plunge.

James S. Griffin of Tacoma, Wash., a field supervisor for the Milwaukee road and a passenger on the train, said that after the locomotive and first cars plunged through the bridge he saw sleepers A and B still on the steel girders of the bridge.

He said sleeper A did not slide into the water for twenty minutes and that he aided in getting all the passengers out of that car. A few moments later, he said, sleeper B, the car still stuck in the mud with its dead, uncoupled and slid into the water.

The jury tonight returned a verdict holding no one to blame for the disaster.

Granted Divorce

MRS. BESSIE VOLLENBROEK.

Mrs. Vollenbroek likes to have good times, she told Judge Philip Finnegan yesterday but she objects to her husband, John, continually entertaining his friends in the early morning hours at their home. Not only would he turn their home into a cabaret, she testified through her attorney, Harry X. Cole, but he insisted that she get out of bed and serve the drinks. She was granted a divorce. Mrs. Vollenbroek, 27 years old, lives at 6110 South Washtenaw avenue.

12 MORE TAVERNS CLOSED FOR RUM SALES TO MINORS

Mayor Kelly yesterday revoked the licenses of 12 more taverns where boys and girls of teen age were served drinks.

One of the most flagrant violations, the mayor said, was found at the Cave o' the Winds tavern at 2529 Milwaukee avenue. There at 3 o'clock in the morning of June 11 police found a party of high school students seated at tables drinking. Each was 20 years of age or younger.

In addition to John Ferrera, owner of the Cave o' the Winds, other tavern owners who had their licenses revoked are: Louis Gessler, 3620 North avenue; James J. Cleary, 4625 North Clark street; Homer P. West, 4311 North avenue; George F. Weinchowski, 3007½ North Kedzie avenue; Antoine Porok, 2125 South Pulaski road; Anton Kolodziej, 2059 Grand avenue; John Timlin, 2650-54 Lincoln avenue; Earl C. Gannon, 4459 North Kedzie avenue; Walter Kryzstop, 13321 Baltimore avenue; Dominick Orlando, 3520 East 106th street, and Albert Hoffman, 3943 Lincoln avenue.

Walter Jasiczak, who operates a tavern at 2149 North Leavitt street, and Edward Niemetka, his bartender, were fined $100 each in South State street court for sales to minors.

ACCIDENT VICTIM'S FUNERAL.

Rockford, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held at Belvidere Thursday for Frank Gravlin, 54 years old, a railroad switchman. His legs were severed when he fell under a freight car in the Chicago and Northwestern yards here yesterday.

Buy Breeding Cattle.

Two hefers bought for the farm were Pride of Rosemere 504th No. 520130 and Queen of Rosemere 305th No. 524725.

Rosemere blood dominates in all three animals which will be added to the Tribune herd, bringing to 43 the number of females being used as foundation stock in enlarging the herd of pure bred black cattle.

190 Head Sold.

The Tribune cattle were among the 190 head of Angus sold at the Congdon and Battles auction, which ended this afternoon. The animals, both males and females, brought a total of $91,155, averaging $480 a head. This is the highest average reached at any Angus sale of its size in the last fifteen years, according to W. H. Tomhave, secretary of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders association and an official at the auction.

The 155 females, including both young and aged animals, brought a total of $76,470 or an average of $493. The 35 bulls that went through the sales ring brought a total of $14,685, averaging $419.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hamilton Hackney of Cold Saturday farm, Finksburg, Md., bought Epponia C. B. 2d No. 452209, a seven year old cow, for $3,500, the highest price paid for an individual animal at the sale. The Hackneys were the heaviest buyers at the auction. They took twenty-eight Angus home with them.

The top show bull of the sale, Blackcap Rosemere 112th No. 486598, brought $2,500. He was bought by A. B. Hagner of Warrenton, Pa. The bull will be four years old this fall. The next highest bull, Prizemere 387th No. 486606, brought $2,000, going to George M. Laughlin, Kirksville, Mo. Sixteen animals sold for $1,000 or more each.

Wide Distribution.

The Congdon and Battles herd, one of the most outstanding in the Angus world for many years, will be distributed throughout the United States and Canada. The cattle were brought by breeders in seventeen states in addition to several Canadian provinces. The herd was established during the last quarter of a century and has an unequaled record in the black cattle show ring.

Judges at the International Live Stock expositions have awarded more than 300 prizes to this herd. The herd was established originally from Rosemere farm foundation animals here at the edge of Maquoketa, but has been developed in more recent years on the Congdon and Battles ranch at Yakima, Wash. The 190 animals were shipped here from Washington to be sold in the settlement of the Congdon and Battles estate. The herd was established by Otto V. Battles and the late Chester A. Congdon. Mr. Battles has been manager of the herd.

Col. Arthur W. Thompson and J. E. Haley were the auctioneers.

What Industry's TOP MEN will read in July

In the JULY issues

...as they lay their plans to increase sales and lower costs during the autumn months

He's a student and thinker . . . this man who runs Industry today! As he makes decisions now for Fall, he is reading about new production and distribution ideas, new machinery, and new materials in his chosen field.

For authentic interpretation

Younger men take the tip

Today, younger men . . . on their way up . . . are taking a tip from their superiors and forming the "McGraw-Hill habit" early. They find it makes them more valuable in the jobs they hold . . . helps them advance more rapidly. If you are one of these men, begin now to do specialized reading in your chosen field.

To read for more profit

. . . McGraw-Hill Reading Counsellors advise individuals on publications best suited to their needs. At the request of top executives, they also audit the business or technical reading of key department heads and propose reading programs to help them—and their companies.

Use the coupon below

. . . to secure a subscription, to get the advice of a Reading Counsellor, to get a sample copy. In your own interest, we suggest you look over the articles below, then use the coupon.

What is happening in your industry and OUTSIDE it that hurts—that helps? What WILL happen? What can YOU do about it—now?

Labor boomerang in Akron

Akron is a living lesson to American industry. From the story of Akron, management can learn of the danger of over-centralization. Labor can learn the folly of enforcing wages that kill jobs. Other communities can learn that it is never too early to start the industrial relations job. All three groups can learn that nobody ever wins a war—even a labor war.

Transit modernizes

The whole subject of modernization is treated in the July issue of Transit Journal. You learn how tested modernization methods of today are being used as the basis for planning broad modernization programs of the future. Also, the kind and extent of modernization now being undertaken on various transit properties . . . and further, the basic philosophy behind the programs and something of the results that are expected.

Controlling haulage costs

Every contractor, small or large, is concerned daily with the basic operation of haulage. The second of a series of articles on automotive hauling appears in the July issue of Construction Methods & Equipment. It discusses present-day methods of analyzing and controlling haulage costs on construction projects, and in open pit mines and quarries.

THE GERMAN SPY RING.

A federal grand jury in New York indicted eighteen persons on Monday on charges of espionage for the German government. The same day Germany beheaded a woman and two men accused of selling military secrets to Russia and Russia revealed that among scores recently shot in the everlasting purge was G. I. Petrovsky, president of the Ukrainian republic and a member of the all-Russian party governing body, the polit-buro. He was an accused spy.

Only four of the eighteen indicted in New York are in custody. They are alleged agents. Two principals charged with direction of the spy ring are Capt. Odo von Bonin and Capt. Hermann Menzel of the German war ministry. They of course are in no danger from Mr. Hardy, federal district attorney in New York, or from our state department, which supports the prosecutor. If there are confessions at the trial the war ministry officers will be hooked up with the espionage. The German government then will be almost directly arraigned as instigator of the plot.

Ordinarily governments when they get into a nest of spies in peace time are circumspect. The officials know there is a constant search for what are called military secrets. The spies and the officers who catch them both know that the acts must be disavowed. It's the old peace time army game. The country for which the agents worked is as innocent as the cat with cream on its whiskers and the bottle on the floor. That innocence is accepted on its face value. The agents are punished but it isn't often that an ambassador goes to a foreign office to protest. He knows his own agents are at work in that country and that the police are hunting for them.

Even the Russian military court which tried Stalin's purge victims, the old bolos, accusing them of treachery with agents of Japan and Germany, was ostensibly careful to keep the names of Japanese and German officials out of the record. There was a great show of sternness when a witness blurted them out. Not much sincerity can be attributed to that but at least it was conventional. When everybody is spying on everybody else it is not regarded as necessary or discreet to make diplomatic trouble by accusing the principals. It is enough to deal with the agents. Great Britain imprisons them. Germany and Russia execute them.

Not long ago Japan was the offender. A retired American navy officer was convicted, against his protestations of innocence, of selling secrets. A Japanese naval attaché was involved, but the matter reached no higher. In the New York indictments the Washington government reaches out for the German war ministry although it knows it cannot otherwise reach the alleged offenders. Germany already is so provoked by the legitimate notes of our state department concerning the Austrian debts and American property rights that it refuses even to reply. That's a high hat way of avoiding an answer when there isn't any which could be made in self-defense. Our state department hasn't taken that easily, although in turn it may reflect that the resentment in Germany caused by the American official obiter dicta on German barbarism didn't help diplomatic interchange between the two countries.

No doubt American aviation progress, the best in the world, has interested competing nations. They probably would pay money to get first look at designs. Military secrets are hard to keep. Even without bribery they go from one country to another. Skilled observers accredited to recognized posts know about what is going on.

AVIATION UNDER BUROCRACY.

Aviation is America's most adventurous private enterprise. The men who have been attracted to it do not put sealed frontiers to their ambitions. To be successful they must act in the public interest. They must invest heavily and take financial risks cheerfully and courageously. They must provide safety, comfort, and speed. They have every incentive, so long as they are free and independent, to give the United States not only the best commercial aviation in the world but the military air reserve so important in this disturbed and threatened age.

The congress which has just adjourned was not able, although feebly reminded at the last moment, to do anything for the railroads, which are under governmental regulation and are approaching the point of financial breakdown. The railroads are the wards of burocracy and its victims. There was, however, time and opportunity to extend to aviation the system of regulation and burocratic control which has left the rails in a seemingly inextricable position of operating losses and defaults. Many members of congress predicted as they adjourned that what will happen to the railroads within the next few months may bring the legislators back in special session.

The theory of government is that air transportation shall not be free if rail transportation is chained by burocracy. So there is a new law creating a five man aeronautics authority which shall pass on security issues, mergers, and consolidations, regulate charges and fix rates of compensation for carrying the mails. Aviation is to join the rails in the clamps.

The cumulating effects of this may be waited with apprehension. Probably they will not be seen immediately, but gradually the private enterprisers will be subdued. The five man board will check them and slow them down. They will find that a status is more important than an improvement. The men who have been adventurous will become discouraged. The government paralyzes everything it touches. With so many derelicts of industry proving this it seems a great pity that burocracy could not keep its hands off air transport while it is still out on its frontiers.

GOV. EARLE AND THE GRAND JURY.

Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania appealed without success to the Supreme court of his state to prevent a threatened grand jury investigation of charges of graft in the Earle administration.

There was a time when men in public office, as a rule, welcomed the opportunity to reply in court to false charges of misfeasance or malfeasance. The courtroom seemed to them an incomparable forum. From it unfounded rumors could be quieted more effectively than in any other way. Latterly, office holders, though loud in their protestations of innocence, have been showing rather less eagerness to defend their stewardship in public trials. For example, WPA officials were forbidden by orders sent from Washington from appearing before grand juries investigating the misuse of relief funds.

It may be that public men today are less sensitive to calumny than in other days. Perhaps, too, they believe they can reply more effectively by means of the radio and press agentry than face to face with their accusers in court, even though in a formal trial the charges of wrongdoing must be specific, the testimony is subject to the rules of evidence, and the witnesses for the prosecution are subject to examination and cross-examination under oath.

THE FIGHT TONIGHT.

The battle of the month—it used to be of the century but these times are much too brisk to have anything to do with centuries—will be fought tonight in New York between the slightly non-Aryan Joe Louis and the Aryan hope, Max Schmeling. Schmeling is distinctly in an unpleasant spot.

When he met and defeated Louis before, Joe's only defeat, he was a full orphan. The Nazis had thrown him to the non-Aryans before he started across the sea. They disowned him, knowing that he was a man without a chance and therefore had to be a man without a country. When the totalitarian states say totalitarian they mean everything or nothing, and Schmeling was rated down to nothing. He then did what no one—an exception here and there—thought he could do.

As a triumphant Aryan he was restored not only to full citizenship honors but he was made the chief champion of the pure race. Another slightly non-Aryan, Jesse Owens, the American Olympic runner, is the one man who has made Hitler do a precipitate retreat regardless of dignity. Rather than receive the colored champion as a victor in the games the Fuehrer remembered that he had to see a man and ducked.

The German boxer is a thrifty fellow, who uses his profession as a gainful occupation and takes good care of his gains, but in the ring with Louis he knows that Nazi humbug has distorted a prize fight into a test of old Germanic demigod legends, and if he isn't Siegfried his name is mud. If he wants to see Hitler's smile again he must see Joe on his back for the count of ten. The thought may be an inspiration or a dampener.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

The military show of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, in Chicago at Soldiers' field gave many thousand citizens an opportunity to see part of the first line of defense with the modern equipment. The guard is now a modern army far advanced in the training and skill required for active duty. The officers and men have accepted a patriotic duty and with little display they devote themselves to the work which fits them to defend their country.

They are not often on view, and it is good for them and good for the citizens for whose defense they are trained that both should see each other. America makes so little of military display that it more often misses than overemphasizes the point of service.

Any body of men is helped by public appreciation of good work. That must be particularly true of men who self-effacingly enter the guard and give their time to be prepared for national emergency. They will be the first out, because they will be the first ready. It is everybody's hope that they'll not be needed, but service is built on the other possibility.

Editorial of the Day

PLYMOUTH MEMORIALIZES; SO DO WE.
[Rock Island Argus.]

In Plymouth, Mass., a movement is under way to re-create the good ship Mayflower, which sailed into harbor on a wintry day in 1620 with the Pilgrim Fathers on board. The Plymouth Historical society hopes to raise sufficient funds to construct a full size reproduction of the famous 180 ton ship and anchor it permanently at the same spot from which the 102 members of the Pilgrim band and crew took to their small boats to reach the shores of the new world.

We wish the society good fortune in its plans, because we believe in perpetuation of the traditions of the founding of our country. When the necessary funds are raised and the boat built, Plymouth will have something around which to stage an annual pageant depicting the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. The boat and pageant will doubtless become a tourist attraction.

Plymouth's attraction, once provided in this form, probably will draw thousands of visitors and receive nation-wide publicity, but it will be no nearer to historical accuracy than will an attraction now being made ready at our own Black Hawk State park. We refer to the museum which is to be equipped this summer with Indian and pioneer relics under the enlightened direction of John H. Hauberg of Rock Island.

Rock Island has as much reason to be proud of its rich heritage of Indian history as does Plymouth with its colonial background. We believe both communities are wise in preserving the record of the forbears who left the most indelible marks for those who came after them. We hope Plymouth is as fortunate as was Rock Island in obtaining some one to have direction of creation of its memorial. We daresay that relatively few men in the nation are as well versed in the history of their home communities as is Mr. Hauberg.

The influence of such memorials as the museum at Black Hawk park will be passed down from generation to generation. Such influence becomes the genesis of love of country. Impressed on the young it brings something of the never ending romance of the days of long ago into the commonplace things of today. It heightens adult appreciation of the community and gives new meaning to these hills and vales we call our home.

JUNE ALONG THE DES PLAINES.

Over the countryside June walks in gentle beauty, spreading her veil afar, swathing the green waving meadows with daisies, yarrow, and clover. Wild blackberry froths white along the roadside; in the wood wild carrot and giant cow parsnip, both topped in half fragrant bloom, stand like white-helmeted soldiers. Bees drone over the tremulous fringe on the meadow-rue, sipping slowly of its nectar; a lovely cecropia is languid in the dogwood; the elderberry is capped with bloomlike bits of yellowed old lace.

Down a little lane I walked toward the woodland. Overhead the sky was blue—like a Wedgwood bowl encircled with rare white clouds; purple mists of spiderwort veiled the roadside, and wild roses, scattering dew-drenched petals, filled the morning air with sweetness. Under the oaks, lovely with grasses, rose spikes of wild hyacinth, pale as a star sapphire; near by bloomed the bladder of white campion in profusion; the starry campion, already budded, will flower there before the month is ended.

Past the thicket of silver poplars and the catnip growing alongside, circling the pond shadowed by hawthorns, I plunged into the wood. Deep in the wood, near the river bank, I found it—the scarlet fire pink—rarely found in the Chicago region, choicest treasure of this woodland. From afar I saw its flaming scattered bloom, rising from the midst of towering grasses, blazing scarlet just above them; the "devil's lantern" of the wood it is and aptly named. Its brilliant color makes it a target for ruthless destruction. Where once it grew in great profusion over these woodlands bordering the river now only a few clumps remain. Particularly fine they are, in this season of moisture. In her garden of pale-tinted wild flowers June has painted but one in scarlet—this rare fire pink, now making a last brilliant stand in "my woodland."

Our favorite animal tale this week is the one Spencer Penrose, owner of the Broadmoor hotel at Colorado Springs, told Frank Bering when he was there last week. Penrose has an elephant in his private zoo that had been trained to catch automobile tires thrown to him. It twirls them around on its trunk and tosses them back to the thrower. One day Penrose allowed the elephant to be used in a parade in Colorado Springs. As it was walking along the street it spied a parked automobile with an uncovered spare tire on the rear. The animal made a lunge for the tire. Finding it affixed to the car it picked up the car in its trunk and tossed it to the other side of the street.

Chicago Has a Heart (No. 1).

Two shoeshine boys ordered soup in a loop restaurant, ate it and were leaving when the gentleman next to them stopped the boys and asked if they wouldn't like some strawberry shortcake for dessert. Yes, they would, and thank you. The blonde waitress (the one who can carry half a dozen plates on one arm) had just brought the shortcake when the brunette waitress (the one who is a dead ringer for Patsy Kelly) brought the boys a couple slices of watermelon. Another gentleman had the same idea. John E. Steve.

A little old lady selling marmalade to tenants in the office building approached a stenographer. The girl said all she had in her purse was a nickel, so she not only couldn't buy any marmalade but that if the boss did not pay her that day she would have to go without lunch. The old lady departed, to return ten minutes later and hand the girl a dime. "My dear, I don't want you to go without lunch. I've gone too many days without lunch and it isn't good for you. Please take this dime," she said.

Tomorrow's Mr. Pepys.

Perhaps the man we talked with yesterday is the Pepys of a later century. Not only does he keep a daily record of matters that touch his life but he has, bound into books, every communication ever addressed to him, every letter, every telephone message, every memorandum. They are in chronological order, beginning with letters written by his parents before his birth. He has saved the unpleasant things as well as the ones that do him credit, so it is a completely honest record of a man's life. The temptation has been strong to throw away unpleasant letters and notices, but he says he has made no exceptions. They are bound in chronological order; a police summons beside a friendly letter from Woodrow Wilson; a missive from a lady who wanted to sue him beside a letter of commendation from one of the distinguished men in public life; club chits, telegrams, bills. He has sixty-odd of the bound volumes now. Who knows what light they may throw on the man of the twentieth century—his hopes and troubles and problems, if preserved a long enough time.

ASSAULTS UPON THE DIGESTIVE TRACT.

FROM time to time caution has been uttered relative to the too liberal use of condiments, those highly spiced materials that may cover up the taste of good food, such as mustard, pepper, ginger, cinnamon, cloves, allspice, nutmeg, and mace. There is no better way to disguise poor cooking than through a liberal dash of flavoring.

But this does not explain why one should go slow on "hot" sauces. Unless well diluted, they are likely to produce irritation of the gastric mucous membrane, equivalent to true inflammation, and if an ulcer exists the lesion may be extended and the condition made much worse.

Not only is the stomach harmed, but the damage may extend along the entire course of the digestive canal. Patients with diverticuli—those tiny, pealike outpocketings of the bowel wall—and those with hemorrhoids [piles] may find their distress aggravated.

The healthy man or woman who possesses a good appetite should have little need for spices. To the one, however, whose hunger sense has been jaded and surfeited with the entire gamut of edibles, particularly if nutrition is low, some of these agents may be resorted to in proper dilution. Again, with invalids and those who are convalescing, certain flavorings may be a powerful aid to digestion. For example, beef tea, which has little nutritive value, may exert a desirable form of stimulation upon gastric glands.

What is the reaction? In mild concentration condiments act through the organs of taste as well as directly upon the stomach wall. There is an increased desire for food because of the secretion of a greater amount of gastric juice. Of course, if there is any disease along the alimentary tract they may make the situation worse. Then, too, the kidneys are not immune to injury, and well nigh complete abstinence should be insisted upon with any one who is suffering from urinary tract trouble.

Let us inquire as to the results when they are utilized in huge quantities. Nature does not accept such insults with complacency and every type of irritation brings about some sort of defense on the part of the body. A smarting, burning liquid, as a rule, calls for the secretion of a large amount of water for the purpose of lessening its effects. Even more important is the manufacture of mucus, again designed to establish a protective layer for the delicate lining cells. After every dose of a cathartic such as epsom salts, sodium phosphate, or castor oil there is a greatly increased outpouring of mucus.

It is not difficult to understand that any compound which excites the sympathetic nervous system is likely to bring on congestion of the bowel wall. A strong solution of sodium chloride—17 per cent, for example—which is so often used for enemas, is followed by engorgement of the blood vessels. A recent report by White and Jones points out that many drugs thus affect the inner surface of the intestine. It makes but little difference whether they are taken by mouth or are injected into the rectum.

Experiments with the ordinary soapsuds solution passed into the lower bowel disclosed the fact that blood vessels become greatly dilated and many times the normal volume of mucus was produced. In other words, the condition of the intestinal lining appeared exactly as though the patient were the victim of a well established case of mucous colitis. In some instances the typical picture of this disease was reproduced, consisting of abdominal cramps, stools of small caliber streaked with blood, and a dull ache along the course of the colon, particularly that which lies low down on the left side of the abdomen.

Many of us can take this lesson to heart, not to harbor at either end of the digestive canal anything which calls for a prompt counterattack. The victory over constipation can be achieved by other means than by the adoption of the irrigation habit.

1. Varicose capillaries are much like varicose veins. They are caused by degenerative changes in the vessel wall or by circulatory disturbances, or both. Diet is often a factor.

2. This is a common complaint. No one likes to get up. Good hygiene demands sufficient rest. Try increasing the hours in bed. If you are overweight lower the food intake to meet your needs.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland.—Charles Bockstrom of Cleveland, O., who emigrated to Russia from America in 1930-'32 and then made his way back to Finland, is a mechanic.

He spent a number of years working in the famous Gorki [Nishni-Novgorod] auto factory which was sold to the soviet government by Henry Ford.

"The soviet authorities were angry when they learned Ford had decided to bring out a new improved model and they decided to do the same," Bockstrom said. "The result is that the Gorki factory has never operated efficiently. On the conveyor where I worked we were supposed to turn out 160 cars a day. We had great trouble in producing 70 and these were not completely finished when they were placed on freight cars and sent to various points in Russia.

"Last November and December, when the Moscow press reported the factory to be producing 96 cars per day we were only producing 16. There is serious trouble in every department.

"While American engineers were in charge there was more efficiency. But as soon as they left things became worse. The Americans showed the Russians how to make castings and what kind of sand to use. When they left a Russian engineer discovered better sand. Thereafter castings cracked and enormous waste resulted.

"The Russians are using English and Swedish steel and American Babbit metal. They have been experimenting for years but they have never yet produced a good Babbit metal. Either it is too hard or too soft. In both cases the motor cannot work properly. There is much sabotage. Every time the factory attempted to increase production the engineers appeared with new plans and designs and the entire production process was interrupted.

When I left Gorki a fortnight ago food was again plentiful, but during the early part of the winter meat, butter, and eggs could not be obtained in the district and for about a month there was a serious shortage of bread. This intensified the general dissatisfaction of the workers and also affected production."

"Eighteen months ago our engineers announced a wonderful discovery," he said. "Normal tires must contain at least 30 per cent rubber and they designed a tire which only contained 7 per cent rubber. The saving of foreign exchange was tremendous, since Russia must import rubber, and the engineers received the Order of Lenin, Russia's highest decoration.

"The tires seemed to stand up in winter, but during warm weather they blew up. Consequently thousands of buses, trucks, and pleasure cars could not operate last summer. In one Leningrad garage housing 200 taxis only twenty were working. The rest had no tires. For some reason the directors were not molested. A large number of workers in the factory were arrested and charged with sabotage."

"The factory obtained a model of a well known American refrigerator and after inspecting it decided it would be easy to begin mass production in the Chelyabinsk plant," he said. "Dies, stamps, and other necessary machines were constructed and the factory began to produce refrigerators.

"However, the chemical engineers could not discover the proper mixture of the chemicals needed for the freezing plant and none of the machines worked. After three months of experimenting the dies, stamps, and machines were stored in the junk house. The project to build refrigerators was forgotten. How much money was wasted was never stated, but it must have amounted to several million rubles. The fourteen American engineers who are employed at the Chelyabinsk plant are still trying to introduce efficiency."

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Chicago, June 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B signed a judgment note. 1. C had it put through court and in 1932 execution was carried out. B passed away shortly before this and A has remarried and changed her name. A has also transferred real estate to A and D [her new husband] in joint tenancy.

Seeing the [2] time of execution is up and A and D have real estate in joint tenancy, [3] C has asked them to give her a new note with a written agreement of small monthly payments. No payments have been made on note.

4. A and D are willing, provided C buys the real estate at their set price, and then they will come to terms.

5. C feels that she is under no obligation to A and D. A first mortgage is on the building.

6. C realizes that mortgage holder has first claim. If execution sale is carried through and C is willing to assume the mortgage as it is or by lending money to pay off same, [7] what can A and D do about it?

8. The mortgage holder may start foreclosure proceedings. If property is sold and mortgage holder bids the highest price, C knows he will get the property. But if it is in excess of his holdings and his expense [9] is not C entitled to the balance of his excess bid?

10. Would C's judgment be wiped out entirely?

11. If A and D refuse to renew the note, can the old note have a new execution put against A, former signer of note, [12] even though her name has been changed?

13. Or is the note void?

14. If C bids highest or high enough to cover the mortgage holder, does C get this property? E. M.

1. We asume that C is the payee of the note.

2. It is not clear whether you mean the 90 day life of the execution or the seven years' life of the lien of the judgment.

3. In general, a creditor is in a position to name the terms on which he will refrain from subjecting the real estate to execution sale.

4. In general the debtors are not in a position to name the terms.

6. Correct.

7. Nothing. They will be wiped out.

THE CUSTER CREEK WRECK.

Chicago, June 21.—The editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE on the disaster at Custer creek carries the inference it may have been due to "inadequate inspection and maintenance of the bridge."

The accident was due to an unprecedented cloudburst occurring in the Custer creek valley, bringing a wall of water to the bridge with such force and volume as to undermine it.

Without in any way undertaking to prejudge the interstate commerce commission investigation, it is pertinent, in the light of statements made in the editorial, to mention briefly the history of this bridge. When the western extension was built through this territory in 1908 a pile bridge was constructed over Custer creek, which normally is a dry run about nine months of the year. In 1913 the permanent structure was started and completed in 1914 consisting of standard concrete construction with steel girders. Maintenance of such a structure consists in renewal of ties, rails, and fastenings as needed, and this has been done. The inspection required is examination at regular intervals of abutments and piers and an annual general inspection, all of which has been currently done in the case of this bridge and all others on the railroad.

Throughout the depression the main objective of the Milwaukee road has been to furnish safe transportation and everything has been subordinated to that end. The management, confronted with the necessity of either failing to pay interest on its debts or skimp its maintenance to a point which might have resulted in unsafe operating conditions, chose unhesitatingly the former course and three years ago placed the property in bankruptcy. Maintenance of track and structures has been carried to and kept at a high standard. This statement need not rest on the management's word. Experts of the Reconstruction Finance corporation made an exhaustive examination of the property and reported in 1937:

> Physical condition of track and structures has been built up and much improved in the last decade and is now adequate not only for present but also for a substantially increased trafic volume. Standards are good and have been well and economically maintained. . . . Ballast is generally ample and of good quality. Bridging has been adequately maintained and much timber trestling replaced with permanent work in recent years. The current and future rail, tie, and ballast renewal programs are adequate to maintain and progressively improve the good track condition which has been achieved.

This terrible disaster falls as a heavier blow on the men in the Milwaukee road operating organization than on any others save those bereaved, and it seems fair to ask that hurtful assumptions be not indulged pending the investigation of the interstate commerce commission.

APPROVE 6 MORE CHAPTERS OF CITY BUILDING CODE

Council Hopes to Finish 10 Year Job Soon.

The council subcommittee on the building code yesterday recommended passage of six additional chapters of Chicago's new building regulations. The session was the first of several that the aldermen have scheduled in an effort to wind up this task before they adjourn for the summer.

There are 47 chapters in the complete set of building requirements as drafted by the citizens' committee of engineers and architects appointed by Mayor Kelly. Of these, 21 chapters have been passed by the council and five others are still pending. The chapters which the subcommittee recommended yesterday and any others approved at a meeting tomorrow will be taken up by the full committee on building and zoning next week.

15 to Council July 6.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], chairman of the subcommittee, who has been working on the code for almost two years, said 15 new chapters probably will be introduced in the council July 6, leaving only 6 to be considered in finishing the job that was started more than ten years ago.

Chapters approved yesterday cover requirements for theaters, open air assembly units [baseball parks, race tracks, stadiums, etc.], public assembly units [art galleries, armories, and auditoriums], various miscellaneous structures not included elsewhere in the code, frontage consents, and detailed essentials for the size and location of rooms.

Few changes were made in the regulations for theaters, according to Deputy Commissioner of Buildings Robert Knight. Since the period of reform following the Iroquois theater fire in 1903, Chicago has had a model code for these structures.

Order Oversight Remedied.

Deputy Commissioner Knight was directed to rewrite the section dealing with ailes after Ald. Arthur J. Lindell [9th] noticed that no ailes parallel with the stage or screen were required on the lower floors of show houses. The committee also overruled a recommendation to mark exits with green instead of red lights.

The only remaining chapter over which possibility of a battle looms is that dealing with administration of the code. Members of the council have indicated that they will oppose any effort to have sole authority vested in the city building department or divided among various technical and professional societies.

WORKER KILLED BY FALL INSIDE ELGIN CHIMNEY

Irving Spalek, 1420 Elk Grove avenue, was killed and Albert Schaffrich, 1227 Altgeld street, was seriously injured yesterday when a scaffold broke inside a chimney being wrecked in the Slade avenue water pumping station at Elgin. Both plunged 125 feet to the ground level. The men were employed by a wrecking concern. The chimney, which was originally 185 feet high, is being torn down because the pumping of Elgin's water is now being done by electricity. A third workman, Glen Crichton of Carpentersville, was on the scaffold, but saved himself by seizing a timber.

JUDGE HEADS OFF HAGUE'S ATTACK ON C.I.O. LAWYER

Newark, N. J., June 21.—(AP)—Presentation of charges that Mayor Frank Hague abrogated free speech and assemblage in Jersey City ended in federal court today with the mayor seeking in vain to make another attack on Morris L. Ernst, C. I. O. counsel.

On his feet in the jury box the tall vice chairman of the national Democratic committee was silenced by Judge William Clark.

"Judge, I would like to be permitted to make a public statement involving Mr. Ernst," said Hague, pointing at Ernst among the C. I. O. and American Civil Liberties Union lawyers pressing an injunction suit against Hague and fellow officials to restrain them from interfering with those organizations' activities in Jersey City.

"Not as a statement from the witness stand," Judge Clark told Hague. "You will have to offer it as evidence through your counsel."

POLICE TO TRACE "BOOTLEG" SALES OF FIREWORKS

Storekeepers who sell fireworks to children will be traced by police, Police Commissioner James P. Allman warned yesterday. The commissioner issued his warning when it was reported that storekeepers are practicing speakeasy tactics and selling only to children they know.

Any police officer who finds a child with firecrackers has been instructed to find the place where the child got the dangerous playthings, Allman said. The child's parents also are held liable for the child's use of fireworks.

Joseph Smoley, 9 years old, 924 North Honore street, son of a WPA worker, was one of the first Fourth of July casualties when he was struck on the head by a can blown into the air by homemade fireworks. Boys playing in the alley behind his home were said to have mixed the explosive from drug store chemicals.

111 YR. HISTORY GIVES SHURTLEFF PIONEER RANKING

Illinois College Launches Drive for Funds.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alton, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—One day in the spring of 1827 a young Presbyterian minister, the Rev. John M. Ellis, a graduate of Andover Theological seminary, who had recently come into Illinois as a missionary, was riding on horseback in the Sangamon country. He heard the sound of an ax and, coming to a clearing in the midst of hazels and blackjacks, he found a woodman at work.

"What are you doing here, stranger?" he asked.

"I am building a theological seminary," was the reply.

"What, in these barrens?"

"Yes, I am planting the seed."

The woodman was John Mason Peck, pioneer Baptist minister and teacher, and the seed he was planting became the Rock Spring seminary, then was transplanted to Alton and became Shurtleff college, which is known as the oldest educational institution in the west. Ellis went on from that meeting to establish Illinois college at Jacksonville.

Over 1,200 Graduates.

It cannot be reported that the seed is flourishing today, for Shurtleff had only 19 graduates in its 111th commencement, the smallest class for a number of years, while the majority of freshmen are day students who live in Alton and its dormitories are partly vacant. It has turned out, however, more than 1,200 graduates, many of whom became prominent in church, law, and legislature. It was named after Benjamin Shurtleff, a Boston attorney, who in the days of its early struggle for existence gave the college $10,000, its largest gift.

A living endowment program to bring an additional income of $50,000 a year to save Shurtleff from extinction has been inaugurated by Dr. Paul Lamont Thompson, seventeenth president of the college, who calls this the year of destiny for the pioneer school.

"Institutions as well as nations have their times of test," he says in the college bulletin, "when destiny hangs upon the outcome of a single campaign, or policy, or other undertaking.

Calls for Coöperation.

"Such a time has come to Shurtleff college. No college can survive indefinitly with so meager a support as Shurtleff college has had for the last fifty years. I cannot be too clear in saying that this is a year of crisis for your college. The time has come to ask the alumni and friends of Shurtleff, to ask the people of Alton and the various affiliated church organizations, to join in a continuing, carefully thought out program of development. Not only is the rating of the college involved in the success of the program, but the very existence of the college is at stake."

Ten thousand dollars a year is being sought from the alumni to save Shurtleff, and the Baptist churches are being called upon to stay in the educational field in a strong way, to continue and strengthen a job that the state universities and the secular institutions cannot do.

"It is as important, surely," says Dr. Thompson, "to maintain in America, in Illinois, institutions of learning where the pull on the hearts and minds of people is Christian, as to maintain in America, in Illinois, institutions of learning where American education, with emphasis on materialism, with careful avoidance of Christian teaching, will never build the Kingdom in individual lives. It will not build it socially or nationally.

Cites Trend of Times.

"The trend of the times argues for such institutions as Shurtleff college, from whose doors, as from the doors of many another church college there have gone through these many years men and women who, while they were not blind to the need of economic competency, have nevertheless gone out into the world motivated by something more altruistic than commerce and better than mere bread.

"The small Christian college, with its primary attention to the making of a man, rather than the skilling of a man, after all is doing a fundamental work that is not in opposition to, but that is fundamentally vital to success in the great skills of commerce.

"In the future we will again expect our colleges to impart overmastering shaping theories of life. Too many of our college men seem to be on their way without long plans or deep purposes or high motives. We have been so enamored of new things that we have grown cold toward the old virtues. The colleges, like catering concerns, have served the hunger for things. Too many of them have not learned the distinction between the abundant life and abundant possessions.

"With the return of sobriety the Christian liberal arts college will be seen as doing a great foundational work in building the undergirding structure of Christian American leadership."

Mrs. Peterkin's Will Gives $50,000 Estate to Family

An estate of $50,000 is disposed of in the will of Mrs. Jeanette Knights Peterkin of 1500 Lake Shore drive, filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Mrs. Peterkin was killed Saturday when a hydroplane piloted by her son, Daniel Peterkin Jr., upset in Lake Geneva. The will leaves the estate to her husband, who is president of the Morton Salt company, and her two children, and provides an income for her mother, Mrs. Erogene Knights, 90 years old.

Hunt Boy's Body in Lake on Estate at Barrington

Firemen from Algonquin and Lake Zurich were still searching yesterday for the body of Robert Heskett, 18 years old, of Davenport, Ia., who drowned Monday when a sailboat overturned in an artificial lake on the Barrington estate of Orville S. Caesar. Three young men and a girl, Lenore Berlik of 5085 Wilson avenue, who were in the craft when it capsized, swam ashore.

Summertime Steals Up on Chicago in the Night

It's summer! Has been since 9:04 p. m. yesterday, which, incidentally, was the longest day of the year. The maximum temperature of 77 degrees was the normal maximum for the day, Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said. There were 15 hours 14 minutes of sunlight. Today will be partly cloudy and warmer.

PARAGUAY QUITS WORLD COURT IN GRAN CHACO ROW

GENEVA, June 21.—(AP)—Paraguay notified the league of nations today it had decided to withdraw from the world court at the Hague. The South American nation's action was believed intended to prevent Bolivia from taking the Gran Chaco conflict before the International court.

A "final" plan for settlement of the century-old boundary dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia was handed to their foreign ministers on May 27. The failure of the plan, drafted by six neutral powers including the United States, became clear on June 7 when Paraguay refused to modify a previous position, which amounted to rejection of the formula.

Paraguay already had withdrawn from membership in the league of nations. Its intention to resign was submitted formally on Feb. 23, 1935, and became effective two years later.

TURKEY BREAKS TIES WITH LEAGUE BOARD IN SYRIA

GENEVA, June 21.—(AP)—Turkey today broke off relations with the league of nations committee controlling elections in the Syrian district of Alexandretta, which lies along the Turkish frontier.

In a note to the league secretariat, Turkey charged that the committee had failed to maintain impartiality in the registration of voters for an election at an undetermined date this summer to decide whether Alexandretta would be controled by Turks or Arabs.

League quarters pointed out that Turkey had had few relations with the committee, which was accredited to France as the mandatory power controling Syria. French and Turkish general staf officers already have started conversations in Alexandretta for an accord to cover the election.

HARLAN COOLEY IS DEAD; VETERAN CHICAGO LAWYER

Harlan Ward Cooley, 72 years old, a Chicago attorney for forty-seven years, died yesterday at his summer home in Harbert, Mich. He resided at 5318 Greenwood avenue.

Mr. Cooley was born in Washington, D. C., the son of the late Judge D. N. Cooley, who was a former commissioner of Indian affairs. He was a graduate of Yale university and the Yale law school.

For many years Mr. Cooley was resident vice president and general counsel of the American Fidelity company. He was a member of St. James Methodist Episcopal church and of the University, City, Yale, Quadrangle, and Hamilton clubs. Surviving are his widow, Helen; a son, Harlan, and a daughter, Mrs. Rudolph Altrocchi.

HOLDS SHANAHAN ESTATE LIABLE FOR BANK STOCK

Reversing a ruling by Judge Joseph Burke, the Illinois Appellate court yesterday held that the estate of the late David E. Shanahan, Illinois legislator, is liable for $24,000 in capital stock of the closed Central Manufacturing bank and remanded the case for retrial.

Before his death in 1936, Mr. Shanahan effected a compromise with creditors of the bank on the ground he was partially insolvent, according to the opinion. After his death, attorneys for the bank filed a petition asking the compromise be set aside, asserting that Shanahan had left an estate estimated at $1,000,000.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Roberta Jonay, the St. Petersburg, Fla., dancer, who twice has been a ouse guest of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in Washington, D. C., and Hyde Park, N. Y., is a grownup girl now and ready to pursue a professional career with a recently developed adult routine. She came to the attention of Mrs. Roosevelt first when she was 17 years old and danced for her guests at Hyde Park. Later she appeared at a White House party.

WILL RAZE OLD HOTEL.

LaPorte, Ind., June 21.—[Special]—Work of razing old Tecgarden House here to be replaced by a one story business block, will start July 1. The present owner, J. C. Richter, said the hotel, four stories high, was built in 1852.

Wife of Radio Announcer Gets Temporary Alimony

Mrs. Josephine Dowd of 2100 Lincoln Park West, was awarded $80 a month temporary alimony yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe for support of herself and son, Donald Jr., 3 years old. She has a divorce suit pending charging cruelty. Dowd, a radio announcer, was given permission to file a cross bill against his wife. The couple were married in 1933 and separated June 1.

2 Draw Fines for Giving Customers Short Measure

Theodore Milas, market owner at 1815 Chicago avenue, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the Municipal court for short-weighing. Eleanor Golden, owner of a filling station at 2345 West 111th street, was fined $10 for shortmeasuring in the sale of gasoline.

Gag Rule Splits Townsend Convention Into 2 Camps

DIES OF ELECTRIC BURNS.

Plymouth, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—James Magee, 38 years old, of 121 Arsenal avenue, Indianapolis, died as he reached the hospital here today as the result of burns and shock incurred when he came in contact with electric wire at the top of a pole.

OBITUARIES

Andrew J. McGee.

Andrew J. McGee, who retired in 1932 after being employed in the engineering department of the Illinois Bell Telephone company for fifty-one years, died yesterday in his home in Antioch. He was 79 years old. Mr. McGee was a member of the Theodore N. Vail chapter of Telephone Pioneers, an organization of telephone workers. He is survived by his widow, Mary Jane, and a daughter. The funeral will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in St. Peter's church in Antioch.

Jack Squires.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Jack Squires, 43 years old, veteran of many musical comedy rôles on Broadway, died of heart disease today. He played the juvenile lead in the road company of "The Chocolate Soldier." His other musical shows included "Very Good, Eddie," "Yours Truly," "Artists and Models," "Rio Rita," and "The Laugh Parade." He was born in Camden, N. J.

Charles H. Jarmuth.

Funeral services for Charles H. Jarmuth of Moline will be held in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Mr. Jarmuth, who was 52 years old, died Monday of injuries suffered in a fall at his Moline home. He was auditor of the East Moline works of the International Harvester company, and a former Chicagoan.

Maj. A. Elliott Ranney.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Maj. A. Elliott Ranney, 62 years old, sportsman and crack pistol shot, died today after a long illness. With the entry of the United States into the war he became an officer in the army air corps. He crashed and was injured in France. Later he returned to this country to direct the fitting of planes for war service.

Arthur Lynn Crandall.

The funeral of Arthur Lynn Crandall, who landscaped the estates of many well known Chicagoans, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home of his sister-in-law at 119 South 2d street, Highland Park. Mr. Crandall died on Monday at the age of 65 in his home on Wood bridge lane in Highland Park. His widow, Mary; two daughters and a son survive.

DANIEL HOHM, 78, SYCAMORE, ILL., EX-SHERIF, DIES

Sycamore, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Daniel Hohm, 78 years old, who served two terms as sherif of De Kalb county, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dell Slaymaker, in Kirkland. He was elected sherif in 1898 shortly before Sycamore and De Kalb were rivals for the courthouse. He was active in making Sycamore the county seat. Hohm served one term as county treasurer and was bailif in the De Kalb county Circuit court for several years, retiring a year ago.

Old-timers remember him also as player-manager of Sycamore ball teams when they were the outstanding amateur nines of northern Illinois. He was born in New York City.

FINAL ACCOUNTS SHOW M. DREYFUS LEFT $1,432,894

The final accounting of the estate of the late Moise Dreyfus, retired steel manufacturer, was approved yesterday in Probate court by Joseph F. Geary, assistant to Judge John F. O'Connell. Mr. Dreyfus died March 6, 1937, in Phoenix, Ariz. He lived at 3330 Lake Shore drive.

PARIS FIREMEN PUT OUT BLAZE ON ROOF OF LOUVRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—The Louvre, the most important public building in Paris and famous both for its architecture and treasures of art, was endangered tonight when a fire broke out on the roof. Seven fire companies sped to the museum and quickly put out the blaze.

The Louvre, which is supposed to derive its name from an ancient rendezvous of wolf hunters, known as the "Lupara" or "Louverie," was first begun by Philip Augustus. He reigned from 1180 to 1223. In 1527 Francis I. modernized the château, which was used as a castle.

Various wings were erected by Henry II. and later by his widow, Catherine de Medici, during the reigns of her sons Francis II. and Charles IX. and Henry III. Henry IV. added a story to the "Grande Galerie." Operations on a grander scale were conceived by Louis XIII. and Louis XIV. Napoleon I. resumed the completion of the Louvre in 1805. In 1852 Napoleon III. erected new buildings. All these building form the largest and most sp'endid palace in the world, covering an area of 49 acres.

VATICAN STUDIES "MIRACLE" ACTS OF AMERICAN NUN

VATICAN CITY, June 21.—(AP)—The congregation of rites today investigated miracles attributed to Mother Philippine Rose Duchesne, a French nun who died and was buried in the United States, in proceedings for her beatification.

Mother Duchesne is one of two nuns who labored in America already decreed worthy of veneration by the church. The other is Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, an Italian, who died in Chicago in 1917. Last week a Vatican news service said her beatification was to be expected in October or, at latest, in January. If these two are beatified and canonized they will be considered American saints, because both were buried in the United States.

Mother Duchesne joined the Visitation nuns as a young girl and in 1818 was selected to introduce the community to the new world. She settled at St. Charles, Mo., where the first school west of the Mississippi was established. Later she traveled by oxcart almost to the Rockies, establishing convents and schools. She died at St. Charles.

COURT LIFTS BAN ON CUT RATE FOR NIGHT HAIR CUTS

Freeport, Ill., June 21.—(AP)—Three Circuit judges sitting en banc today dissolved a temporary injunction issued by one of them last August restraining a barber from cutting hair for less then 50 cents . trim and from keeping open after 6 o'clock p. m.

The judges, Harry Edwards, Albert H. Manus, and Leon A. Zick, dissolved the injunction issued by Edwards and declared a contract between the barber, Herman Rose, and the barber's union was invalid because it was against public policy and tended to create a monopoly.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY starts Lake Forest's busiest and gayest four days of the summer, for the 38th Lake Forest Horse show opens today at 1:30 o'clock in the Onwentsia club's mammoth outdoor ring. Almost one-tenth of the 100,000 riding horses kept in this country exclusively for pleasure, according to figures supplied by the secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America and published yesterday, will be exhibited during the four-day show.

When the entries closed it was found that there were 950 of them, making the show the second largest one in the United States. Only the one in Devon, Pa., tops our Lake Forest show.

Eliminations will start about 8 this morning, but the show proper does not start until after luncheon. There will be performances every afternoon at 1:30; morning ones starting at 9 tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday, and evening ones at 8 tonight, tomorrow, and Friday. The culminating feature of the show and its attendant gayety will be a dinner-dance at the Onwentsia club Saturday night at which the president of the Lake Forest Horse Show association, Albert B. Dick Jr., will be toastmaster and will present the trophies.

Start Entertaining Out of Town Visitors.

Preceding the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Dick will entertain at a cocktail party at their home. The festivities for the visiting exhibitors started yesterday with a cocktail party and buffet luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews King. In the afternoon Gen. Karl Truesdell gave a tea at Fort Sheridan for the Canadian military teams and the Samuel J. Walkers entertained similarly for other guests. Last night the Kimball Salisburys gave a dinner party.

Today the junior William B. McIlvaines, the Salisburys, and Mrs. Merrill Hubbard will be luncheon hosts, and tomorrow John T. Pirie Jr. will entertain at luncheon at the home of his parents. The John F. Jelkes will give a dinner tomorrow night, and on Friday the Walkers, the William H. Mitchells, and the Prentice Porters will be dinner hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connor are giving a luncheon at their home Friday, and the Fort Sheridan Horse Show association will entertain at luncheon in the Officers' club. Luncheon hosts Saturday will be the Laurance H. Armours, the young Watson Armours, the John B. Morses, and the William A. P. Pullmans.

There are ten hunt teams entered in the Joseph M. Cudahy Challenge trophy, to be won three times by any team representing the hunt. It was won in 1935 by the Metamora Hunt club, in 1936 by the Mill Creek, and last year by the Rolling Rock. Both the Mill Creek and the Rolling Rock will compete this year, with Mrs. McIlvaine, Mrs. Salisbury, and Mrs. Hubbard riding for the Mill Creek.

Miss Helen Bell to Be Bride Today.

One of today's brides is Miss Helen Bell, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell of Winnetka, who is being married at 5 o'clock in Christ church chapel, Winnetka, the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard officiating. Her bridegroom is Geoffrey de Freitas of London, England, son of Sir Anthony and Lady de Freitas of Barbados in the West Indies.

Only relatives will witness the ceremony. A few of Miss Bell's intimate friends will join them later at her parents' home to drink a toast to their happiness. Mr. de Freitas and his bride will live in London.

Miss Bell, who will wear the veil that her mother, the former Nathalie Fairbank, wore at her marriage to Mr. Bell, will have one of her sisters, Miss Frances Bell, for her only attendant. Benjamin Fairbank, a cousin of the bride, will be Mr. de Freitas' best man.

Mann-Chamberlin Nuptials Tomorrow.

In a chapel of the National cathedral at Washington, D. C., tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock Miss Beverly Mann, only child of Capt. William L. Mann., U. S. N., and Mrs. Mann, will become the bride of William Charles Chamberlin, youngest son of Col. and Mrs. Henry Barrett Chamberlin of Chicago. Canon Slater Dunlap will officiate. John Byrne Chamberlin of Washington will be his brother's best man.

Following the service there will be a small reception at the home of the bride's uncle, Col. Joseph C. Fegan, commanding the United States marine baracks at Washington. Only members of the families and a few friends will attend the ceremony and reception. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin will be at home in New York, where he will do post-graduate work in economics at Columbia university. He was graduated this month from Dartmouth college, ranking first in the class.

Garden Party to Aid Lake Bluff Orphanage.

On Saturday, July 9, Mrs. Harry M. McIntosh will open her Lake Forest estate, Belorme, for the sixth annual garden party to benefit the Lake Bluff orphanage. Mrs. Alden B. Swift and Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell are co-chairmen in charge of arrangements, and among those working on their committee are Mrs. Owen West, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., Mrs.

Dorothy Wegg Becomes Bride

Two More Join Growing Ranks of June Brides

TWO of yesterday's brides were Miss Dorothy Wegg, daughter of David Spencer Wegg of New York, who was married in St. James' church to George Walker Morgan, and Miss Hope Hamilton Kaufman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Livingston Kaufman of the Congress hotel, who was married in the gold room of the Congress to Gordon Raymond Smith.

Miss Wegg, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Russell Wegg, wore ivory satin trimmed with rose point lace and carried white calla lilies. Her two attendants, a sister, Miss Helen Wegg, and Miss Elizabeth Morgan, sister of the bridegroom, were dressed, one in blue, the other in yellow chiffon, with matching hats. Following the service, which was read by the Rev. Duncan H. Browne, a few of Mr. Morgan and Miss Wegg's friends returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wegg to wish the couple good luck. Mr. Morgan, son of Mr .and Mrs. Alden K. Morgan, was attended by his brothers, John and Kendrick, as ushers, and by Milton Reach of Springfield, Mass., as best man.

Miss Kaufman wore white point d'esprit over a white satin slip, a tulle veil fastened on with a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried stephanotis, lilies of the valley, and white orchids. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace and pearl pendant, the gift of her mother, the former Hope Hamilton of New York, who wore it on her wedding day. The necklace was given to Mrs. Kaufman by the late Mrs. George Gould, a cousin of her mother, Mrs. William A. Hamilton, who is here from New York for the wedding.

Miss Marie-Elinor Redding of New York, who was Miss Kaufman's only attendant, wore madonna blue net, a heart shaped hat, and carried sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots. The Rev. Clifford Le Duc officiated. Mr. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hugo Smith of Detroit, and his bride will live in Detroit.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Banning of Winnetka announce the marriage last Friday of their daughter, Thalia, to Laurence Irven Wood, son of Dr. and Mrs. Irven B. Wood of Mitchell, S. D. The ceremony took place in the evening in the chapel of the Congregational church, Winnetka, followed by a reception at the Banning home. Dr. Wood, father of the bridegroom, read the service.

The marriage of Miss Janet Bachenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Bachenheimer of Fargo, N. D., to Gabe Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Joseph of the Park Lane hotel, will take place at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the Drake hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Bachenheimer have come from Fargo.

Have you seen the new baking tins of a special metal that prevents cakes, cookies, and the like from sticking and that insures a golden brown color? These utensils look like tin that has been given an almost invisible checkerboard design. They're not a bit expensive.

United Artists Will Show 12 Technicolor Features Next Year

Twelve full length features in technicolor will be released during the coming year by the United Artists corporation, it was announced yesterday by George J. Schaefer, vice president in charge of distribution, who is in Chicago for the corporation's annual sales meeting. Six independent producers will contribute thirty features to United Artists during the year and there will be introduced a new series of travel shorts, the only shorts the corporation has ever sponsored with the exception of the Walt Disney subjects.

The independent producers who are under contract with United Artists for the year are Samuel Goldwyn, Alexander Korda, David O. Selznick, Walter Wanger, Edward Small, and Hal Roach.

German Clubs to Open Song Festival Tonight

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets, willl be the scene tonight of the first concert of the thirty-ninth national German-American song festival. In the course of five programs [one this evening, two tomorrow, and two Friday] choral societies aggregating 10,000 persons are scheduled to appear.

Vocal soloists and sixty members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will assist the huge choral bodies and give added variety and interest to the concerts. The music to be used is predominantly but not exclusively German. Net proceeds of the festival will be given to charity.

Tonight's concert [beginning at 8:15] is to be given by the Chicago mixed chorus, the Chicago male chorus, the orchestra, and the following soloists: Esther Hart, soprano, and Mark Love, bass. Conductors are Walter H. Steindel and Ludwig Lohmiller.

The tolerance and even friendliness with which Chicago's major music schools regard one another was convincingly demonstrated last evening when Lazar Samoiloff, vocal instructor on the staf of the Chicago Musical college, received the honorary degree of doctor of music at the annual commencement of the Chicago conservatory. The scene was in Murphy Memorial hall in East Erie street.

Edgar Nelson, president of the Chicago conservatory, conferred the degree on Mr. Samoiloff and also awarded degrees, diplomas, and certificates to the members of his own school's 1938 class. He was introduced by Edgar A. Brazelton, the conservatory's dean.

Commencement soloists were Jean Houskeeper [Romance and rondo from the Chopin E minor piano concerto]; Ruby Mohr ["Je dis que rien ne M'Epouvante" from "Carmen"]; Robert Basso [Allegro moderato from the Wieniawski D minor violin concerto]; Adeline Ptacek ["Pace, Pace, Mio Dio" from "La Forza del Destino"]; Mildred Catenhusen [three movements of the D'Albert C major cello concerto], and Florence Klein [a portion of the fourth piano concerto of Saint-Saëns].

The solo part of the Bach violin sonata in E minor was played by Israel Baker, Robert Alexa, Charles Zila, Evelyn Patterson, Eleanor Picone, Abe Duman, and Robert Basso. The Respighi accompaniments were used. Keith Holden played the organ.

Robert L. Sanders conducted through most of the evening, resigning the baton to Adolph Pick for the Wieniawski and the Bach. Robert Basso, the Adolph Pick pupil who appeared in the Wieniawski, has already made two appearances in young people's programs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

To guide any prospective subscriber who is undecided as to which set of performances to choose, and to assure every purchaser of an opportunity to hear the "name" artists, the Chicago City Opera company yesterday announced some of the casting for the fall cycle. Kirsten Flagstad will sing on the Monday night series, Lily Pons on the Wednesday night and Saturday afternoon, Lawrence Tibbett on the Friday night, and Beniamino Gigli on the Saturday night. However, all of these artists will appear more than once.

Horseback Riding Popular at Winnetka School Camp

The Winnetka Summer School and Day camp opened yesterday with a registration of 250, Carleton Washburn, superintendent of the Winnetka schools, announced. Under the plan academic work and handicrafts are conducted in the Horace Mann school, swimming in the New Trier High school pool, and horseback riding at stables in Niles Center. The horsemanship course, most popular of all, has an enrolment of sixty, all children of grammar school age.

Prints Present Clear History of U. S. Cities

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most delightful exhibitions in town is that of American City prints from the Charles B. Pike collection, to be seen at the Chicago Historical society, Lincoln park at North avenue. Mr. Pike has long been interested in early American history, in the development of American towns and American customs.

Believing firmly that history is best taught graphically, he has made a superb collection of prints of American cities and as we follow the collection a surprisingly real understanding of our history results.

The Chicago Historical society has installed the prints most beautifully. They are under glass and the amount of frame has been reduced to a minimum. The prints are hung in six sections, geographically. You will find New England, Eastern, Mid-Western, Southern, Far-Western, and Chicago represented. Chicago is shown in various stages of growth. There are the log fort and Indian canoe of its earliest days, the Chicago of 1833, and the Chicago, a fully fledged city, of 1883. The Chicago of today is beautifully presented in a series of etchings, some by Leon Pescheret, the well known Chicago etcher.

New York is another city whose growth is stunningly illustrated. And for customs and costumes do not miss any of the prints. An early Detroit print shows the first lake steamboat. In the print of the city of Davenport, Ia., there is seen an early train, a perfectly charming toy, so we would consider it today.

In one of the New York prints there is a man carrying a long pole on which are slung a line of boots, evidently a perambulating shoe shop. The costumes of the men of San Francisco in 1854 show distinct evidence of a strong Spanish influence.

The first baseball game known to be recorded in picture is seen in "Union Prisoners at Salisbury, N. C.," an extremely rare print of 1863. Many of the prints are valuable; many, rare. The exhibition is fascinating; the more you see, really and truly, the more you want to see and the longer the time you want to devote to it. It is planned to keep the collection as a permanent installation at the Chicago Historical society so every one may have the fullest opportunity of enjoying it. This is a perfect way in which to learn American history.

The Indian tepee and the birch bark canoe, two new acquisitions of the society, are the gift of Col. Robert R. McCormick. Both were made by the Montagnais tribe of the province of Quebec, Canada. The tepee was constructed under the supervision of Tsibasse of Shelter Bay, Quebec, the oldest member of the tribe.

Northwestern Expects Enrollment of 4,700 in Summer School

Enrollment in the Northwestern university summer school will reach 4,700 tonight when registration closes, Prof. Ernest H. Hahne, director of the session, estimated yesterday. The first day's registration, Monday, was 4,160, a 10 per cent increase over the total for the first day last year.

Enrollment in the Chicago public school summer classes was reported to be 9,772 yesterday by Robert I. White, assistant superintendent in charge. The total for the second day of registration last year was 10,486. Mr. White attributed the decrease to the business recession.

Looking at Hollywood - by Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., June 21.—Few visitors to Los Angeles see it, because it is difficult to crash, the world famous Los Angeles flower market at 7th and Wall, that opens at 3 a. m., a riotous mass of vivid color. . . . The Japanese market has about 400 flower stalls, the American market has perhaps 300 stalls, and there are commission houses. . . . It is here that all Hollywood parties get the flowers which astonish the guests.

Schilling & Austin, who handled Joe Schenck's affair in honor of Darryl Zanuck, ordered 50,000 flowers at 4 o'clock Friday morning, and fifty florists worked right through until Saturday night to complete the job. The Basil Rathbone wedding party needed 15,000 gardenias . . . the Burns and Allen birthday party to Mary Benny called for 12,000 flowers, arranged in garlands. The main element is speed, for flowers wilt quickly.

Catering at such parties is handled generally by Martha Smith, whose chefs and staf can handle 1,000 people comfortably. . . . She tells me that the two Hal Roach parties were the hugest and most elaborate, the Doheny wedding ranking next. . . . The Roach party had five different kinds of cooking, but she took it in stride . . . she comes from St. Louis, via Chicago and Duluth, this amazing woman. . . . She left Duluth in 1918 for a good reason . . . the club she and her husband were operating was burned down by a forest fire.

Danielle Darrieux has aroused more raves from people of the industry than any player, as a result of her charm. . . . Performer must have charm to be a big star . . . the "freshies" never go far in the show business . . . charm is the thing . . . Darrieux has oodles of it—the way she wears her hat, the curl of her hair, the big eyes, the way she mangles the English language.

For a looker, she has unusual talent, too, a change of pace that was illustrated in turning from the drama of "Mayerling" to the lively situations of "Rage of Paris." . . . She might be included in the million dollar boners of this column. . . . RKO could have signed her at one time but slipped up on the deal. . . . Universal will coin a fortune with her because she's got everything. . . . She is part of France's repayment of the war debt.

He goes his own modest way out here in Hollywood . . . Joe Penner . . . the "d'ya wanna buy a duck" man, who has outlasted his severest critics. . . . The industry likes Penner, and I'll tell you why . . . he sneaks away from town every now and then to play unpublicized benefits at such places as the old soldiers' home. . . . Not only does he take a troupe of performers [for whom he pays] along with him to entertain the old timers but, like as not, he brings along presents for the veterans, or orders a big dinner for them.

He's a good kid, this Penner, with a streak of real humaneness in him. . . . Next time you see a Penner picture advertised go up to the box office and buy a ticket . . . that kind of a fellow rates your support, because there are too few of them.

I wish that the Hollywood producers would make up their minds, or hush up. . . . To date, seven of them, ranging from Goldwyn to Harry Warner, have given seven different reasons for the box office slump. . . . You've never heard such yelling and hollering. . . . It seems to me that every summer we hear these same piteous moans, these same agonized shrieks from the producers.

The reason being that this is the time, every year, when people go to the beaches, and attendance at theaters falls off. . . . It's no great mystery, this attendance shrinkage of summer months, but the movies act as though it were some special plague visited upon them.

Just between you and me, however, none of the producers or stars has been evicted from their palatial mansions, or sacrificed their yachts or polo ponies . . . when they do, I'll wire you day press that the panic is on.

This town has a flood of guess who newspaper reporters. . . . In the past month I've read the following lines: What married director and what foreign star are having fun? . . . Who was the producer who slugged what writer at what cafe, two nights ago? . . . You can bet that eastern bankers will recall the head of what studio, because he is interfering in what pictures? . . . What high powered director is now taking up all of his production squawks over the telephone with the home office in New York, ignoring the front office entirely? . . . What chorine is being given a long vacation at the instigation of what executive's wife, just to get her out of town?

It's an easy way to pad out a column, but the city editors for whom I've worked would send such reporters an office memo, to wit and viz: "What correspondent was just fired by what city editor of what paper?"

Few New Yorkers like this town right off the bat. . . . It gives them an inferiority complex. . . . Exception to the rule has been Bob Hope. . . . This light comic, who was crossed with crooner stock, got the break of a performer's lifetime in his very first picture when Paramount teamed him with Shirley Ross to sing "Thanks for the Memory." . . . The song, as you know, was a No. 1 best bet for weeks. . . . So Paramount signed him to a long termer.

Then Warner's needed a radio comic to lighten up their radio broadcasts. . . . Hope got the job and clicked, and as a result signed a seven year radio ticket . . . of all the 1938 success stories, Hope's solid success easily wins top rating. . . . Maybe it's his wife's name, Dolores Hope. . . . Dolores means sorrow. . . . Sorrow and Hope are a terrific daily double, as the boys at the race track would say.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles via Panama to New York, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire. Isobel Butler has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him. Alex Reed, young surgeon, is returning to work after two years' illness. On the first day out Anne meets gossipy Mrs. Panting at breakfast at the purser's table.

INSTALMENT III.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

Anne went up on the sundeck and slipped off shirt and culottes, revealing herself in a backless blue bathing suit. She lay face downward on the warm deck, feeling the hot sunlight beat gloriously into her body.

The sun was getting really hot, but there was no need to worry. Her skin was already inured to sunrays, honey gold as it was from the streaming light of California. She wished Mena would come up and do this. Sunburn, careful makeup, care for her hair, an interest in smart clothes would make Mena pretty nice to look at—in fact, almost beautiful. She had the features, even if she had missed the glowing color of the Sydney hair.

The purser's table was full at luncheon. He was there himself, bland, fresh, and smiling, showing no trace of his harassed night. Alex Reed was also there facing Anne, who sat on the purser's right, and as their eyes met a shock almost of recognition passed between them. Alex thought almost the same thing as the chief steward had thought when he looked up into Anne's shining eyes, but in a different way. He thought: what a contrast to the girls fighting for a comeback out in the desert sanitarium. This girl looked as if the world belonged to her, and she found it very good.

The purser introduced his guests to each other and retired into a study of the menu. Anne felt, looking at Alex, an odd sensation of familiarity as if she had always known him, or else everything that was now happening had happened somewhere before. She had never felt that way in her life about any man, and she had known a good many. In fact been pursued by a good many.

And Alex Reed was not so spectacular at first glance as some of them had been. A narrow sunburned face, a firm but sensitive mouth, rather deep set and unusually expressive eyes. His manner of speech was certainly appealing—low voiced and unhurried, but with a quiet authority.

Alex in his turn was thinking about Anne's voice as she talked. It had a warm golden quality. To Alex Reed a beautiful speaking voice was one of the most precious gifts ever lavished on woman. Anne's was deep with a cello quality—nothing at all like the husky depth deliberately affected by that flamboyant Miss Butler with the unbelievably red hair at the other end of the table.

A rather nondescript honeymoon couple who were already being intimidated by Mrs. Panting made up the rest of the company.

"You play games, I hope," remarked Mrs. Panting on being introduced to Mena. "You look as if you would profit by fresh air and physical exercise."

Anne heard and held her breath. She saw a dull red warm Mena's colorless cheeks. "I would like to. But I haven't been able to profit by anything so agreeable since—or since my accident. I'm lame, you see."

Mrs. Panting was not subdued. "Too bad," she boomed matter-of-factly, "but at least I can put you down for quoits."

"I see you are going to make a very able sports secretary," observed the purser pleasantly. "It was very kind of you to volunteer so quickly."

"Not at all. I have experience of these things. Twice round the world. I think people who have experience of things should do them."

Isobel Butler studied her passenger list. Alex Reed was a pleasant person, but she was going to have no time to cultivate men this trip. Nor would it be desirable even if she had the time. Every move she made, every quirk of her behavior must be considered beforehand in the light of its possible effect on Mr. Vernon.

She must curb her party spirit, her enjoyment of smokeroom fun, her tendency to let her high spirits run away with her. That loud, hoarse laugh of hers, for instance, when she had just a little too much. Well, there should be no little too much for the next fourteen days. There was no glamor about that.

In addition to glamor she also wanted to put over the effect of sophisticated elegance—with her interesting appearance, the quiet savoir faire of a lady. Arnold Vernon was no Hollywood producer accustomed to figuring he could cut a five pointed star out of any tinsel trash. Vernon could not possibly know after such a short visit the fantastic adaptability of the ambitious American girl. He would only believe what his eyes and ears told him. He could not be imaginative. He was English.

As Isobel ate sparingly of the bewildering choice of foods on the menu she glanced covertly at the Vernons. Mrs. Vernon's cold eyes caught her and held them for a moment in a supercilious stare. Isobel was conscious of a hot, unreasonable anger. The conceited so-and-so. Who did she think she was, anyhow?

Mrs. Panting said solicitously: "You look worried, Miss Butler."

Isobel started. "What? Me worried? Why, I'm never worried. I'm not the worrying kind."

"O, but I'm afraid you were, Miss Butler," said the pest archly. "Wrinkling your brow and destroying your bread. Now, there's nothing so good for nerves as hard physical exercise. A little deck tennis is just the thing for you. May I put down your name?"

"O, no, thank you. I don't like it. It turns my wrists. No, certainly not."

"Shuffleboard then? I think a good partner for you would be that man over there. He undoubtedly needs it. Too much stomach. Pouches under the eyes."

"You flatter me," said Isobel with her tart humor. The honeymoon couple laughed diffidently. Mrs. Panting had to smile at herself. "That could have been better put," she admitted. "But it's a Mr. Vernon. He's a charming person to speak to. Manners like a duke, and the kindest face."

"You've spoken to him, then?" said Isobel casually.

"O, yes. He was on deck this morning. He didn't agree to sign up for the competitions, but I think I will get him in the end."

Isobel glanced across at the Vernons' table as if it were the first time she saw them. "He looks like a man with a will of his own to me. What about his wife?"

Mrs. Panting's jaw went rigid. She spoke with difficulty. "O, she never plays games. Too delicate or something."

For a moment Isobel almost liked the irrepressible Gertrude Panting. "Tell me when you're asking Mr. Vernon again," she said, "perhaps I can help you to persuade him."

Mena announced her intention to go and lie down in her stateroom when lunch was over. She had not long been up, but she always had a nap after lunch at home and there was no reason why she should change her habits now. Anne went with her to see that she was comfortable.

"Glad to get rid of me, aren't you?" she said as Anne was about to leave the stateroom. "Only too pleased to be free to enjoy yourself with your new friends while I'm alone down here."

Anne said quietly: "Would you like me to stay with you?"

"No, I wouldn't. No, of course not."

Anne withdrew without further argument. She went up on the promenade deck, successfully withstood Mrs. Panting's renewed assault on her liberty, leaned over the rail, and looked out to sea. Alex Reed joined her there. He was very slight—not much taller than she was. When he leaned beside her with his arms on the rail she was surprised to see his powerful blunt fingered hands. He saw her looking at them. "Surgeon's hands. They're usually like that. Odd, isn't it? They have to do such delicate microscopic work."

"So that's what you are?" she said with friendly simplicity. "I'm glad. I like that."

He was surprised and pleased. "Why do you like that?"

That nonplussed her. She had spoken without thinking. She liked it because she was glad that man who had made such a powerful impression on her had a worthwhile profession. But she said: "I'm so impulsive, Dr. Reed. I shouldn't have said it. It's difficult to explain. I admire surgeons—good ones. That must be the reason."

"Maybe I'm not a good one," he said ruefully. "I've been out of action for two years. So I'm going back to the hospital to get my hand in."

College Head Avers Federal Funds Mean Federal School Rule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Beloit, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—The fourth biennial general council of the Congregational Christian churches which closes here tomorrow morning was warned today that education will degenerate into political propaganda if the national government ever begins to make appropriations for the general educational facilities of the country.

Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., gave the warning as he spoke on education and the future of American democracy. He declared that the next congress would be forced to consider a bill inspired by a group of educational leaders which calls for at least 199 million dollars annually for general education by 1940.

"This would mean that a small group of men in Washington would control the spending of at least 200 million dollars annually in the field of education in this country," said Mr. Cowling. "The proposal is a menace to the future of our free institutions and sooner or later would involve dictation from Washington under the inescapable law that sources of support inevitably become sources of control."

Features will include, as usual, rides on Johnny Lee's amiable pony; a grab bag which Mrs. Starosselsky's daughter, Ann Boswell, will supervise; a puppet show, fortune tellers, and a flower sale. An innovation this year will be a pet show.

If the mind reader now appearing at the Key club is right, Mrs. Ray P. Johnson Jr. and Mrs. Sydney H. Heap, who were having luncheon there together yesterday, will be a continent apart by this time next year. He told Mrs. Johnson, the former Kay Healy, that she will be living on the eastern seaboard by next summer, and that Mrs. Heap, the former Virginia Skinkle, will be living on the west coast.

Others in the interested audience were Mrs. Oliver M. Knode Jr. and her sister, Miss Patricia Nash of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. Miss Nash, who is on her way home from Smith, was assured that she would go east next fall for another year at college.

Daughter Is Born to Winston Mays.

Linda Susan are the names Mr. and Mrs. Winston Lewis May Jr. [Susan Badgerow] have given to their daughter, born yesterday in the New York Lying-in hospital. The baby, who is the Mays' first child, is the first granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow of Winnetka, whose other daughter, Mrs. Scott J. Dow Jr., has two boys. Mrs. Badgerow is in New York with Mrs. May. Mr. Badgerow is going east today to see his granddaughter. He and Mrs. Badgerow will sail Saturday for Bermuda to spend three weeks.

When Linda Susan is a little older she will play with two other little girls born recently in New York whose mothers are former Chicagoans, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Torrey and of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Smith [Virginia Ashcraft]. Mrs. Torrey, the former Betty Brawley, has been here for a week visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brawley, but she did not bring tiny Hope with her. Mr. Torrey arrived Saturday to celebrate their first wedding anniversary on Sunday, and the days are filled with parties for them. They are going to Barrington today to have luncheon with Mr. Torrey's grandaunt, Mrs. Charles Whipple, and to spend the rest of the day with the former Kean Hughes and her husband, Frederick Williams, of Detroit, who are spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hughes.

Vacation News at Lake Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell and their son, Augustus Jr., better known as Sonny, have moved to their Jerseyhurst estate at Lake Geneva for the summer. Sonny is a Princeton student.

The Lake Geneva Garden club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. William N. Pelouse. Reports and pictures of the Garden Club of America meeting in Philadelphia will be given.

The annual rummage sale for the benefit of Holiday Home on Lake Geneva will be held on June 30 at Horticultural hall. Mrs. William F. Petersen is to be chairman.

It is Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Off who have leased their home in Indian Hill road, Winnetka, to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Butz for the summer, and not Mr. and Mrs. John Nash Ott. Mr. and Mrs. Ott plan to spend the summer at their Indian Hill road home.

Summer Musical.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The lavender devotees—and this season they seem to us more numerous than in the past—will be pleased to know that one of the finest lavenders is now out in a purse size flacon. It's wonderfully inexpensive and a perfectly elegant thing to tote around with you in hot weather.

The great popularity of all floral perfumes probably has something to do with the spurt lavender has taken in the feminine affections this summer. It's so delightfully bright and clean and cool that it fits in beautifully with the summer dictate that we must all be pert and pretty.

The little purse bottle has a spill proof screw cap that makes it the ideal container. The flacon itself is a smooth, flat bottle that won't make your bag bulge. We think this is an excellent investment as a summer freshening-up aid.

You can carry out the lavender motif with great thoroughness if you like. There is a bath meal made from lavender blossoms, cereal and water softening ingredients that will make your morning bath a pleasant perfumed ritual. You can have soap in the same lilting scent, and a heavenly dusting powder that is light as gossamer and fragrant as the lavender blossoms themselves.

As a summer beauty set you couldn't do better than to remember the lavender family. The fragrance itself is cool and the products are excellent.

JUVENILE PLAY TOGS.

Playtime means special clothes, in most instances. All the growing-ups covet slacks. They're smart and they are "musts" in point of style, so the young ones think. Shopping for slacks often is put off because mother feels the family budget will not allow the expenditure. How foolish, when mother can make these slacks for so little.

They're smart, too, with their peasant fashion suspender tops and slickly fitted trousers. And the blouse is a casual model certain to find favor. It has a high round neckline, with or without a collar, and the sleeves are regulation shirtwaist ones.

The original of this costume consists of a wine shade cotton hopsacking waist, with the slacks in deep aqua of the same material. If you like embroidery to lend finish to the waistband and straps, try our pattern, No. E-11172. It's available for 10 cents extra.

The slacks may be made into shorts length, if you like. This style usually is preferred by the very young who are not tall enough to wear the long trousers gracefully.

Style No. 2736 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, and 16 years. Size 12 requires 2⅛ yards of 35 inch material, with 1 yard of 35 inch contrasting for the blouse.

The fortunate few city folk who have porches or sun rooms are finding it pleasant to carry their dinner tables to those spots on warm evenings. While a porch or sun parlor dinner doesn't differ much from a meal served in the dining room, it somehow tastes much better, simply because of the change in locale.

Today's short cut meal is the kind which may be served as easily on a porch as in a dining room. If you are blessed with porch or sun room, by all means set the table there.

JUNE PORCH SUPPER
Broiled Beef Drumsticks
Head of Cauliflower with Cheese Sauce
Banana and Sweet Cherry Salad
Corn Bread
Raspberries with Cream
Iced Coffee

BROILED BEEF DRUMSTICKS.

Buy the mock drumsticks ready made or have the butcher make them up from ground beef. Allow one per person. Dip each in egg diluted with milk, and roll in finely crushed cornflakes or crackers. Chill for half an hour or longer. Place on broiler rack three inches under the heating element and turn as the drumsticks brown, so that all sides are evenly cooked. By the time the meat is well browned it should have cooked sufficiently. Drumsticks made from beef may be cooked rare, medium, or well done, just like a steak.

To prepare the potatoes scrape them and boil in salted water until tender. Drain, add butter and several teaspoons of finely cut chives. The cauliflower is cooked whole in a large amount of boiling salted water until barely tender. Then it is drained and served in a vegetable dish with cheese sauce poured over it. To make cheese sauce simply add one-quarter or one-half cup cheese to a medium white sauce and let it melt.

To make the salad pit sweet cherries and arrange six or eight pitted halves on each lettuce covered salad plate with lengthwise slices of banana. Add a dab of dressing to each serving.

ICED COFFEE.

Make coffee double strength and pour it hot over ice cubes or cracked ice in tall glasses. Or pour it over a small block of ice in a bowl or pitcher and serve it from there.

White Crepe for Summer

Dull white summer weight crepe fashions a midseason tailored ensemble of sheath dress and long matching coat. Fine tailored details, high pockets, and stitched bands achieve the expertly designed slender streamline. Accessories may be in cornflower blue, copper, or pastels.

Cool Cottons Are Ideal for Home Sewing

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Summer hints for those who make their own wardrobes! Try a wrapped turban of cool dotted swiss for a sultry day in town. You can trim the finished article with rickrack or band of organdy or even lace. Match a dress or use such an airy top with sharkskin outfits in pastels or dark street colors.

Another headline trick — small, perky wrap arounds of peasant challis. The fine floral designs are especially effective against cool chalk white, vivid parrot green, or vermilion if you like exotics.

White dotted swiss dresses, that is, the dots and background all white, are undeniably the coolest sort of Sunday night costumes. These can be trimmed with fine lace net, very thin cotton braid, and buttoned down the front with ten dozen or more tiny round pearl buttons.

Red scalloped embroidery, meaning the edges in red, is used for all this summer sheer material, and the same trick in navy, brown, light blue, or black perks up all white cottons. Colored thread fagoting, old-fashioned feather stitching in bright colors, hemstitching, thread thin tucks, and all manner of romantic handwork like we used to think was a bit dated, makes each model different. Dimities, lawns, muslins, lacy weaves, and organdies in cool white and any number of pale pastels are abundant now. Easy to make patterns that are foolproof and give full instructions also allow for individuality. You can make supercool and distinctive cotton dresses for little effort.

Personality Is "Must" if You Will Succeed

From a most interesting treatise on preparing pupils for living, by Alice Crow, Ph. D., chairman of guidance, Girls' High school, Brooklyn, N. Y., one learns that young people must not only be prepared to DO certain things, according to the trade or profession they choose, but to BE certain things, regardless of profession.

"This BEING," Dr. Crow explains, "consists largely of inner and outer characteristics which we lump under the general term—personality.

"Personality is not one all embracing characteristic," Dr. Crow continues. "It is a complex of many individual habits of behavior which, taken as a whole, causes an individual to be looked upon with favor or disfavor by associates."

It was found that, to give a reply, some definite measuring rod should be developed instead of relying on the evaluation of a girl by one of the faculty who, perhaps knew her more intimately than the others.

"We, therefore, decided to make this matter a school project," Dr. Crow tells, "and invited faculty members, seniors, honor society members and leaders of student organizations to submit three traits which they cosidered fundamental in a desirable personality.

"From the suggestions volunteered ten traits finally were decided upon as imperative. Heading this list of ten traits, because in the eyes of all who were consulted it seemed of outstanding importance, is personal attractiveness, covering cleanliness, grooming and meticulousness.

"Personal attractiveness in the school scoring has nothing to do with regularity of features or lack of them. The ugly duckling is conceded to have as much opportunity for developing attractiveness as her beautiful sister, since soap and water in bathing, manicures, clean clothing will do as much for one as for the other.

"The other nine traits are emotional control, initiative and responsibility, purposeful thinking, trustworthiness, leadership ability, speech and voice, and health.

Parents Must Respect Small Child's Feelings

It is almost as if the writer of the letter I am quoting today must have known how many mothers lately have been telling me their troubles about their very little sons and daughters, the ones that are scarcely past babyhood.

Again and again do they repeat, "I slap my baby's hands when he is naughty, and he cries and cries, but does the same thing right over again." Repeatedly their letters show they do not realize how sensitive and how very much aware little children are of their mother's feelings and of a sense of indignity and hurt. Because I have received so many letters like that, the following one, from a woman who looks back into the past and sees clearly, may be helpful:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I am the mother of four grown children, but I still read your articles.

"I will never forget one day, nearly twenty years ago, when for some reason I spanked my little 26 month old boy. He was such a good little fellow that I must have been nearly distracted to do it. He did not cry, but, with tears in his eyes, looked at me and said in a calm little voice, 'Don't you know 'ittle boys aren't for fippin' [whipping]?'

"I was so surprised and shocked that I can still see every detail of his pink rompers and the little toy in his hand. I'm saying truthfully that I never spanked him again."

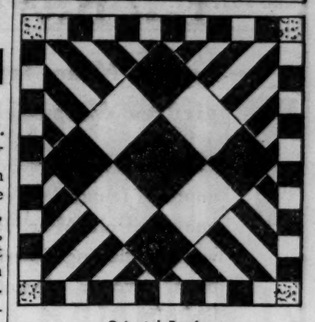
TODAY'S QUILT



Oriental Puzzle.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Oriental Puzzle" is a simple and interesting pieced block which may be set together easily and quickly in spite of its complicated appearance. The inspiration was one of those wooden Chinese puzzles resembling a box. A combination of printed and plain material is used to represent the various types of wood used in the original. Measuring 15 inches square each, thirty pieced blocks are set together with 2 inch bands of material between blocks and surrounded by 3 inch border and a ½ inch bias binding.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers ten quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is a time for aggressiveness and a time for discretion. Not every hand should be bid up to the hilt. I am not referring to the danger of being defeated in a contract, but to a much more subtle point, as exemplified in the following hand:

North-South vulnerable.

♥ 9 7 3 2

WEST
♠ Q 9 8 6 4 3 2
♥ 8
♣ 6

EAST
♠ K 7 5
♥ 10 6 4

SOUTH
♠ 10
♥ A K Q J 5
♦ K 9 6
♣ A 10 9 5

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	2 spades
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

After South's strong, single handed bidding North, with a sure spade trick and some club strength, felt that there might be a good play for game. But nevertheless he carefully refrained from raising. His reasoning was just this: The nonvulnerable opponents had mentioned and agreed upon the higher ranking spade suit. True, West had shown no disposition to overcall South's three hearts, but North knew this offered no assurance that he would permit a game contract by North-South to go uncontested. If North should bid four hearts and the opponents were in any doubt as to their ability to defeat the contract, they certainly would persist to four spades. Of course, considering East's mere single raise and West's apparent reluctance to rebid, it was probable that four spades could be defeated, but North had no guarantee to that effect and was not inclined to experiment. North [like all of us] had seen many a bid intended as a sacrifice turn out as a makable contract and did not intend to have that happen now.

Of course all this reasoning took only a second and hence, when he passed, East hardly could know what was in his mind. Nor could East continue with his spade bidding when game was not in jeopardy.

So South played the hand at three hearts and made four without difficulty, merely through the caution of leading clubs twice through East, and finally leading up to the diamond king. Paradoxically enough, North-South made their greatest possible score through failure to bid game. They actually collected 90 points below the line and 120 above [100 honors and one extra trick], not to mention the potential value of a part-score. If North had bid four hearts West, with his freak, unquestionably would have bid four spades and that contract could have been defeated only one trick, for 100 points even if doubled. Moreover, if West's distribution had been ever so slightly different, a four spade bid, made as a sacrifice, might have been fulfilled. And then the swing would have been really serious.

CUBS BEAT PHILS, 4-3; SOX LOSE TO SENATORS, 7-0

ROOT RESCUES EPPERLY FROM TROUBLE IN 6TH

Foes' Mistakes Aid Chicago Team.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—The Phillies were sort of genial hosts today and the Cubs by way of showing appreciation whipped them in the series opener, 4 to 3. The Phils were nice because they gave away three runs and the Cubs tried to be equally as sociable but there attempts to be generous were effectively thwarted by Grandpa Charley Root, who came into the affair to save Albert Paul Epperly's second major league decision. Root refused to be annoyed by a shaky defense.

Charley Root.

Epperly went along impressively until after his mates had presented him with a four run lead, or rather the Phils had presented the Cubs with the lead. The Chicagoans registered a run in the third purely on their merits against Claude Passeau. They were given two in the third because an outfielder, Hershel Martin, overlooked the importance of catching a fly ball. Their other run counted in the sixth, although it would have been cut down at the plate if Passeau, who seemed to be more or less disgusted with his job at the moment, had not dropped a thrown ball.

Root Rescues Epperly.

Epperly's pitching conduct for five innings was such that the Phils, the only team he has beaten, could produce only three hits, and even though four passes were mixed with the safe clouts, he never was in much of a mess. However, he lost his stuff suddenly in the sixth. A single, a homer and a pass came in succession, and this assortment of happenings was ample excuse to turn the battle into the care of the aged Root.

Root cleaned up the sixth with the Cubs still two runs ahead, but in the seventh discovered treachery in his own ranks. Carl Reynolds, hastening to recover from a fumble, made a crazy throw for another error on the same play. This panicky display gave the Phils a run and left the tying run on second with none out. The run didn't get home. Then Root had to contend with a similar mishap in the next inning. Billy Herman offended on the first batter but the man never got beyond second base.

Cubs Score in Third.

The Cubs used two hits in the third to make their first run. Epperly led off with three strikes. Hack singled to left and galloped to third on Cavarretta's double to right. Reynolds was thrown out by Scharein and while this was going on Hack dashed home. Hartnett bounced to Mueller.

The Cubs almost passed up a chance in the fourth, but finally got help from some bad fly chasing by Martin, the outcome being two runs. Herman opened with a single through short but was doubled on Demaree's tap to Mueller. Collins poked a two bagger down the left field line and

Sox Shut Out Second Time This Season; Make Five Hits

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox got down to zero yesterday, suffering their second shutout of the year on a five hit menu dished out by Harry Kelley, who accomplished his first 1938 victory. The score was Washington 7, Chicago 0, and the feature of the game was the fact that Chicago fans who paid and stayed to the end only had to watch the affair an even hour and a half.

Thornton Lee, who lasted five innings before giving way to a pinch batter, was the losing pitcher and was not so good as he usually is while getting no offensive support from his associates. Thornton was the losing pitcher in the other Sox shutout, a 1 to 0 misfortune on May 21 when Pitcher Spud Chandler put on a solo, winning his own game with an eighth inning homer.

Simmons Hits Homer.

Lee departed shortly after Al Simmons had followed Buddy Lewis' triple with his No. 7 homer of the season, his second against the Sox. His first one, also off Lee, was knocked in Washington June 3 to drive in two runs and break a 1 to 1 tie. The Sox lost that afternoon, 5 to 1.

The Sox, starting the second week of their current home stand, have lost seven of the eight games they have played since they returned from the east. Yesterday's misadventure was their 20th in the last 27 games played.

In pushing over the once proud Dykesmen Kelley didn't seem to be bearing down much and was charitable enough to tap into two double plays, a kindness which hurried the contest and kept the Washington score down to reasonable proportions.

Hits Are Scattered.

Kelley, in all his benevolence, refused to give up more than one hit in any inning. Steinbacher made a single with two out in the first inning, after which the next ten batsmen went out in order. Walker scratched a single at the start of the fifth for the second Chicago hit, and Owen doubled with one out in the sixth. Hayes beat out an infield single with two out in the seventh and Kreevich ended the bonecrushing with a single with one out in the ninth.

The Senators tipped off their attitude toward Lee when Case opened the game with a double to left center. Case got to third on West's sacrifice and Lewis walked. Scoring temporarily was put off when Simmons popped to Owen and Bonura flied to Kreevich.

Senators Attack In Second.

The Washingtons weren't so readily halted in the second. Travis was hit by a pitched ball and stopped at third on Bluege's double to center. R. Ferrell singled to center, Travis scoring and Bluege stopping at third. Bluege scored while Kelley and R. Ferrell were being eliminated by a double play, after which Case flied to Kreevich.

The fifth was the last pitched by Lee and he had two men out when the shooting started. Lewis tripled to left center and scored on Simmons' homer, a shot to the upper deck of the left field stand.

Simmons drove in two more runs, this time off Rigney, in the seventh. Case walked and stopped at second on West's single to center. The runners advanced on Lewis' sacrifice and Simmons drove them home with a single to right. Bonura was hit by a pitched ball but Travis batted into the third Sox double play.

Knott pitched the ninth and Case started the inning as he started the first inning, with a double to left center. He again advanced on a sacrifice by West. This time he scored on Lewis' fly to Kreevich. Simmons lined out his third hit, a single to center but Bonura fanned.

Demonstrates Calmness by Piloting Plane.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—The picture that has been painted of Max Schmeling, the calm, confident challenger, held its color tonight as the German veteran awaited the most important moment in his pugilistic career. As a final demonstration of his coolness, he flew most of the way from his training camp to the scene of tomorrow's title fight in defiance of Promoter Mike Jacobs' orders. And he put a wallop in this gesture by taking over the controls and piloting the plane himself.

In 24 hours Schmeling will have regained the heavyweight championship of the world or he will have been deposed as the athletic idol of his homeland and his knockout victory over Joe Louis two years ago will have been discredited.

Fighters have met for greater purses. None has fought for more important stakes.

Max Pilots Plane.

At 8:40 o'clock tonight Max stepped from an Eastern Airlines plane at Newark, N. J. Over Jacobs' protestations, Schmeling made the one hour trip from Schenectady, N. Y., to the battle site because to his logical mind this seemed the easiest way and the most comfortable.

Schmeling also found the trip a lot of fun. Scarcely had the liner, which was piloted by Capt. Dick Merrill, trans-Atlantic flier, and Co-Captain W. R. Hostettler, leveled off at 4,000 feet than Schmeling took the controls. Until the plane passed by the George Washington bridge, thirteen miles from Newark, the German sent the giant craft hurling through the air.

It really wasn't difficult Schmeling said. "Ya, I have done so before in Germany. But I never have pushed a plane up in the air or bring it down. I am not so good a pilot to have a license," he explained.

Here's a Thought.

It is true that all of us breathed a bit easier when Capt. Merrill took over, although none would say as much. In the gathering dusk one felt safer with the man, who twice has flown the Atlantic, pointing the liner down through the smoke clouds which drifted slowly before the southeast wind.

If Schmeling thought of the possibility of danger, or even considered the fortune at stake tomorrow, he gave no indication. His only reaction was one of almost boyish glee in having accomplished a flight Mike Jacobs had forbidden.

Matches Tunney's Stunt.

Gene Tunney defied Tex Rickard and flew from Speculator to Philadelphia to fight Jack Dempsey in 1926. Today Schmeling matched that flight. That Schmeling didn't begin his flight from Speculator was due to the objections of Promoter Jacobs. When the idea of the trip was accepted by Schmeling, Capt. Merrill was to bring an amphibian to Lake Pleasant within a few hundred feet of Schmeling's cottage.

Jacobs, after ineffectually trying to intimidate Merrill yesterday, forced cancellation of this plan by calling the company from which Merrill had requested a plane. Max stubbornly insisted he would fly and so Merrill brought the silver airliner to Schenectady. Then Merrill, the co-captain, Seymour Weiss and Louis Marx drove to Schmeling's cottage to have dinner with the challenger.

Plan Trip Secretly.

The trip had been planned secretly to escape the throngs waiting at Amsterdam, Fonda, and Schenectady, which had been considered likely points for Max to board a train

HOW SCHMELING CUT DOWN LOUIS IN LAST BATTLE

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Highlights of their last meeting on June 19, 1936, when Max Schmeling knocked out Joe Louis in 12 rounds, handing the Brown Bomber his first defeat as a professional:

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, June 21.—Joe Louis is the fifteenth holder of the heavyweight championship under Marquis of Queensberry rules. . . . The only other colored fighter to gain the title was Jack Johnson. . . .

There was a time when any boxing championship meant riches, but with few exceptions there have been no recent fighters other than heavyweights who have made big money. . . . We doubt if one-half of one per cent of the people could name the current champions at the other seven weights. . . . We hope not, anyway, because there are so many other things wrong with the country. . . . Gene Tunney, who collected $990,445 for his ten round match with Jack Dempsey in Soldiers' field, Chicago, in 1927, holds the record for earnings in a championship match. . . . Dempsey got $425,000 out of the same bout, which isn't exactly spinach. . . . If Schmeling wins tomorrow night he will be the second oldest man to gain the title. . . . Max is 32. . . . Bob Fitzsimmons was 35 when he was crowned king of the heavyweights. . . . Schmeling also would have the distinction of being the only champion who has regained the title if he whips Louis. . . . You remember, perhaps, that he was legislated into the championship while lying on his back when the New York boxing commission ruled he had been fouled by Jack Sharkey. . . .

John L. Sullivan reigned for ten years, the longest of any heavyweight champion. . . . Jack Dempsey was up there for seven, but since his time nobody has held the title more than two years. . . . Louis' total earnings since he left the Golden Gloves ranks in the summer of 1934 exceed a million dollars, exclusive of tomorrow night's purse. . . . Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey, and Jimmy Braddock were the only fighters who won the heavyweight title on points. . . . Max Baer knocked out Schmeling in the tenth round and Louis finished Baer in four, and as if to prove the consistent inconsistency of the prize ring Schmeling flattened Louis in twelve. . . . Economists estimate that the fight crowd will spend $2,000,000 for tomorrow's bout in addition to the price of their tickets. . . . More newspapers will be represented by staf men than at any other fight. . . .

Calamity howlers predict the end of boxing if Schmeling regains the championship. . . . They say he will hustle home to Germany where Fuehrer Hitler will demand that the title be kept indefinitly as an inspiration to Teutonic youth. . . . This department is unable to work up a good rage about the matter. . . . If Schmeling declines to meet the leading challengers you can count on the New York or Illinois commissions to vacate his title and conduct a tournament for all comers. . . . What good would the title be to Schmeling or to Germany if the United States, the only place a fighter can make real money, shows no interest in him? . . . More important than any of these considerations is the fact that it is possible in America for a young man, even if he be a sleepy eyed son of an Alabama cotton picker, to rise to the top of his field, whereas in Schmeling's homeland many men of culture are prohibited from practicing their professions because of certain blood that courses their veins.

Ten Years Ago Today—Bobby Jones' 144 gave him the lead in the National Open golf tournament at Olympia Fields. . . . Jim Mullen, promoter of the Mickey Walker-Ace Hudkins title fight, announced that he had lost $15,000 on the bout. . . . Yale's varsity crew defeated Harvard by nine lengths. . . . Fifty-eight yachts were entered in the 37th annual Chicago to Michigan City race.

Fenske Wants Revenge Over Zamperini in Mile Saturday

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

One man to whom a mile run is an old and no longer thrilling story will watch with great interest the result of the race between Louis Zamperini of Southern California and Charles Fenske of Wisconsin, when the Pacific Coast conference champions meet the Big Ten titleholders in Dyche stadium Saturday.

That man is Glenn Cunningham, a veteran of scores of mile races and the world's indoor record holder. Cunningham has been a self-appointed press agent for Zamperini since he saw the young California Italian run in the Olympic games.

"If any one ever runs a four minute mile," Cunningham said, "it will be Zamperini."

Cunningham's observation was easily dismissed. Zamperini had not turned in any remarkable time for the event and furthermore, coast track teams are traditionally weak in distance runs.

But in the final furlong in Minneapolis last week, Zamperini, running his first race in nearly a month and opposing Fenske for the first time, rushed by the easy striding Badger to score a surprising victory in the record time of 4 minutes 8 and 3-10 seconds. The result was surprising because Fenske generally had been recognized in track circles as the nation's leading collegiate miler.

Zamperini Unbeaten at Mile.

Zamperini and Fenske renew their dual in Evanston on Saturday in the outstanding event on the meet program. Fenske will attempt to avenge last week's whipping by subjecting Zamperini to his first defeat. The 21 year old Trojan, for whom an athletic field is being named in his home town of Torrance, Cal., has never been beaten in the mile, a record that extends from the first race he ran as a high school freshman. Only one American, Norman Bright, who took his measure in a 5,000 meter race, has beaten the volatile, bushy haired little fellow at any distance.

Fenske, in the opinion of veteran observers, beat himself in Minneapolis by not setting a faster pace early in the race. By taking out Zamperini, he might have sapped much of the Trojan's kick at the finish. Tom Jones, veteran Wisconsin coach, revealed just before the race that Fenske had been troubled with a nervous disorder in his stomach during his stay in Minneapolis and that

CHAMPION IS 5 TO 2 FAVORITE TO BEAT GERMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—Max Schmeling, who came to the United States ten years ago with an extra shirt, a gaping bewilderment, and a native manager who didn't know what it was all about, and Joe Louis, sleepy eyed son of an Alabama cotton picker, will fight it out in Yankee stadium tomorrow night for the heavyweight championship of the world.

There have been few bouts in the long history of the ring to equal this one in world interest. Bitter racial feeling, international rivalry, and personal grudges are serving to attract the greatest rush of customers since Gene Tunney whipped Jack Dempsey in Chicago's Soldiers' field in 1927.

Promoter Mike Jacobs predicts receipts in excess of a million dollars. The attendance will pass 80,000. Accommodations have been provided for nearly 90,000 and if all seats are sold the gate will amount to $1,200,000.

The Outcome? Who Knows?

The weather forecast is generally fair and continued warm. The fifteen round title match is scheduled to go on at 9 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time, but the management reserves the right to move up the starting time if there is a threat of rain.

In sharp contrast to their last meeting, when Schmeling knocked out Louis, there is an air of uncertainty about the outcome of the contest. Two years ago nobody conceded the German a chance. Sport pages crackled with such lethal phrases as the Brown Bomber, the Man Killer, and the Detroit Assassin. But after twelve rounds of toil it was Schmeling, not Louis, who walked to the center of the ring with arm aloft to pose for camera men.

While majority sentiment still favors Louis despite the result of their last bout, none of the newspaper prophets has climbed so far out on the limb as in 1936. The odds on Broadway were 5 to 2 that Louis will retain his title. Some were offering 5 to 4 that Louis would win by a knockout. Schmeling was 1 to 3 to win by a knockout. There was also considerable betting at varying odds on knockouts in specific rounds.

Schmeling, who was awarded the championship in 1930 while lying flat on his back after catching a low punch from Jack Sharkey, is defying all the text book canons of the ring in trying to regain the title which he lost to Sharkey on a fifteen round decision in 1932. No heavyweight champion ever has succeeded in winning his way back to the throne, but Schmeling, who soon will be 33 years old, is impatient with the historians of the game who say they never come back.

Joe Jacobs Is Barred.

Calmly surveying the highway of fistiana, littered with the hopes of the champions of the past, including Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Johnson, Willard, and Dempsey, Max says, "I'm different."

Gen. J. J. Phelan, chairman of the New York Boxing commission, this afternoon announced that the application of Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, for reinstatement had been denied. Consequently, Max will lose the ringside services of the man whose alertness helped him win the title on a claim of foul in 1930.

Phelan also made known that the commission had ordered the winner of tomorrow night's battle and Max Baer, recognized as leading challenger, to the board's offices Thursday morning to sign for a championship match in New York next September.

Asked if Chicago was out as a

In addition to the crew of the pilots and John Roddy, flight steward for the Eastern Airlines, the party consisted of Jim Finn and Mead Kniskern, New York state troopers; George Bevins, Eastern Airlines pilot; Julius Neuenhaus, chief mechanic of the Newark airport; Weiss Marx, Max Machon, Otto Petrie, Joe Jacobs, Schmeling, Joe Nichols of the New York Times, Frank Jurkoski, and Frank Noel, News Service photographers, and your correspondent.

Leave Camp at 6 P. M.

Schmeling's party left Speculator at 6 o'clock. An hour and a half later they raced into the Schenectady airport followed by two cars of state troopers.

Max was surprised when he found several scores of people waiting to see him. He was completely astonished when the rest of us climbed aboard. And when the plane landed at Newark hundreds were there to cheer the challenger.

Schmeling made the trip to avoid the tiresome journey by train. It also permitted him to have dinner in camp. His own chef, who left by automobile tonight for New York, will serve breakfast tomorrow morning in his hideout in upper Manhattan.

But from the time that Merrill lifted his plane after a long run diagonally across the cinders of the Schenectady airport until he arrived at Newark, Schmeling enjoyed himself.

Ever since Joe Louis became the world's champion, Schmeling has trudged patiently along the road which leads to Yankee Stadium tomorrow night. When Jim Braddock gave Louis the championship fight one year ago, Schmeling then might have retired, secure in position and with the satisfaction that he alone had knocked out the champion.

Excited? Not Max!

Schmeling chose to bid for the goal no heavyweight ever has attained. His unalterable determination has been to regain the championship he had won in 1930 and which he lost by decision to Jack Sharkey two years later.

Tomorrow night Schmeling will know whether his years of waiting and planning have been in vain. Today no one could have blamed him, if his heart beat a little faster, if he gave outward sign of nervous anticipation.

But Schmeling's last hours in his mountain cottage were as methodical as every day of his life has been. He did not deviate from any detail of the program he had planned when he came to Speculator four weeks ago.

His confidence is magnificent. His belief in his superiority walls off the opinions of those who have predicted Louis will win and it does not need the support of those who favor him. Schmeling is self-sufficient. He is his own manager. Max Machon, his trainer, is a companion.

Louis Better Boxer.

Louis has greater physical weapons, except for endurance and condition, in which the men are equal, while Schmeling is the more cunning and the more intelligent. Louis is a better boxer. He hits harder with both hands. He is faster with his terrific left and he is younger.

Schmeling has a sharper, straighter right hand. His courage cannot be questioned. He never is confused and his endurance, although he is 32 years of age is remarkable.

Schmeling has the flaming inspiration of the consciousness that he bears the standard in a racial movement, an inspiration possibly matched by Louis' desire to wipe away the memory of defeat and prove to his people he is the world's greatest fighter.

One Should, the Other Can.

No man can predict and Louis cannot know how he will react when he is alone with his conqueror under the blazing ring lights tomorrow night.

Those who anticipate a furious fight should recall that both Schmeling and Louis primarily are counterpunchers. Neither wishes to lead.

Schmeling has no reason to hurry tomorrow night, and Louis, with confidence in his boxing ability, and for fear of error, may be content to go through many rounds at the dismal pace he set against Farr. Thus this may result in a drab, tiresome battle.

It is however, a match between power and cunning. It is a fight Louis should win. It is a fight Schmeling can win.

Schmeling and Louis Battle Second Time

Mike Jacobs, who holds the contracts of both Schmeling and Louis, when apprised of the commission's statement, said:

"They always are telling us where we are going to present a fight and when. My contracts read that I can put on the next title bout anywhere in the world. I haven't given the location of the September match any consideration."

Louis' Demand Ruled Out.

The commission has ruled out the Chicago made gloves which Louis had ordered. Both fighters will use mitts manufactured in New York.

This bout appears to be a climax in the careers of both men. Schmeling has ridden to international prominence on the support he has received and the money he has earned on American soil. When he first set foot on Manhattan ten years ago he stood out in the fistic horizon about as prominently as a squatter's shack in the Metropolitan skyline. To the boys in the trade he was just another one of "them foreign bums." Today he finds himself the most famous athlete in his homeland and one of the most talked about men in the world.

Louis' brilliant flash to the heights needs no recounting. He stepped out of Chicago's Golden Gloves four years ago to become, in a few months, the sensation of the professional prize ring. He has won thirty-six of his thirty-seven fights, thirty of them by knockouts. Schmeling is the only opponent who has whipped him.

Both Schmeling and Louis have made more money with their knuckles than they probably can ever spend. But aside from having palatial apartments, fancy clothes, and several months' vacation annually, they are no different from the guys who deliver your beer or unload your coal except, perhaps, for varying degrees of civility.

Schmeling has gone to the post only three times since he defeated Louis on June 19, 1936. He stopped Harry Thomas in eight rounds in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 13, 1937; won a decision from Ben Foord in Hamburg on Jan. 30 of this year, and last April 16 he stopped Steve Dudas in the fifth.

Champ Keeps Busy.

Louis, on the other hand, has let no grass grow under his feet. He came right back after his loss to Schmeling with a three round knockout of Jack Sharkey in August, 1936. Since then he has met and defeated in succession Al Ettore, Eddie Sims, Natie Brown, Bob Pastor, Jimmy Braddock, Tommy Farr, Nathan Mann, and Harry Thomas.

This correspondent, who saw the champion's final workouts for tomorrow's fight, finds him no better and no worse than he was before he met Schmeling in 1936. He has everything he needs to win except mental alertness. His wallop has the same sting and he carries it in both hands, whereas Schmeling must depend almost entirely upon his right. Louis never has been in better condition. Some of his supporters are worrying over the psychological effect of the punishment he took from Schmeling in their last engagement. They are wasting their time. Louis isn't afraid of any man with gloves or without them. It is our guess he will have to be aroused from slumber to go to Yankee stadium tomorrow night.

Louis Stops In Country.

Only a fighter knows the emotional agonies that rack the soul as the call for a big battle nears. It must be something like sitting in a cell waiting the executioner. Tomorrow night's contestants are exceptions. Schmeling, like Louis, experiences no such sensation. That was obvious two years ago when all he read was about the terrific right that mutilated Carnera, terrified Levinsky, and stunned Baer. in view of the developments on that occasion there is no reason to assume that Schmeling tonight will lie awake wondering, hoping, and doubting.

Louis will remain at Pompton Lakes, N. J., his training base, until it is time to leave for Madison Square Garden, where the fighters will weigh in and undergo physical examinations tomorrow.

Five Million Dollar Gates

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—The gross gate for Joe Louis' defense of his heavyweight title against Max Schmeling tomorrow night in the Yankee stadium is expected to better the $1,000,000 mark, which has been passed only five times in history. Jack Dempsey figured in all five. The Joe Louis conquest of Max Baer three years ago hit $1,000,000, but was boosted over the mark by radio and motion picture receipts. The million dollar gates:

Fight Talk Fills Berlin; Max's Wife to Hear Broadcast

BERLIN, June 21.—Interest in tomorrow's Schmeling-Louis fight reached a peak today in Berlin. Several papers carried front page reports from the headquarters of both champion and challenger, and in the principal restaurants and cafés every one was discussing the probability of Schmeling regaining the crown.

Schmeling's wife, Anny Ondra, will listen to the broadcast as a guest of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, to whose home she has been invited. In an interview today she said her husband wrote and phoned daily. She knew him to be in perfect condition for the fight and said, "I am absolutely optimistic."

Schmeling's mother has gone to her son's newly purchased estate in Pomerania and will hear the account there.

What Boxers Have to Say on Title Bout

Schmeling: "I am, of course, confident. I know I have attained rare condition for this second meeting with Joe Louis. I believe I am at the peak of my career. The bouts at my camp showed me that all the power in both hands is still with me. Seventeen days of boxing for a total of 109 rounds effected just the proper training I needed. I should produce my greatest fight and realize my great ambition of becoming the first man to regain the heavyweight championship. I have planned no special style for Louis."

Louis: "I'll knock him out in two rounds, no less. I'm going out fighting. Got to or else there'll be no fight. Last time I met him I was not an experienced fighter. I had been winning all my fights just with my strength. Since then I have learned to fight. They say I haven't looked good in training. Okay, but did any one ever win a title against sparmates? I never underestimate any fighter and I don't Schmeling. But I've been waiting for this return match two whole years and I am ready."

NORTHWESTERN'S GOLFERS DEFEAT TROJANS, 10 TO 2

Northwestern university's golf team defeated Southern California, 10 to 2, at the Kildeer Country club yesterday in a tune-up match for the National Intercollegiate tournament in Louisville next week. Capt. Richardson of Northwestern shot 72.

Here's How Some of the Boys View Big Title Fight

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Following are some of the predictions on the outcome of the Louis-Schmeling fight tomorrow night:

Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer—Aw nuts! I hope it will be a double knockout.

Arno Helmis, Berlin sports writer—Schmeling will win faster than he did two years ago. He is in the best condition of his career.

Bob Lewis, Cub secretary—We Lewises must stick together. Joe in the fourth.

George Halas, Chicago Bears—Next to Nagurski, Louis hits harder than any man alive. He'll win in six.

Vincent Lopez, orchestra leader—Schmeling has knocked out three fellows named Louis, including Joe. My system calls for him to do it again.

Yale Scores Shutout Over Harvard, 5 to 0

STATE AMATEUR GOLF MEET TO OPEN TOMORROW

36 Holes Qualifying Play Is Scheduled.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Illinois' best amateur golfers will begin their battle for the state championship at the Elgin Country club tomorrow, when the 36 hole qualifying round of the annual tournament conducted by the Chicago District Golf association will be held. The thirty-two low scorers in this medal play examination will qualify for the match play bracket, which will continue at 18 holes through Friday and Saturday, with Sunday's finals set for 36 holes.

The tournament committee of the C. D. G. A., of which Larry Rutherford of Medinah is chairman and Russ Chandler of Sunset Ridge vice chairman, has assembled the smartest field in the history of the tournament.

Former Winners to Play.

Heading the entries are two gents who have won the Louis L. Emmerson trophy twice before, and who by winning a third time can take permanent possession of it. They are Larry Moller of Quincy, former Notre Dame captain, and Warren Dawson of Glen Oak. Moller won the title in 1934 and last year, while Dawson took it in 1931 and 1932.

Ready to thwart the Moller-Dawson designs are a number of other swingers, all capable of coming out of Sunday's final a winner. There are other former champions, including Don Armstrong of Aurora, John Hobart of Rockford, and Wilbur Kokes of Chicago.

Other Stars to Compete.

George Dawson of Glen Oak, Jack Hoerner of North Shore, Gus Moreland of Peoria, Johnny Holmstrom of Rockford, Sid Richardson of Northwestern, who was runnerup last year; Bill Kostelecky of Kildeer, and Elgin's home town hopes—John Gostele, Boo Billings, John Walker, and Chap Wells—complete the list of contenders.

Three invitational events—the Elmhurst Blowout, the Hinsdale Buggy Ride, and the St. Charles Fox Chase—head today's program in the Chicago district. The Chicago Women's District Golf association will gather at Brookwood for a handicap event, and the North Shore league will battle at Skokie.

Bill Wallace, publicity director of the national professional tournament, to be held at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., from July 10 through July 16, yesterday wired the information that Gene Sarazen has decided to pass up the British open to play in the P. G. A. event. Two months ago Gene censured George R. Jacobus, president of the P. G. A., for scheduling the dates of the organization's biggest tournament so close to the British open, which will end on July 8. Sarazen's entry means representation of the entire American Ryder cup team, including Walter Hagen, who returned from a world tour last month.

One of the best fields of the season is entered in the fifth annual Illinois women's tournament, to be conducted by the Chicago Women's District Golf association at the Champaign Country club next week. Mrs. John A. Wheeler of Exmoor is chairman of the event; Mrs. F. P. Hammond of Olympia Fields is president of the association, and Mrs. Glen Dewey of Midlothian chairman of the rules.

Chicago Shriners will compete in their first golf tournament of the season tomorrow at Kildeer. More than 300 are expected to participate. The feature event will be an 18 hole handicap.

Chicago lodge, No. 4, of the Elks, will hold its annual golf tournament today at the Roselle Country club.

How to See TWICE as Much on Your Trip to CALIFORNIA

By J. H. DESHEROW, General Agent
SOUTHERN PACIFIC, CHICAGO

Name any place you want to see out West and the chances are about ten to one it's on Southern Pacific. That's why we feel we can show you more for your money on a trip to California.

Suppose, for instance, your destination is Los Angeles. Wouldn't you also like to see the Pacific Northwest, old New Orleans, San Francisco's great bridges, Carlsbad Caverns National Park (200,000 visited it last year), Crater Lake National Park, the Big Trees, Yosemite National Park and Del Monte?

Southern Pacific can show you all these on one round trip ticket to California. Here's how we do it:

We send you to California on one Southern Pacific route and bring you back on a different SP route. This way you see twice as much as you would by going and returning on the same route. Let us show you. Just call, write or telephone us at the address below. No obligation, of course.

13 Great Trains

You can choose from thirteen air-conditioned SP trains to California, ranging from luxurious, extra fare speedsters like the Streamliner City of San Francisco and the streamlined Forty-Niner to real economy trains such as the Californian and San Francisco Challenger.

HIGGINS BREAKS RECORD; MAKES 12 HITS IN ROW

Tigers, Red Sox Split; York Ties Foxx.

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—(AP)—Frank Higgins, veteran Boston Red Sox third baseman, broke a major league record today by making his 12th consecutive hit while the Sox and Detroit Tigers split a double-header. Even two home runs with which Rudy York, Tiger slugger, entered a tie with Jimmy Foxx of Boston for the American league leadership at 19 each fell into the background as Higgins, collecting eight hits, broke Tris Speaker's 18 year old major league record. The Sox won the first game, 8 to 3, and Detroit the second, 5 to 4.

MOON MULLINS—HOME TIES

RESOLUTE REDS ROUT HUBBELL AND GIANTS, 6-2

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell couldn't cool off those red hot Reds from Cincinnati today, and they trounced the Giants, 6 to 2, to climb within a game and a half of the National league leaders.

Given a one run lead on Harry Danning's homer in the first inning, Hubbell retired the first ten men in order, but then he was knocked loose from the lead on homers by Ival Goodman and Ernie Lombardi in the fourth, and finally he was clouted for another three runs in the seventh.

It was the Reds' ninth victory in their last eleven starts, and marked the third time in a row Hubbell made a vain bid for his 200th major league pitching victory.

Cubs Defeat Phils, 4 to 3; Breaks Help

Jurges walked. Epperly hoisted a fly to deep center and this should have been the third out, but Martin let the ball drop back of him for a double. Collins and Jurges rode home on the play.

Squeeze Play Goes Wrong.

The run picked up by the Cubs in the sixth also was accidental. Herman walked and went to third on Demaree's single to center. Collins fouled to Davis back of the plate. The squeeze play was put on and Herman started for the plate, but Jurges didn't produce the anticipated bunt. Herman kept jogging back and forth trying to dodge the ball and just when it looked as if his case was hopeless, he sprinted for the plate which by now was being guarded only by Passeau. The latter took the throw from Davis, but in tagging Herman dropped the ball. Epperly then fanned.

Weintraub opened the home sixth with a single off the wall in right center and not many more minutes elapsed before Epperly was listed among the missing. Arnovich hung up two runs with his homer into the bleacher in left. Davis drew a pass and this was where Root came to the rescue. He took care of Stainback, Scharein and Passeau, the latter fanning.

Root Has Trouble.

Root had a terrible time in the seventh, not only with the Phils, but because of his own mates as well. Mueller walked and Martin singled to center. Reynolds booted the hit and Mueller went to third. After recovering the ball Reynolds gave it a wild heave in the general direction of the infield and it landed against grand stand, Mueller scoring and Martin going to second. Jordan flied to center and Weintraub singled to right, but Martin stopped at third. Arnovich flied to Demaree and Martin again refused to go home. Everything was adjusted when Davis fouled to Collins.

Root had another trying situation on his hands in the eighth. Herman cooked up this panic by fumbling Stainback's bounder with none out. Scharein sacrificed and Klein was sent up to bat for Passeau. Root got rid of the former Cub on a pop to Jurges. Mueller walked after the Cubs, led by Boss Grimm, had spilled some fancy oratory at the plate over Ump Parker's judgment. Root escaped by fanning Martin, who previously had produced a double and a single.

French Will Try to Last Against the Phillies Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—Larry French, who hasn't finished his last three starts, will face the Phillies tomorrow in the second game of the series. The southpaw hasn't won a decision since June 4, when he trimmed his foes of tomorrow. He's to be opposed by Al Hollingsworth, recently shipped to the Phillies by the Reds.

The entertainment today was hardly a financial success. The paid attendance was in the neighborhood of 1,200.

Fenske Seeks Revenge Over Coast Miler

he did not feel up to a record performance.

However, Zamperini also was under a physical handicap. He had been troubled with a similar ailment a week earlier and he had not competed for nearly four weeks while under suspension on an eligibility charge.

Just Beginning Career.

Zamperini expects to compete in two more Olympic games before retiring. He will be 23 at the time of the games in Japan and only 27 in 1944. Cunningham, he points out, ran his best at 27 and thereafter, and he believes he will do the same. He makes no predictions about a four minute mile and as yet he has not attempted to set any records. He merely runs to win.

Wes Ferrell to Face Sox and Stratton

Wes Ferrell, whom the Sox had expected to see in yesterday's opener with the Washington Senators, has been announced as the pitcher for this afternoon. Monty Stratton will go after his fifth victory for the Sox.

Johnny Phillips, American league co-statistician, yesterday completed the dope on Ted Lyons' errorless string which ended Saturday when he overthrew first. Ted's last previous fielding mistake was made on Aug. 5, 1934. Between errors he participated in 88 games and handled 32 putouts and 142 assists.

When Al Simmons completed his tour of the bases after his fifth inning homer yesterday, Zeke Bonura congratulated him with great enthusiasm. Then Zeke stepped to the plate and supplied the third out of the inning.

KINGSLEY TAKES TRANS-MISSISSIPPI MEDAL WITH 68

Lincoln, Neb., June 21.—(AP)—Edwin Kingsley of Salt Lake City, Utah, won medal honors today in the qualifying round of the trans-Mississippi gold tournament with a 68, four under par.

One stroke behind were Walter Blevins of Kansas City, and Herb Deurmeyer of Lincoln. In the 70 bracket were Bill Holt of Syracuse, N. Y., and Suave O'Hara Watts of Dallas.

Johnny Dawson of Chicago totaled a 76.

CHICAGO YACHT IN FLEET RACING FOR BERMUDA

Newport, R. I., June 21.—(AP)—A fleet of forty-three sailing craft was outward bound tonight for St. David's Head, Bermuda, 635 miles out across the gulf stream, in the Cruising Club of America's biennial ocean race. In the fleet was the Rubayiat, owned by Nathaniel Rubankam of Chicago.

SHELDON CLARK MAY FILL BOXING BOARD VACANCY

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Sheldon Clark, Chicago sportsman and oil company executive, has accepted a position as the third member of the Illinois Athletic commission, it was reported today.

Clark will fill the vacancy created by the death of his friend, George Getz. Official announcement of his acceptance of Gov. Horner's invitation is to be made in the near future, it is said.

SEEDED PLAYERS—4 OF THEM—LOSE ON CLAY COURTS

Four seeded players—Frank Parker, Milwaukee, No. 2; Frank Kovacs, Oakland, No. 8; Martin Buxby, Miami, No. 11, and Bobby Harmon, Oakland, No. 14—all were eliminated from the national clay court tennis tournament at the River Forest club yesterday.

Norman Bickel of Oak Park beat Kovacs, 6-3, 6-8, 6-3. Parker, in his first round match, beat Jack Krietenstein, Chicago, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, but in the second round, he lost to George Pero, Miami, 5-7, 6-1, 6-4.

Chester Murphy, Chicago, eliminated Harmon, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4, in a third round match, and Bob Peacock, San Francisco, routed Martin Buxby, 6-0, 6-2, in first round competition. Play will be resumed today at 2

EXPENSIVE MARS COLT IS TESTED; HE TIES RECORD

BY FRENCH LANE.

All the racegoers in Chicago have been waiting for weeks to see Mrs. Ethel V. Mars send to the post one of the expensive yearlings she bought at Saratoga last year.

One thing or another has caused a delay. First it was a decision of her trainer, Robert McGarvey, to have them in shape for the richer stakes to be run in midsummer at Arlington Park and Saratoga. Then it was a coughing epidemic they picked up in Kentucky last spring. Later on it was bad training weather that caused even one more postponement.

No Competition Entered.

Finally came the Valdina Farm purse at five furlongs at Lincoln Fields yesterday. No Competition, a son of Bull Dog-Aloof, the latter a daughter of North Star III., was ready to fill an engagement so Trainer McGarvey dropped his name into the entry box. The trainers of other good juveniles were in the same mood. They also had been delayed in getting their charges to the post.

There was Roscoe Goose with Lightspur, a son of Blue Larkspur-Chicleight which the clockers had reported as the fastest colt in Chicago. And there was young Sherrill Ward with Explosion, a son of Sir Gallahad III.-Concession that had been showing fine speed. Dan Stewart had Joseph E. Widener's Ovid in the race and Frank Kearns put the saddles on Mugal and Red Rajah, a pair from Warren Wright's barn.

So it became little less than a battle royal. But Mrs. Mars' colt, No Competition, was in front when the struggle ended. He had beaten Light Spur by the length of his neck. A fast closing third was Explosion, which races for Arthur B. Hancock.

Most of those in the big mid-week gathering of 10,000 fancied Light Spur and the Wright entry of Mugal and Red Rajah. So No Competition paid off at $10.60.

The colt ran like a good one but Jocky Robertson had to add all his finishing ability to get him to the line in front.

Ties Track Record.

No Competition ran so fast that he tied the track record of :59 4-5, held jointly by Maroussia and Sun Tempest.

Robertson turned in another great ride when he got Sanctity home the winner of the 6 furlong sixth race. He came from far behind with this one, drove past one horse after another while flying down the stretch, and got up to win in the last jump from the pacemakers, Mary Vito and Cloudy Weather. There was a plunge on Maleman. He ran with the leaders for a time, then dropped out of it.

FEDERAL FISCAL HEADS AGREE ON BANK LOAN PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—A controversy between Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, and Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, was composed without intervention by President Roosevelt today when the principal fiscal officers of the government reached a compromise agreement on standardization and liberalization of bank investment and examination rules.

Although details of the proposed revision of the banking regulations were withheld pending approval by President Roosevelt, who is expected to make the report public after his return to Washington, probably next Friday, the compromise agreement met the approval of Chairman Eccles.

Fiscal Officials Clash.

Eccles had clashed with Morgenthau in his demands for a liberalization of the banking investment and examination rules, blaming excessive regulatory restrictions in part for the present stagnation in business activity.

Morgenthau delivered an ultimatum yesterday, threatening to take his own recommendations to the President without approval of the federal reserve board unless Eccles accepted them within forty-eight hours. It was understood, however, that the agreement reached today was in the nature of a compromise rather than a blanket acceptance of the Morgenthau proposals by Eccles and other members of the federal reserve board attending the conference.

Morgenthau Wins Support.

The recommendations made by Morgenthau, as chairman of the President's interdepartmental committee on revision of bank investment and examination rules, had been approved by the controler of the currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and the National Association of State Bank Examiners.

Attending the conference today, besides Morgenthau and the federal reserve board representatives, were Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the FDIC; Marshall Diggs, acting controler of the currency; Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury.

"I am pleased to announce that the four agencies here represented have come to an agreement and are now drafting a unanimous report which will be ready for the President when he returns to Washington," Morgenthau said.

Calls Plan Constructive.

"I consider the agreement a very constructive move. It will be up to the White House to decide whether the report is acceptable and shall be put into operation."

Some officials expressed the opinion that the establishment of uniform bank investment and examination rules, apart from their liberalization, would do much good. At present there is widespread confusion as to what banks may and may not do with respect to credit, because of conflicting regulations.

Morgenthau favored some liberalization as well as standardization of the regulations, but insisted that the government's first duty was to the bank depositors. Chairman Eccles took the position that deposit insurance, by removing the threat of bank runs, should permit latitude in making loans, and that liberalized credit policies would promote recovery.

The compromise agreement, it is understood will permit member banks to purchase some local security issues not permissible under present investment rules."

MILWAUKEE LINE ASKS TO RETIRE BONDS OF UNIT

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday took under advisement a petition filed on behalf of the trustees of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad asking permission to retire $250,000 of bonds of the Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern railway, which fall due July 1. He indicated he will make a decision before July 1.

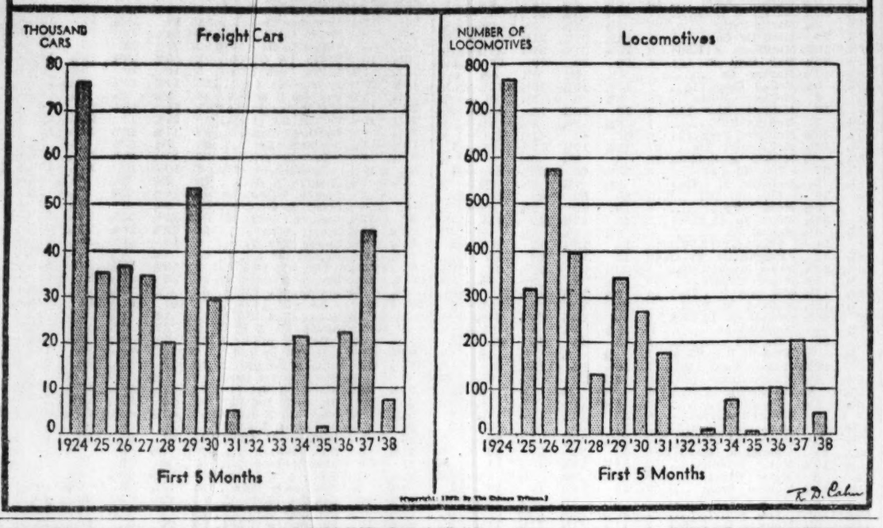
Attorneys representing holders of $37,000,000 of outstanding bonds of the Milwaukee road, which is seeking to reorganize under section 77 of the bankruptcy act, yesterday argued against granting the trustees permission to retire the Terre Haute bonds, holding that it would constitute preference against holders of the Milwaukee's bonds.

O. W. Dynes, counsel for the trustees, and W. F. Peter, attorney for the Terre Haute railroad, argued in favor of paying the bonds on the ground that if this is not done the entire issue of $20,000,000 will be in default. The issue does not mature in full for about twenty years.

Court Restricts Recovery Suit on School Warants

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday signed an injunction restraining holders of unpaid 1929 Chicago board of education tax anticipation warants from seeking legal recovery in any other state court. The injunction does not affect those having suits pending in the federal courts.

Orders for Railroad Equipment in the First Five Months of Each Year



Utility System, Transit Line in N. Y. Earn Less

Lower earnings for May, compared with May, 1937, were reported yesterday by the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit system and its subsidiaries, the Brooklyn and Queens Transit system. The United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company showed a substantial drop in estimated net earnings for the first five months of this year.

Commonwealth and Southern net income for May slumped to $620,950, compared with $1,193,463 in May, last year. This brought net income for the first five months of 1938 to $4,800,842, or 3 cents a common share, compared with $7,131,515, or 10 cents a share, in the first five months of last year.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Has Loss.

With gross revenues in May slipping to $4,127,347 from $4,487,278 in May, 1937, Brooklyn-Manhattan had a net loss for the month of $33,263, compared with net income of $362,996 in the corresponding 1937 month.

Net loss of $3,543 of Brooklyn & Queens in May compared with net income in May, last year, of $95,280. Gross revenues for the same month totaled $1,778,363, against $1,905,960 in the corresponding 1937 month.

Estimated net earnings of the United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company for the first five months of this year fell to $1,056,218, or 71 cents a common share, compared with $2,613,184, or $3.65 a share, for the corresponding 1937 period. The company, whose output is largely silver, gold, lead, and zinc, has its principal properties in Utah, Alaska, and Mexico.

Paramount Pictures Estimate.

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures, Inc., told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that he expected the company would show some net profit on the common stock, after allowing for preferred dividend requirements, for the first six months of 1938. Preferred requirements for the six months are about $600,000.

Paramount's foreign business, Balaban said, has been running ahead of 1937 so far this year, in spite of the unsettlement abroad. The company has improved its cash position by $1,500,000 over December, he added. Cash at the end of 1937 was $9,850,000.

Box office income has continued to decline in the second quarter of this year, although the drop is partly seasonal, stockholders were told.

The company has been economizing by eliminating nonprofitable units and personnel, Balaban said. At the meeting, John W. Hicks, vice president in charge of foreign affairs, and Edward L. Weisl, counsel for the company, were elected directors.

Railroads Propose Parley in Chicago on Wage Cut

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The joint conference committee representing the managements of the nation's railroads in efforts to negotiate a wage cut agreement today submitted to the nineteen rail labor unions a proposal that a national conference be held in Chicago June 28. The Railway Labor Executives' association, representing the unions, will meet here Thursday to formulate a reply.

UNION PACIFIC'S EARNINGS LOWER THAN YEAR AGO

Decline Shown for May and Five Months.

Net operating income of the Union Pacific railroad for May was $379,812, against $569,133 in May, 1937, the road reported yesterday. Gross revenues for the month totaled $10,519,961, compared with $12,420,781 in May, 1937.

For the first five months of this year net operating income amounted to $3,035,097, compared with $4,141,274 in the like 1937 period. Gross revenues for the period totaled $51,165,139, against $62,465,689 a year ago.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railway yesterday announced that its net income in May was $1,199,002, after all charges, compared with $2,582,870 in May, 1937. Net income for the first five months of 1938 was $4,223,968, against $12,860,471 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Kansas City Southern Report.

Operation of the Kansas City Southern for the first two weeks of June resulted in a decline of gross revenues of only 0.85 per cent from revenues in the like 1937 period, Harvey C. Couch, chairman of the board, stated yesterday. Couch said there was not much change in the trend of trafic during the period.

Braniff Airways Begins Its 11th Year of Operation

The Braniff Airways, linking Chicago with the southwest, yesterday began its eleventh year of operation as a commercial airline. Officials of the firm said it is one of the oldest transport lines and the only line of its age to have at its helm the same men who were there at its inception.

Everyday Economics

Mexican Oil Lands.—4.

The rise to power of the Mexican labor syndicates in recent years affected drastically every foreign-owned oil company operating in the country. The syndicates—in some ways similar to our own labor unions—were encouraged strongly by the liberal Mexican government.

In 1934 these organizations were made even more powerful by the writing into the oil companies' labor contracts, by government authorization, of the "Exclusion Clause." This gave the syndicates the right, by majority vote, to expel any member at any time for any motive. Upon receipt of notice of such expulsion, an employer had no choice except to discharge such a person, regardless of his qualifications.

Thus power over the workers was given to syndicate leaders, and practically all authority of the actual employer over his employés was taken away.

A summary of the events leading to final expropriation of the oil lands by the government, prepared by one of the oil companies whose properties were seized, states that workers were expelled from the syndicates for loyalty to their employers and were forced to fall into line with a "slow-down" movement to force the companies employing them to hire more workers.

The syndicates were supported by the government labor board in all demands upon the companies, the summary asserts. Such favoritism can be seen, the summary continues, in the fact that during 1935 and 1936 only 21 of a total of 787 strike conflicts brought before the labor department were decided in favor of the oil companies.

Aviation Corp. Votes Dividend of 18½ Cents

The Aviation corporation yesterday declared its first cash dividend since its formation in 1929. The initial payment to stockholders will amount to 18½ cents and will be disbursed on July 22.

The company now is engaged in manufacturing activities, having been forced by the air mail act of 1934 to divorce itself from transport activities by distribution to stockholders of its holdings in American Airlines, Inc. Aviation corporation is an affiliate of Aviation and Transportation corporation, formerly the Cord corporation, which owns about 30 per cent of outstanding stock.

Two Dividends Reduced.

Two companies reduced dividends yesterday and three corporations declared smaller interim dividends than previously. Two other companies omitted or deferred dividend action until later in the year.

The Shell Union Oil corporation, controled by the Royal Dutch Shell group, declared a midyear dividend on the common stock of 35 cents.

Payments of 50 cents each were made July 15 and Dec. 20, last year. United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., will pay 10 cents a share June 28, this being the first dividend since a 15 cent initial payment June 26, 1937.

The Adams Express company will pay 10 cents July 12, the first dividend this year. It paid 60 cents during 1937. The State Street Investment corporation cut its dividend for the second time this year. It will pay 25 cents July 15, compared with 50 cents in April and 75 cents in January.

A dividend of 5 cents a share will be paid July 1 by West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, compared with 10 cents each in April and January.

ACTION DELAYED ON CHESAPEAKE CORP. DIVIDEND

Cleveland, O., June 21.—(AP)—Directors of Chesapeake corporation today deferred dividend action until their next meeting. John P. Murphy, secretary, said the directors also discussed dissolution of the corporation—middle holding company of the former Van Sweringen railroad interests—but decided to await further consideration by a committee which has the liquidation under consideration.

The directorate is controled by men approved by the Guaranty Trust company of New York since a recent showdown between Guaranty and Robert R. Young, New York financier. Guaranty is involved through its underwriting of bonds in the structure topped by Alleghany corporation, which Young heads.

Burlington Zephyr Trains Complete 5 Million Miles

At 7:06 o'clock last night—Chicago time—a huge odometer in the Union station touched 5,000,000, indicating that the eight stainless steel streamlined passenger trains of the Burlington railroad had just completed a total of 5,000,000 miles of railroad service.

STOCKS MOUNT FOR SECOND DAY IN FAST TRADING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—Stock market prices continued to move higher today in a continuation of the sharp recovery that got under way Monday. However, some hesitancy was experienced on the way up, with final gains in the leaders ranging from fractions to 2 points. Thin situations in some of the volatile issues made for 6 and 9 point advances.

Trading again was at a fast clip, some 1,457,000 shares moving, the largest volume in about three months. At one time in the forenoon the tape fell one minute behind floor trading, the first time there has been a delay in several months of dull trading.

A fair amount of foreign buying contributed to the rise, houses with foreign connections reporting that Londoners had put in substantial orders.

Traders Less Gloomy.

The continued buoyancy of the market has led observers to start thinking that Wall street has left behind the gloom recently prevalent for a more optimistic appraisal of basic industry and trade. The hope that rock bottom has been reached is finding expression in many quarters.

Another important factor in today's advance was said to be short covering, with many short sellers reputedly losing heavily in such volatile issues as Allied Chemical. The stock closed yesterday at 152 and today at 161.

Steels, coppers, farm implements, chemicals and motors made important gains in the industrial sector. United States Steel common, up 1; Bethlehem, up 1⅛; Youngstown, up 2, and Republic, up 1, were quite active. Anaconda moved up 1 point in the coppers, with Kennecott and International Nickel tagging along. American Smelting jumped 2 points.

Motor Leaders Advance.

In the motors, both Chrysler and General Motors gained more than one point, and lower priced stocks advanced substantial fractions. Besides Allied Chemical, other chemicals advanced two and three points, including du Pont, Air Reduction, and Monsanto.

Carrier shares were said by observers to have ignored the troubles besetting the industry, and moved ahead at a relatively good pace. Santa Fe was the leader with an advance of nearly 2 points.

Electric equipment issues gained small fractions in active trading, and farm machinery shares advanced up to two points. Oils worked fractionally higher for the most part.

A contrary note was injected into the proceedings by the action of the aviation and gold mining groups. In the former, losses ran to 1¼ points, which was registered by Douglas. Homestake was chief loser in the gold stocks, dropping 3⅝ points.

REO ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT; GIVES HIM "FREE HAND"

Lansing, Mich., June 21.—(AP)—Donald E. Bates resigned today as president of the Reo Motor Car company and Col. Fred Glover of Detroit was elected president and general manager.

The board of directors announced Glover "will have a free hand, entirely independent of any group or faction." The new manager was elected to the board of directors.

Glover is vice president and a director of the United Specialties company of Detroit. Formerly he was vice president and general manager of the Timken-Detroit Axle rompany. During the world war he was chief of the motor transport service in the United States army.

Director Tells SEC He Balked Trust Looting

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Franklin E. Mayer, a director of the Reynolds Investing company, the original negotiator of the deal by which the Reynolds family sold the investment trust to Sartell Prentice for a group of international dealers, six of whom have been indicted, was star witness today in the Securities and Exchange commission's public hearing on the alleged stripping of seven investment trusts.

It has been charged that the trusts were looted of about $10,000,000.

Mayer claimed credit for breaking up the plan of Alexander Beverly of Toronto, Ont., allegedly leader of the international group of men whom counsel for the Securities and Exchange commission has called "financial wizards," to acquire South American Utilities, another trust, from the Chase National bank.

Planned as Climax.

Acquisition of South American Utilities, according to testimony of various witnesses at the hearing before an SEC examiner, was to have been the climax of the group's operations.

But the deal fell through. Beverly had posted $447,000 with Chase National for an option on South American Utilities, but failed to meet the terms of the option.

"The bombshell burst Jan. 25," said Mayer, "when they [the group] said they needed 2 million dollars by Jan. 31, to lift the deal from the Chase bank. I believed that Fiscal Management already had paid the $2,400,000 price of South American Utilities and that that was the asset to be behind the preferred stock of that trust for which $882,000 of Reynolds Investing company money had been paid."

Asked to Liquidate Portfolio.

"They asked me," said the witness, "to liquidate the portfolio of the Reynolds Investing company to raise the 2 million dollars. Beverly was very, very insistent and the thing was just too disturbing to continue."

Mayer, on the witness stand, said he had objected when the new owners of Reynolds Investing company had lifted $882,000 from the portfolio of the trust. When he had stated his objections he was asked to resign from the board, he said, but refused.

The testimony also disclosed that Mayer had been paid $35,000 commission for negotiating the sale of Reynolds.

Three Directors Elected.

Newark, N. J., June 21.—[Special.]—Carrying out reorganization proceedings of the Reynolds Investing Company, Inc., three new directors were elected to the firm's board here today. The election is subject to approval by Federal Judge Guy Fake, who tomorrow will consider the signing of a formal order for reorganization.

The new directors are Arthur T. Vanderbilt of Newark, president of the American Bar association; Charles F. Lynch of Paterson, and Fred G. Stickel of Newark, lawyers.

GOLFMORE HOTEL AT MICHIGAN CITY OPEN THIS SEASON

St. Joseph Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—The big Golfmore hotel near Michigan City is open for business this season, unaffected by the foreclosure of the million dollar Grand Beach project, of which it is no longer a part.

Jay Bee Realty company, present operators of the Golfmore hotel, acquired the property from the Grand Rapids Trust company. It was incorrectly stated in a dispatch to THE TRIBUNE, published in one edition June 11, that the Golfmore was included in a decision handed down May 17 by Circuit Judge Fremont Evans upholding a foreclosure suit against the Grand Beach project. The Golfmore hotel was not affected by this foreclosure.

NEW ILLINOIS FIELD ADDS 107 PRODUCING WELLS LAST MONTH

Urbana, Ill., June 21.—(AP)—The state geological survey said today in a monthly oil and gas drilling report that 107 producing oil wells were brought in during May in the new Illinois fields.

At the end of May there were 570 producing wells in the new development and 62 dry holes, the report said. The Centralia field led the list, with 187 producers and only three dry holes.

Other fields reported: Noble, 127 producers; Clay City and Patoka, 100 each; Bartelso, 25; Beecher City, 13; Dix, 9; Cisne, 4; Olney, 3; Rinard and Aden [Wayne county], 1 each.

URGES UTILITY BONDHOLDERS TO TAKE TVA OFFER

New York, June 21.—(AP)—R. W. Lamar, vice president of the Tennessee Public Service company, today notified holders of the company's first and refunding mortgage gold bonds 5 per cent series, due 1970, to deposit them "in the best interests of the bondholders and the company" with the Guaranty Trust company, New York, as agent of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The step is preliminary to putting into effect a contract between TVA and the company, by which the former buys certain of the electrical distributing and transmission facilities of the latter for $9,333,000. Lamar said holders of the company's securities are faced with the necessity of taking the best price obtainable or of facing destructive competition.

The contract provides that it will not take effect unless by Aug. 13, or such later date as is set by TVA, at least 80 per cent of the bonds mentioned be deposited. TVA has offered to pay 97½ per cent of capital, plus accrued interest, for the bonds, or 1 per cent more than it offered bondholders in 1934 under a plan blocked by legislation.

INVESTING FIRM WINS SKIRMISH IN PROXY FIGHT

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday vacated an order issued by District Judge John P. Barnes restraining Fuller, Cruttenden & Co., an investment firm, from soliciting proxies to be voted at a meeting July 1 of Argyle-Lake Shore corporation.

The corporation, which was discharged from 77-B reorganization in February, 1936, owns the Aquitania apartments at Argyle and Lake Shore drive. It is now being operated under a trust in charge of three trustees, Howard D. Moses, Philip R. Ringer, and Jry C. McCord.

The meeting July 1 was called to vote on the question of dissolving the voting trust. The trustees obtained the order from Judge Barnes, which restrained the investment company from sending communications to certificate holders unless approved by the court. The appeals court held that Judge Barnes was without jurisdiction, and that the activities of Fuller-Cruttenden were proper.

Reorganization Hearing on Rock Island Delayed

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission postponed today from June 28 to July 20 the next hearing in the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway reorganization proceedings. A bondholders' protective committee requested the postponement. The committee said it would have ready for presentation at that time a complete proposal for reorganization.

PROPOSALS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF FLOOD CONTROL DAM.—U. S. Engineer Office, P. O. Box 97, Memphis, Tenn.—Sealed proposals will be received here until 11:00 A. M. July 19, 1938, and then opened, for constructing a Flood Control Dam and the appurtenant works in the vicinity of Wappanello, Missouri. Information on application.

CHICAGO JOINS SALES CRUSADE FOR RECOVERY

Trade Leaders Back Job Building Idea.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

One man's idea of a way to reverse the downward spiral of business activity yesterday developed into a big national crusade for a recovery generated by private initiative when eighteen hundred Chicago company officials and sales executives met in the Grand ball room of the Stevens hotel to hear the story of "Sales Mean Jobs."

Five weeks ago George W. Mason, president of Nash-Kelvinator corporation, seeking a solution to the difficult problem of recapturing the lost sales volume of his own company, hit upon the idea of dramatizing the importance of the ordinary salesman. At the same time he came to the conclusion that, although no one company could successfully combat the depression single handed, a nationwide sales campaign by all business interests might materially lift the hitherto dwindling volume of consumer purchases.

Test Made in Lincoln, Neb.

Choosing Lincoln, Neb., as a typical American community, Mason took forty sales executives of his company there and put on a campaign with such a spirit of vehement determination that not only his own organization but competitors, retail stores, trade associations, public utilities, banks, and newspapers participated to put the thing over. Mason himself took a sales kit and rang doorbells in a "cold" canvass.

The results of the Lincoln experiment were so encouraging that retailers and distributors in other cities began to demand information on the program. In New York City last week eastern business men and manufacturers participated in a luncheon meeting at which the "National Salesmen's Crusade" was explained.

Commerce Groups Join Drive.

At yesterday's luncheon here the support of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the Chicago Association of Commerce was thrown behind the rapidly growing sales drive. George H. Davis, president of the national group, was chairman, and the list of speakers included Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago association; Fred W. Sargent, president, Chicago and North Western railway; C. Raymond Messinger, chairman, Oliver Farm Equipment company; Dana Cole, president of the Lincoln [Neb.] Chamber of Commerce; H. W. Burritt, vice president, Nash-Kelvinator, and Gene Flack, Loose-Wiles Biscuit company. Guests at the speakers' table included heads of Chicago banks and business concerns.

"The most difficult problem that faces any employer today is that of having to reduce the number of people on his pay roll," Mason told his audience. "It is our duty and responsibility to seek means and put forth every effort to put men now unemployed back to work. That is why our attention today is focused on sales.

Sees Quick Translation.

"There is no single function of industry that can so quickly and effectively be translated into reëmployment as the speeding up of the movement of merchandise into the hands of ultimate consumers.

"I think entirely too much has been printed and said about the curtailed purchasing power in the United States. There is as much real wealth in this country today as there was at the peak of the boom. And the productive capacity of our factories and laboratories was never so great as it is today. It is these things that constitute wealth, and it is the ability to use them that constitutes prosperity.

"We seem to have forgotten that the growth of this country's resources and its prosperity have been dependent upon a rate of consumption, a rate of public acceptance, a rate of purchase that has over a period of years steadily increased.

Stresses Salesmen's Rôle.

"And we seem to have forgotten that every new development that has contributed to a better standard of living was pioneered, introduced, and promoted by salesmanship."

Oscar Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, explained that Mason and the Lincoln chamber of commerce had relinquished any individual claims to proprietorship in the "National Salesmen's Crusade," believing that by contributing it to American business as a whole each manufacturer and distributor would reap benefit from the mass movement to increase sales.

No Central Management.

He carefully pointed out that nobody had anything to sell but an idea for stimulating sales in general. There is no central management group, no salaried executive, no solicitation of funds, no prohibition

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—New rumors that federal aid soon may be extended to needy railroads, plus recent increases in car loadings, yesterday caused rail liens to continue their upswing in the bond market.

In medium and lower priced groups gains of 2 points or more were common, and several of the issues of the larger carriers climbed more than 3 points.

Rail liens which gained 3 points or more were Santa Fe adjusted stamped 4s of 1995 at 81¼, Canadian Pacific 5s at 96¼, Kansas City Southern 5s at 58, Southern Pacific 3⅜s at 48, Northern Pacific 4s at 73, and New York Dock 4s at 55.

Trading during the day's session was brisk, total being $7,055,825 face value. This was the highest since May 1. Monday's volume was $5,900,400.

Treasury bonds were irregular at the close, nearer maturities giving ground in favor of the longer term issues in light trading. Changes ranged from declines of 2-32ds to gains of 4-32.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks again swept upward yesterday as trading broadened to ninety-one issues, the largest number traded since April 11. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks advanced 0.27 to 8.94, the highest closing average since May 9, when it was 8.98. Fifty-eight stocks advanced, seven declined, and twenty-six were unchanged.

Yesterday's volume totaled 155,000 shares, of which 129,600 were Commonwealth Edison rights, compared with Monday's turnover of 146,000, including 117,200 rights. The rights yesterday closed up 4 cents at 23 cents, after ranging between 25 and 29 cents. The shares advanced to 25, up ¼ point.

Borg-Warner climbed 1½ to 22 on sales of 1,150 shares, Great Lakes Dredge gained a point to finish at 17½, with 1,100 shares sold, and Zenith Radio moved ¾ higher, finishing at 12¼.

Inauguration yesterday of recording odd lot transactions on the ticker showed that yesterday's volume was 853 shares, or about 13 per cent of the total round and odd lot volume of 6,703 shares in twenty-eight issues.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank stock advanced $6 a share yesterday and Continental Illinois National shares were up $3.50. First National was quoted at $174 bid, $179 asked, and Continental at $61.50 bid, $62.25 asked, both being at their highest level in weeks. Chicago Title and Trust company shares were up $2 at $126 bid, $129 asked. Other principal Chicago bank shares were unchanged from Monday, except for Northern Trust stock, quoted ex-dividend at $485 bid, $500 asked, off $10 a share.

SEN. HOLT RAPS HIGH TAXES AND WAR ON BUSINESS

Names Them as Causes of New Depression.

High taxes and attacks on business were named yesterday by Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] as the government's contribution to the present economic collapse. He spoke before the National Conference of Bakery Owners in convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Sen. Rush Holt.

"For the first five months of this year we find 1,160,000 fewer automobiles were produced than in the same period of 1937; 60 million fewer tons of coal; 4 million fewer railroad cars loaded; 26 billion dollars less in bank clearings; reduction in factory pay rolls by more than 35 per cent; farm income off 20 per cent; and the only seeming increase is in failures recorded, the figures being 2,000 more in 1938 than in 1937," said Senator Holt.

"These are cold, hard facts. We have at least 12 million unemployed. I do not believe that any one thing caused this depression, and I don't think there is much gain in calling it a recession.

"Although we have been told 'we planned it that way and don't let anyone tell you differently' I am of the opinion that it is worthwhile to look at the plans and the planners. Let us see if government had anything to do with this recession."

The senator cited figures to show the increase in cost of federal government from $7.29 per capita in 1916 to $62.69 in the last fiscal year. He said the government's employés increased from 515,772 in the executive branch fifteen years ago to 826,319 in the same branch today, a gain of 311,453.

Interest Beats Old Budget.

"The interest on the national debt next year will be greater than the total expenditure for all federal functions in 1916," he asserted. "It will be approximately a billion dollars. And the great increase of cost of government is not due alone to any expenditure of money for relief.

"Do you know that during 1937 strikes in the United States cost labor 28,424,857 days of work. Much of this can be laid to the ambition of one man in the labor movement—one man who wanted power and was willing to go to most any extreme in securing that power for himself personally. I refer to this because it is a governmental matter. If the issue of sit-down strikes had been met publicly by the President we would not have been subjected to this type of destructive industrial warfare."

Carrier Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me information on the Carrier corporation, manufacturers of air conditioning equipment?—W. J. A.

Answer: The Carrier corporation manufactures and installs air conditioning, ventilating and refrigerating equipment. Its sales are principally to the automobile companies, railroad passenger car makers, chemical, and other industrial companies. Its products are used in office and factory buildings, theaters, stores, hotels, and homes.

The company was incorporated in 1930 under Delaware laws to acquire the business and assets of the Carrier Engineering corporation and several subsidiary companies. During the latter part of 1937 the company acquired the old Franklin Motors plant at Syracuse, N. Y., for $1,000 from the city at a public auction, and Syracuse business men contributed $250,000 to the company to defray expenses incident to moving to the new site and rehabilitation of the property.

The company sold its two plants at Newark, and a plant at Brunswick, N. J., and has closed its other old plants at Allentown and Bridgeport, Pa., which are also up for sale. The new plant contains over 30 acres of manufacturing space.

The company reported net sales in 1937 of $17,412,355 and net income for the year of $250,795, or 64 cents a common share. Sales were not reported in previous years. Net income for 1936 was $507,624, or $1.30 a common share. Losses were reported in the years 1931 to 1935, inclusive, the largest being $673,617 in 1933 and the smallest loss being $86,583 in 1934. Net income for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1930, was $51,889.

The company had 390,808 shares of no par capital stock outstanding at the end of 1937. Preferred stock and dividends in arrears were eliminated in a recapitalization approved in August, 1936, by exchanging five shares of common for each preferred share. Preferred dividends were paid throughout 1931, but none after Jan. 1, 1932. The company has never paid a dividend on its common stock.

The company announced in April of this year that it was bringing out a new small air conditioning unit in two sizes, suitable for moderate sized stores, shops, and offices. A sharp upturn was reported in April sales, due partly to a contract for air conditioning the new transatlantic liner of the United States Lines, but total sales for the first four months of this year were "still substantially behind the first four months of 1937," an official of the company said recently.
